Annual Conference of the National Tax Association.

The ninth annual conference of the National Tax Association will be held at San Francisco, Cal., August 10-14, 1915. Much importance attaches to this conference this year in view of the widespread and increasing interest shown in the subject of National, State and local taxation. A feature of interest will be the report of the Committee on the Federal Income Tax, of which Professor E. R. A. Seligman is chairman. The cooperation of the Treasury Department is expected in the discussion of this report which will aim to suggest points where amendments may be made to secure better administrative results and remove objectionable features.

Another important report will be that of the Committee on Increase of Public Expenditures, of which Dr. T. S. Adams, of the Wisconsin Tax Commission, is chairman. A concise, carefully devised plan for checking waste and introducing economies in fiscal affairs will be discussed. Unusual efforts will be made to obtain a full and complete discussion of the various practical problems which confront the State taxing officials. Judge Oscar Leser, of the Maryland Tax Commission, will have charge of this session which will be participated in by officials from many States. Naturally the interesting and important experiments and developments in taxation in California and the far western States will be featured for the benefit of the visitors from the east.

Numerous special topics of interest will be discussed, including classification of taxable subjects, efficiency in the collection of taxes, taxation of car companies, tax limit laws, valuations of corporations by public service commissions. The report of a committee on status of intangible property will present the latest thought on that important subject. The usual review of legislation in the various States, by M. M. Flannery, of the Federal Trade Bureau, will be of particular interest, in view of the large number of legislative sessions held this year. A study of the meaning of recent action on constitutional amendments will be an instructive feature. The conference will extend over five days, with sessions so arranged that time will be given for visiting the exposition. The annual meeting of the American Economic Association will take place during the same week, and a joint session has been arranged with that association for the discussion of the Federal Income Tax.

The conference is composed of members of the association and official delegates appointed by the executives of the various States and the Canadian provinces, presidents of universities and associations of chartered accountants.

Professor E. R. A. Seligman, of Columbia University, is president of the association; S. T. Howe, chairman of the Kansas Tax Commission, vice-president; and T. S. Adams, of the Wisconsin Tax Commission, secretary.

Reclaiming Land.

That the reclaiming of land and fishing may be correlative is proven at Baldwin Harbor, Long Island, where several hundred acres of meadow land are being filled to grade by the distribution of sand through suction pipes. Several canals are being cut through the property and as the immense dredges loosen the sand a pipe line 1,500 feet long pumps it to various points on the adjacent surface.

As the sand spurts out hundreds of live fish, eels and clams come with it. The ubiquitous small boys are on the ground and catch flounders, weak fish and eels by hand. Every household in Baldwin and vicinity is being supplied with hand-caught fish. One youngster was heard to exclaim that a fish in the hand is worth two on the line.

The extensive reclamation of water front land in progress at Baldwin Harbor marks the first enterprise of the kind in Nassau County in recent years. The shore front of Freeport was reclaimed and improved with cottages a few years ago by John J. Randall.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Holiday weeks are not, as a rule, conducive to active markets, and this week has been no exception to the rule. The feature of the reported transactions has been the sales of tenement houses to small investors. This class of buyer has been more noticeable during the last six weeks than for a long while, which always means a healthy condition. Of course the number of these sales has been restricted, but a start has been made, and if the ratio of increase is maintained a fairly active market will result.

Money is fairly easy and loaning institutions still continue the policy, started some time ago, of placing loans on well located properties. They are more willing to extend mortgages than for many months, which has had a tendency to eliminate many foreclosure sales which were thought necessary some months ago.

Builders are becoming more active, a large number of tenement house projects having been started in the Bronx during the last two months. The scene of the greatest activity is on and adjacent to the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, though other districts are also well represented.

One of the interesting deals of the week is the leasing of a plot in the Herald Square section to a building company which will improve the site with a tall loft building. The lease is for twenty-one years, with three renewal privileges, totalling eighty-four years.

Deals of this character bring up the subject of financing. Business is done on such a large scale in Manhattan that it is rarely that an operation can be financed by an individual. The result is that loaning institutions do the bulk of the business. There has been a movement on foot for some time to have the mortgages run for a long term of years, portions of the principal being payable at stated times. This scheme has worked out satisfactorily in many instances, and the owner is saved considerable outlay when the renewal period comes around.

The cost of placing a mortgage of this size mounts up to a big figure and reduces the net returns to the investor in no inconsiderable amount. If once a loan is placed, the owner knows that as long as he meets his interest charges and pays off a proportion of the principal he will be let alone; he can arrange his business accordingly, and many foreclosure suits will be avoided. In the meanwhile he is creating an additional equity, which makes his position so much the stronger. Some contend that the partial payment plan is not necessary, but every so often there arrives a period when money is exceedingly hard to obtain. Witness 1907 and 1914. It is in those times that owners who should be in a fairly strong position find that their equity is wiped out because a purchaser cannot be found who is willing to pay at auction more than the encumbrances. As a rule, loaning institutions are willing to make long term loans on suitable properties, and when this arrangement can be made it redounds to the advantage of all concerned.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 14, as against 27 last week and 33 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 6, as compared with 12 last week and 3 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 8, as compared with 15 last week and 30 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 129, as against 137 last week, 22 having stated considerations totaling $1,595,050. Mortgages recorded this week numbered 84, involving $3,493,466, as against 82 last week, totaling $1,771,392.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

* Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

The Auction Market.

Considerable interest was manifested in auction room business this week, and outside buyers figured prominently as purchasers of the holdings of various estates and also of foreclosed properties. The largest single offering involved the twenty-story office building at 42-52 Broad street, at the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly, who knocked it down to the plaintiff, the New York Life Insurance Company, for $1,500,000. The company had brought suit against the 50 Broad Street Company et al. to recover a judgment of $1,703,433.44, plus taxes and interest, amounting to $17,508.50. There are two subordinate mortgages, one for $378,000, executed to the Empire Realty Company, and another for $133,694, made in January, 1914, to the Tubes Realty & Terminal Company. The same auctioneer also disposed of three properties of the Gorsch estate, 324-326 East 86th street, for $8,750; 211 East 87th street, for $6,750, and 126-134 West 128th street, for $25,000, respectively to W. P. Zwinge, Morris Isaacs and Charles W. Watson. At the stand of Joseph P. Day, in a partition suit, the Merit Realty Company acquired the apartment houses at 507-509 Lenox avenue for $36,792.

In Brooklyn, the realty holdings of the Josiah T. Smith estate brought, through the William P. Rae Company, a total of $349,900. After spirited bidding, Marie E. Cropsey, one of the heirs, was the successful purchaser of 442 and 444 Fulton street, a three-story business building, in the shopping district of Brooklyn. She paid $325,000. In the same borough, the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company sold twenty-eight lots in Canarsie to various buyers for a total of $9,990.

At the Jamaica-Hillcrest sale, conducted by the William P. Rae Company, 302 lots were sold on Saturday and Monday for a total of $181,200, or an average of about $600 a lot. The remaining 89 lots will be sold today. It was said by those familiar with local real estate conditions that the lots were being sold at comparatively low prices. It was said that lots sold in the present sale for $690 had brought as high as $1,150 in 1911, and other lots, which had brought in 1912 from $650 to $950, were being sold for prices ranging between $310 and $505.

That's why the up-to-date apartment house is a veritable "Castle of Comfort."

Not the least of the many comforts installed is electric lighting service. It places at the fingers' tips of the tenants wonderful opportunities to lessen household cooking and cleaning labors.

DEPARTMENTAL RULINGS.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

The following appeals and decisions have been handed down by the Board of Building Examiners:

APPEAL 185 of 1915, New Building 127 of 1915, 278-280 Madison avenue, Manhattan. F. E. Townsend, appellant.

1. Walls are of unlawful thickness. Sections 26 and 36. Show typical spandrel walls.

That an equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

1. Unlawful thickness of walls.

Equally good construction and economy of space. The building is 147' 10½" high; basement walls to be 20" thick; first story 16" thick, upper walls 12" thick.

Appearance: F. E. Townsend.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that all enclosure walls be carried on the steel work at each floor level above the second tier.

Mr. Crawford recorded as not voting.

APPEAL 187 of 1915, New Building 2519 of 1915, 1019 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn. A. White Pierce, appellant.

Application to modify Sections 33 of previous Code and 254 of New Building Code, which refers to increased thickness of brick walls for buildings that are over 105' in depth, without a cross wall or proper piers or buttresses, shall have the side or bearing walls increased in thickness 4" more than is specified in the respective sections of this Code for the thickness of walls for every 105' or part thereof, that said buildings are over 105' in depth.

That the intent of Sections 33 of previous Code and 254 of new Building Code as set forth in a previous section seems to apply to a building three or more stories in height and in this case does not apply as decided by the Superintendent of Buildings of the Borough of Brooklyn, as more fully set forth in this appeal.

1. That Sections 33 of previous Code and 254 of new Building Code which refers to buildings that are more than 105' in depth without a cross wall, be modified. The building to be erected is a one-story structure, with piers and buttresses in the 12" outer walls, as originally shown, and not as corrected for the increased thickness of walls as per your appellant's interpretation of the above mentioned section, and so indicated on the plans now on file in the Bureau of Buildings, Borough of Brooklyn.

2. If modification of the above mentioned section for the erection of this building, as originally shown on the plans before corrected is not permissible, the interpretation of said section by your Honorable Board is desired.

That the building as shown by plans herebefore mentioned is to be erected upon a corner lot, one story in height, with piers and buttresses in 12" outer walls as originally shown, and not as corrected, giving the same sufficient strength for a building of this area and height.

Appearance: A. White Pierce.

On motion, APPROVED on the following CONDITIONS:

1st. That all piers shall be at least twenty-four inches (24") thick, except those marked "A" on the ground floor plan, which may be omitted.

2d. That all exit doors shall swing out.

3d. That exit doors be provided at points marked "B" on the same plan.

APPEAL 188 of 1915, New Building 2828 of 1915, 243 Adelphi street, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

1. Provide fore and aft brick partition walls.

1. In view of the fact that clear spans are not over 26' and floor beams will be supported on steel girders and columns, ask that this condition be accepted.

See APPEAL 190.

APPEAL 189 of 1915, New Building 2890 of 1915, 485 Van Buren street, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

Wording same as in Appeal 188 of 1915.

See APPEAL 190.

APPEAL 190 of 1915, New Building 2891 of 1915, 479 Van Buren street, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

Appearance: Gilbert I. Prowler.

On motion, Appeals 188, 189 and 190 APPROVED on CONDITION that all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

APPEAL 193 of 1915, New Building 2958 of 1915, 491 Cleveland street, Brooklyn. Chas. Infanger & Son, appellants.

Contrary to Section 31: Building over 26' in width and no brick fore and aft partition walls provided.

Small stretches of walls with short cross girders are substituted in place of fore and aft partition walls.

Omit fore and aft partition walls and substitute cross girders as shown. All columns and girders supporting all floors, roofs or walls will be fireproof in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

To put in brick fore and aft partition walls would make it impossible to obtain 6 families on a floor.

Appearance: Otto C. Infanger.

On motion, APPROVED (in view of the fact that cross-walls are provided).

APPEAL 194 of 1915, New Building 130 of 1915, 31 West 71st street, Manhattan. Robert T. Lyons, appellant.

1. Walls are of unlawful thickness.

2. Unlawful percentage of lot area covered.

The Superintendent of Buildings for the Borough of Manhattan has refused to approve the mode, manner of construction and materials employed in the erection of such building.

1. Will the Board approve 12" walls above and including the first story?

2. Will the Board approve the percentage of lot area to be covered?

1. The walls will be laid up in cement and will be supported at each tier on the steel framing.

2. The building will be but 133' high, large court and yard area has been provided. All the floors, trim, window frames and sash throughout the building will be fireproof, all glass will be wire-glass.

Appearance: Robert T. Lyons.

On motion, APPROVED, as to thickness of walls, on CONDITION that the walls are carried on the steel at each floor level. DISAPPROVED, as to percentage of lot area proposed to be covered.

APPEAL 195 of 1915, Alteration 711 of 1915, 719-723 Greenwich street, Manhattan. H. V. Hartman, appellant.

5. Walls are of unlawful thickness. Party wall linings are unlawful as to thickness.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction is being employed.

Can the cellar walls be made 20" thick, the first and second story walls 16" thick and the third, fourth and fifth and sixth floors 12" thick, and the lining of the party wall to the north be 12" thick in the cellar and 12" thick above?

1. The height of the building is 70' and yet there are only six stories as would be possible were the height only 60'.

2. The extension is only 17' wide between bearing walls whereas a width of 25' is permissable for lawful walls.

3. The floors are light wood floors without plaster whereas no objection would be raised to lawful walls where heavy fireproof floor arches are used on a span of 25' between bearing walls.

4. The only additional load in this case when compared to the thinner walls of a 60' building, both buildings having six stories and equal floor loads, is 10' of brick wall.

5. Walls will be laid up in Portland Cement mortar, whereas no objection would be raised if the lawful walls were laid up in lime mortar.

6. The lawful bearing wall can have 30% of openings even if laid up in lime mortar. This cement wall work has no openings in bearing walls.

7. The cement wall as desired is much stronger than a lawful lime wall, that is, it has a larger safety factor.

8. The amount involved is more than $1,000.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 196 of 1915, New Building 2989 of 1915, 107 Havemeyer street, Brooklyn. Farber & Markwitz, appellants.

Contrary to Section 31 as to fore and aft brick partition walls, and height of walls.

Rules and regulations of the President of the Borough of Brooklyn and Section 31 of the Building Code do not apply.

Necessity of providing brick fore and aft partition walls. Necessity of increasing the 2nd story walls to 16" thickness.

The span between bearings does not exceed 26'. Columns and girders supporting beams will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings. NOTE: Brick fire wall dividing building. The 12" portion of brick walls does not exceed 50' 8" in height and also all walls are laid up in approved cement mortar.

Appearance: A. Markwitz.

On motion, APPROVED on the following CONDITIONS:

1st: That a self-closing fireproof door be provided in the cellar at point marked "A."

2nd: That an unpierced brick wall at least eight inches thick be provided at the point marked "B" on the first floor plan, extending from the cellar floor to the second floor.

3rd: That that portion of the second floor over the space marked "C" on the first floor plan be made of fireproof construction.

4th: That an unpierced brick wall at least eight inches thick be provided at the point marked "D" on second and upper floor plans, extending from second floor to the underside of the roof-boards.

5th: That all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

APPEAL 197 of 1915, New Building 2990 of 1915, 103 Havemeyer street, Brooklyn. Farber & Markwitz, appellants.

2nd: That the opening marked "B" on the first floor plan be closed up with brick, full thickness of the walls.

3rd: That all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

APPEAL 198 of 1915, Fire Shutter Case No. 1 of 1915, 714 Fifth avenue, Manhattan. Woodruff Leeming, appellant.

The windows open on to a small court surrounded by the walls of the adjoining buildings in which there are no windows.

The present fire-escape takes up most of the space in this court and it would be very difficult to retain the necessary fire-escape if iron shutters were put on these windows.

APPROVED.

Comply with Section 31 of Code.

The floors are divided into areas of 2,000 square feet, or less by unpierced brick fire walls and all columns and girders are to be fireproofed as approved by the Superintendent of Buildings.

Whether or not the unpierced brick fire wall with all columns and girders properly fireproofed will be permitted.

Whether or not the unpierced brick fire wall with all columns and girders fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings will be permitted.

To save space and expense as the construction proposed is equally as good as could be obtained by following the letter of the Code and because these plans were approved in 1914 and the permit expired by limitation.

Appearance: W. T. McCarthy.

On motion, APPROVED on the following CONDITIONS:

1st: That openings at the point marked "A" on the cellar plan be provided with self-closing fireproof doors.

1. Comply with Section 31 of Code for brick partition walls fore and aft spans exceed 26' 0" between bearing walls.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed. And it being claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the said Borough, or the provisions of law, or ordinances do not apply.

That the distance between the main bearing walls is not over 26' 0" apart and therefore no fore and aft partition walls are necessary.

APPEAL 206 of 1915, New Building 2575 of 1915, 891 East 14th street, Brooklyn. William C. Winters, appellant.

Girders and columns in lieu of brick partitions.

The construction in this case, is just as safe as if constructed of brick wall. For it is proposed to fireproof both columns and girders also roof of walls in accordance with the regulations of the Building Department.

Construction of columns and girder supports in lieu of brick wall as called for by Section 31 of the Building Code.

That a brick wall would not be any better construction than as herein suggested. It would take up unnecessary amount of room and would spoil the general lay out.

Appearance: William C. Winters.

On motion, APPROVED (in view of the fact that cross-walls are shown on the plans) on the following CONDITIONS:

1st: That self-closing fireproof door be provided at point marked "A" on the cellar plan.

2nd: That all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

APPEAL 207 of 1915, New Building 2902 of 1915, 2245 Pitkin avenue, Brooklyn. William C. Winters, appellant.

That building does not comply with Section 109 of Building Code.

As building is only to be used as a Motion Picture House and not a theatre and it is not intended to operate both floors at the same time therefore not having more than six hundred people at any performance. Building is also constructed of fireproof material throughout.

Why a motion picture house should be compared with the theatre laws. We have complied with all the laws and rules regarding a motion picture building for both floors, providing proper means of exit, width of stairs, doors, etc.

We consider that as building is constructed entirely of fireproof material and proper means of exit have been provided eliminate every means of danger from fire, etc.

Appearance: William C. Winters.

On motion, APPROVED on the following CONDITIONS:

1st: That the auditorium and the roof garden be not used simultaneously.

APPEAL 209 of 1915, New Building 3121 of 1915, 30 Linden avenue, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

1. Comply with Section 31 Code. Provide fore and aft brick partition walls.

2. Also 8" stairhall walls and wall from stairhall wall to street court wall contrary to Section 31 Code.

1. In view of the fact that clear spans are not over 26' and floor beams will be supported on steel girders and columns, ask that this condition be accepted.

2. As only small portion of stairhall walls are used for bearing also as front fore and aft wall is only 12' 2" long request that this condition be accepted.

1. Omit fore and aft brick partition walls and provide girders and columns in lieu of same.

2. 8" stairhall walls also front fore and aft 8" wall to be used as bearing walls.

1. As the clear span between bearing is not over 26' and steel columns and girders will be provided to support floor beams and columns and girders will be fireproofed request that this condition be accepted. All columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

2. As fore and aft wall will be provided in lieu of girder and as wall is only 12' 2" long and tied at both ends, request that this condition be accepted. Also stairhall walls be accepted to be 8" thick.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

OPERATING FROM A MANAGER'S STANDPOINT

By JOHN C. KNIGHT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

LET us look for a bit at the history of the office building, or rather of the skyscraper, as it now exists. The first skyscraper to be erected in New York City was the Tower Building at 50 Broadway in 1868. It was eight stories high, skeleton steel construction, and had passenger elevators. In 1889-90 the new World Building, sixteen stories high, was considered marvelous and held that distinction for several years. In 1898 some of the tallest buildings were the Ivins Syndicate Company, twenty-eight stories, the St. Paul with twenty-six stories, the Commercial Cable with twenty, and the Manhattan Life with eighteen. Today New York has over 700 high buildings, the fifty-five story Woolworth heading the list.

New Era in Chicago.

In Chicago the Home Insurance Building, built in 1884, was the first building where rolled steel was used in the framework. Cast iron was used in the lower stories and above the sixth floor steel was used. The first building to have box steel construction throughout was the Tacoma Building in Chicago, which was built in 1888. In the Monadnock Building, the same city, built in 1881, it was thought necessary to reinforce the steel with masonry throughout the entire height. The walls of the first story were 8 feet thick. This method was abandoned in 1893, and buildings since that time in Chicago, as New York, have been skeleton construction.

The conditions which tended to create skyscrapers were, first, the construction mentioned; second, passenger elevators invented in 1853, the hydraulic elevator invented in 1871, and perfected about 1880; plate glass developed in this country about 1880, and in 1881 the James B. Ford Plate Glass Works of Creighton, Pa., was the first large factory to produce this material on a commercial scale: electric light and power developed about 1882. In other words, the first Edison station in New York was started in 1882. Bridge building, both in America and abroad, about 1880, produced steel workers, and about that time Bessemer and Siemens-Martin steel processes were invented, producing the steel.

Speed Essential.

When we consider that the great European cathedrals grew to completion in from forty to one hundred years, and that the public buildings and postoffices in this United States of America are usually obsolete before they are completed, we realize that the profit side of the ledger of the modern office building is largely affected by the speed with which it is erected.

For many years the architect has been supreme in the production of buildings. I have given you the dates to impress upon your minds the facts that the modern building manager, the modern electrical engineer, structural engineer, ventilating engineer, sanitary engineer, have had less than thirty years' experience. Whether this experience is long enough to create experts I am not prepared to state. The modern architect assumes that it is not, and he goes ahead creating a building with a beautiful exterior, with all the sub-divisions of the interior subservient to lines of beauty and without consulting with the building manager, except in a few rare instances, to produce a building that will pay the desired returns and allow the manager a free hand to give to the tenant the things he would like to give him.

The effect of modern construction seems to be that the architect's fee has been doubled and it has enabled him to cover up the engineering minds, just as well educated as his, making them employes of his office, subject to him alone. In fact, I have known architects to O. K. bills for materials absolutely condemned by electrical and ventilating experts supposed to be employed on that particular work. The various engineers, striving to build up a practice on ethical lines, free from contact with people who supply goods, specifying only on their merit, do not dare to oppose the architects for fear that on future work they will not be employed.

Building Managers' Duties.

The building manager's duties call for adaptability, patience and diplomacy, together with aggressiveness, but that aggressiveness should not lead him to proceed without caution. I remember a certain building in another city which displayed a sign, "This Building Completed and Ready for Occupancy May 1st." The manager had his leases made and all his conditions arranged for that one idea. He did not realize that on a certain morning the walking delegates from the carpenters' and the masons' unions would come to the building, look up at that sign and say, "Yes, it will if he sees us," and place him in a position where he could not complete his building on May 1st, and could not live up to his leases made on that date unless he came across, but I am proud to say he did not come across.

Ideal Conditions.

When the architect will specify a building constructed with standard sizes of steel, using stock doors, equipped with hardware which can be procured of standard design in the hardware store, and which can be duplicated at a reasonable cost, then will you, Mr. Owner, and you, Mr. Tenant, have conditions from the building manager which will be to your liking. When you, Mr. Owner, will take advantage of the twenty-five or more years' experience of the building manager, and are willing to pay him during the time of construction of your building from the minute that you conceive the idea, then to you, Mr. Tenant, will be given conditions that will approach your ideals. The building manager on the job, the representative of the owner, going over all the plans and specifications, reporting to him alone throughout all this preparation and completion, will produce conditions for economy which must give satisfaction to all concerned.

Money Savers.

From the little things, like giving to each carpenter a stick so that the hinges will be placed in the same position and the locks placed at the same height on all the doors, so that one may be taken down and another put in its place at the smallest cost, to the larger conditions like the location of lavatories, plumbing pipes of such sizes and in such locations that they can be readily repaired, to the typical floor plan which is usually submitted by the architect and which has no other approval than that given by an inexperienced owner or by a board of directors, either one perhaps assisted by conferences with business friends, who know as little about the subjects as the owners themselves, the practical knowledge of the building manager is invaluable.

Necessity for Architects.

I do not advocate in any way dispensing with the architect's services. I believe that any other body of men would give up as reluctantly as they have the things which they have always considered their prerogative. In the early days before the structural engineer, the steel plans were not produced by the architect but were turned out by the general contractor. This condition existed for several years until complications made it advisable for the architect to employ his own engineers. This condition applied equally well to other services.

Building managers are eager, earnest, persevering men, who have efficiency as their watchword; economy as their slogan, and service as the goal for which they are striving. As a class, they strive to serve faithfully the interests of the property owners, and to maintain the structures at as small an outlay to the owner as possible.

"NEW LOTS" POST OFFICE SUB STATION

Henry J. Kappes, Gen'l Contractor. P. Tillion & Son, Arch'ts.

P. TILLION & SON, architects, 381 Fulton street, Brooklyn, have completed plans and specifications for the construction of a two-story post office building, to be known as the "New Lots" station. This building will be located on the south side of Glenmore avenue, 50 feet east of Crystal street and will occupy a plot 50 x 100 feet. The building is being erected by Henry Kappes, owner and builder, 108 Van Siclen avenue, Brooklyn, and will be leased to the United States Government, Treasury Department. The facade has been designed in the Colonial style of architecture and will be constructed of brick and limestone. The equipment and furnishings throughout will be modern in every respect. The cost of the operation is given as being about $25,000, exclusive of the cost of the land.

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.

General Utility Range.

THIS range is designed for general utility in either residences, apartments or flats. The construction is substantial and it is equipped with the usual number of burners and a simmerer. There are two ovens, one of ordinary size and the other slightly smaller where broiling may be done, the heat from the broiling flame being utilized in the cooking oven above. It has a plate warming shelf that extends over the cookers as well as over the ovens.

Concrete Mixture Scale.

THERE is illustrated herewith a new cement mixing scale chart that ought to prove a handy implement for architects and contractors as well as for building managers having small concrete jobs to do about their buildings. It is especially valuable for telling exactly how much cement to buy, and how much bond and how much sand to use.

The scale is copyrighted and is so designed that at a glance and without figuring the proper proportions of cement, stone and sand can be accurately ascertained for either of three mixtures, for any given number of yards of concrete desired.

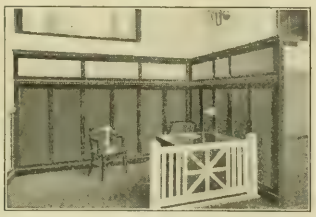
It was originated from practical tests when made by expert engineers during the work of constructing the Atlantic avenue subway in Brooklyn. This scale, of heavy cardboard, has been examined by construction engineers since its completion in the present form and pronounced as absolutely correct.

The scale as shown is circular in form on a square cardboard background. By revolving the center disk the exact proportions correctly are indicated in the slot governing grade of batch. The proportions shown are always exact, as they always allow enough material for the desired job without shortage or waste, avoiding deliveries of material in quantity more than once for any given job. The scale also provides for wastage and at the same time giving a "standard concrete" of the desired mix. It is possible to obtain any combination of mixes desired in these scales.



Grained Wood Panels.

COMPOSITION materials of one form or another have made such remarkable progress in the construction world in recent years that it is not surprising that the demand for imitation grained wood panels should be anticipated. Such a material is now on the market, and it is meeting with unusual demand.

The basic element of this material is a specially selected imported broom straw shredded and these fibres form the basic part of the fabric after being put through a chemical process to remove all resinous matter. The fibres are then built up under great pressure to any desired thickness. The manufacturers of this particular panel draw a very decided distinction between their product and wall boards. The whole effect of the manufacturers of these panels is to produce in exact imitation the true characteristics of real wood. The grains appearing in the manufactured product are an exact reproduction of the grains in a real piece of wood of the type imitated because the interlineations are made by a special process peculiar with the manufacturers of this material. The manufacturers are making a specialty of consulting with architects with reference to interior decorative schemes and making up panels to match special requirements.

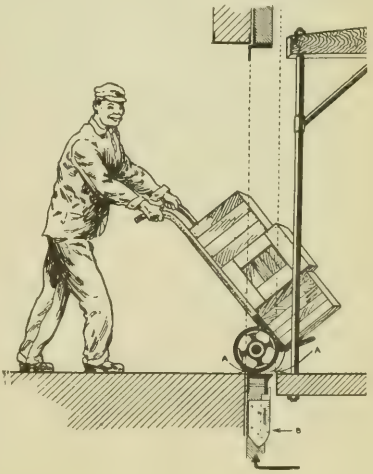
A Kitchenette Range.

REALIZING that the apartment house kitchenette has come to stay, there is being introduced by an enterprising gas stove manufacturer a range that has virtues particularly attractive to small apartment hunters. The great difficulty with ranges in kitchenettes is that they usually are built to conform to a generally restricted area. Roasting space in the ovens is decidedly limited. This range takes up practically no more floor space than an ordinary gas range, yet it has an oven twenty-two inches wide by nineteen and one-half inches deep and fourteen inches high. This stove, in brief, consists of an oven and cooker, one upon the other. Without side shelves it is thirty-eight inches wide by twenty-four inches deep. With side shelves the width is forty-eight inches. It has six top burners, three of which are of giant capacity. The other three are of the ring type and have an automatic lighter.

Patented Store Front.

STORE fronts containing special virtues that appeal to merchants are being featured this spring. One of these features is a patented setting for glass that insures against breakage through contraction or expansion. The store front is manufactured complete in factory and sent to job to be set in. The ventilating and drainage sill is wood with metal covering, formed so that there is a gutter on the inside which catches all moisture on the window pane due to condensation of atmosphere within or from rain or wash water and carries it out through non-rusting tubes. These also act as ventilating openings. The wood is so thoroughly protected that no decay can occur at any part of the window.

Continuous Elevator Landing Floor.

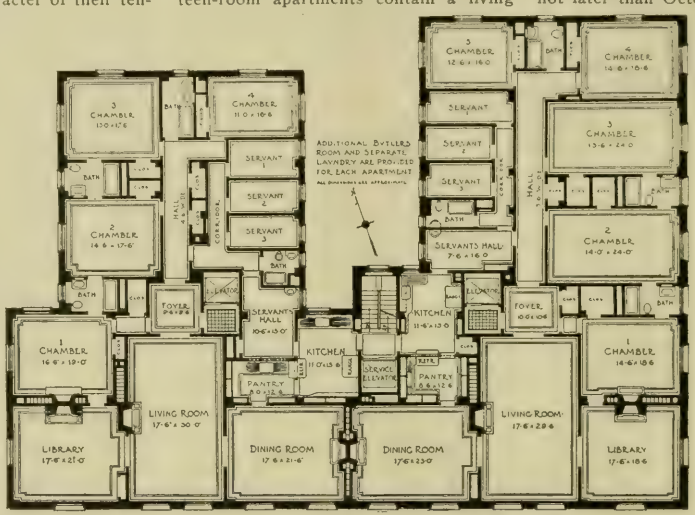


THERE is always danger in elevator shafts of the wheels of a loaded truck becoming caught between the elevator car floor and the landing. In such an event the safety of the operator or the truckman is likely to be seriously menaced. The time lost in trying to get the wheels out of the slough frequently upsets an entire schedule and makes for irate tenants.

Practically every manufacturer and every jobber knows what this means, and yet he does not seem to realize that it is entirely avoidable by means of an elevator door now on the market that gives a firm and sturdy platform between the floor of the elevator car and the floor landing, by the simple operation of opening the door. Furthermore it is a safety check against the sudden starting or stopping of the elevator.

These doors have been in service in some of the large mercantile buildings of the city and, according to the manufacturers, have given perfect satisfaction.

There is a wide flange at the top of the bottom door which sets within a fraction of an inch from the elevator car floor. When the door is lowered the lower part rests upon solid, adjustable stops, relieving all weight from the chains on the door when opened; thus a smooth, solid trucking sill is formed by the upper edge of the lower door and all chance of accident like that shown is eliminated. The element of time-saving alone is worth the cost of installation, say the manufacturers of the device.



CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Notable Additions to Park Avenue Section, Involving Erection of Several High-Class Apartment Houses

AS a location for high-class multi-family houses, Park avenue continues to be attractive to speculative builders. The section is growing rapidly and shows every indication of continued advancement and prestige, and its popularity for many years to come has been assured by the nature of its buildings and the character of their tenants. The Park avenue apartments, so far, have been uniformly successful, and have led investors and operators to erect many other structures of similar character.

At the northwest corner of Park avenue and 54th street, the Four Hundred Park Avenue Company, Inc., S. Fullerton Weaver, president, 30 East 42d street, is building an apartment house of the highest type, designed to compare favorably with any erected in the section. This structure is being constructed on land owned by the New York Central & Hudson River R. R. Co., and leased to the owners of the building for a long term of years. The cost of this project is placed at about $600,000.

Warren & Wetmore, Arch'ts

TYPICAL FLOOR PLAN, FOUR HUNDRED PARK AVENUE.

Warren & Wetmore, architects, 16 East 47th street, prepared the plans and specifications from which this apartment is being erected. No general contract for its construction was awarded, the owner sub-letting the various branches of labor and materials in separate contracts. The structural steel was furnished and erected by the Hinkle Iron Co., 534 West 56th street and the ornamental iron supplied by Garman Bros. & Co., 322 East 75th street. The contract for the shoring was secured by Miller Daybill & Co., Avenue B and 18th street. The contract for the heating and plumbing was obtained by W. G. Cornell & Co., Fourth avenue and 17th street, and the elevators were awarded to the Otis Elevator Co., 26th street and 11th avenue.

The brick mason work is being done by the Micweil Company, Inc., 162 East 23d street, plastering by the Klee-Thompson Co., 327 East 40th street, and the concrete floor and arch construction by the National Fireproofing Co., Broadway and 23d street. The cut stone for the facades was supplied by J. Hutchinson & Sons, 2383 First avenue, and the tile work has been awarded to the McLaury Tile Co., Walnut avenue and 141st street. L. H. Woods, 2355 Jerome avenue, has the contract for the electric wiring and the fireproof doors are being made and supplied by the Oriental Fire Proof Sash & Door Co., 721 East 133d street. The contract for the roofing was awarded to the New York Roofing Co., 535 East 19th street, and the trim is being supplied by the Empire City-Gerard Co., 265 Greenpoint avenue, Brooklyn.

As in the majority of Park avenue apartments, this structure is twelve stories in height. The facades are built entirely of limestone. These facades are very simply treated and in design follow the best of the style of the Adam period.

This structure contains two apartments on each floor, one of fifteen and the other containing fourteen rooms. The larger of the two suites occupies the Park avenue frontage and half the frontage on East 54th street. The fifteen-room apartments contain a living room 17.6x29.6 feet, dining room 17.6x 23 feet, library 17.6x18.6 feet, five master bedrooms of good size and proportions, three servants' bedrooms, servants' hall, foyer, kitchen, butlers' pantry and four bathrooms. With one exception only, the master bedrooms have outlook upon Park avenue.

Warren & Wetmore, Arch'ts.

FOUR HUNDRED PARK AVENUE.

In the community rooms and in one of the chambers open fireplaces are installed. The apartments abound in built-in closets which are very conveniently located. The service portion of these suites have for their outlook a wide yard court.

The fourteen-room suites are arranged in practically the same plan with the exception that the master bedrooms are arranged along a side and yard court. The rooms are practically of the same size and the appointments are identical. In another part of the building additional butlers' rooms and separate laundry are provided.

These apartments are designed to rent from $5,500 to $7,500 a year, according to the number of rooms and their height above the street. The renting is in charge of the Fullerton Weaver Realty Co., 30 East 42d street, or Douglas L. Elliman Company, Inc., 421 Madison avenue. According to present plans the building will be ready for occupancy not later than October 1, 1915.

Another project, similar in general style, will soon be started at the southeast corner of Park avenue and 55th street. This structure will occupy the site at 409-413 Park avenue and 101 East 55th street. The owner is the Park Avenue & 55th Street Corporation, the Swan Brown Co., 340 Madison avenue.

Cross & Cross, architects, 10 East 47th street, have prepared the plans and specifications from which this building is to be erected. The electric and refrigerating engineers are Clark MacMullen & Riley, 101 Park avenue. This building will have facades of brick, limestone and terra cotta. The structure will be thirteen stories in height and will cover a plot 60x100 feet. The consulting engineer for steel construction was Robert W. Boyd, 105 West 40th street. Contracts for the construction of this project have not been awarded, although the old buildings on the site have been demolished.

Bing & Bing, general contractors, recently purchased the plot 107x150 feet, at the northwest corner of Park avenue and 84th street, which they purpose to improve with a fifteen-story apartment house of the highest type. No architect has been retained and no definite details have been decided upon at this time.

Another recent project proposed for this section is to be located on the southwest corner of Park avenue and 81st street which was purchased by Edgar A. Levy, 505 Fifth avenue. The plot is 80x102.2 feet and Mr. Levy contemplates the erection of a twelve-story multi-family dwelling to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000. The details of this operation have not been arranged and it is not likely that active work will be started till next spring as there are existing leases which do not expire till May 1, 1916.

It has been only during the last few years that the Park avenue section, north of 45th street, has been developed along modern lines. The improvements on this thoroughfare and in adjacent streets include new structures of various types. Exclusive clubs, churches, handsome private dwellings and high-class apartment houses have been erected and others are contemplated.

Among the new buildings, the apartment house type predominates, however, and in the group of those recently completed or now under construction are numbered some of the best designed and most completely equipped suites to be had in the city.

SAVING PROPERTY OWNERS' MONEY

Gas and Steam Companies Will, at the Request of the Advisory Council, Assume Expense of Shut-off Valves at Curb

UNDER date of November 10, 1914, an ordinance was adopted by the Board of Aldermen regulating the installation and maintenance in buildings of plumbing, water supply, gas and other systems of piping. Section 2 of this ordinance provided that shut-off valves should be placed on all gas, steam or water pipes on the outside of every building hereafter erected and also every existing building occupied by three or more families and of more than fifteen sleeping rooms. Such valve or other device should further be marked so as to indicate the contents and purposes of the supply pipe to which it was attached.

This ordinance is merely a reiteration of Section 762 of the Charter, while a similar provision for shut-off valves for gas and steam was part of the Building Code which went into effect December, 1899—Section 89. This latter section, however, was seldom enforced; but since the new ordinance went into effect, November 10, 1914, the Bureau of Buildings enforced this new provision which is practically the same as the old, with the exception that water pipes were added to gas and steam pipes. If the expense of installing these shut-off valves was placed upon the owners of existing buildings, as well as of new buildings, the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests believes property owners would be required to assume a burden which might be commensurate with the benefits derived therefrom.

"Every violation of the provisions of this ordinance would subject the owner, agent or lessee of the building, as well as the architect, builder, or contractor who assisted in the commission of such violation, to the same legal procedure and the same penalties as prescribed for violation of the Building Code," says a statement from the Council. "Thus, in addition to the large expense entailed in tearing up of pavements to install these shut-off valves, the added responsibility for penalties would be imposed upon the property owner. With a view of lightening this burden, the Advisory Council, through its Building Code Committee, consisting of Messrs. Henry W. Hodge, chairman, Julius Franke and Otto M. Eidlitz, has had conferences with the representatives of the gas, water and steam companies. As a result of these conferences with the representatives of the Consolidated Gas Co., it has been arranged that the gas companies will assume the entire expense for the installation of shut-off valves at the curb, in so far as gas pipes are concerned.

"This will obviate the necessity of placing automatic or manual stopcocks in the building proper. It is understood that the cost of installing a stopcock or shut-off valve at the curb approximates close to $15 for each pipe. The economy thereby effected through the willingness of the Consolidated Gas Co. to meet this expense will be very large, when it is understood that property owners throughout the city will be concerned. The steam heat companies will also provide at their expense any additional installation of these shut-off valves over which they have control. The only difficulty that remains, therefore, is as to whether or not property owners will be required to bear the expense for valves upon water pipes. The city Water Department has no funds with which to pay for the installation of these stopcocks upon water pipes, and is not prepared to state that any funds will be provided for such a purpose.

"The Advisory Council therefore believes it wise for all property owners' associations to insist that the Building Code be amended so as to eliminate water pipes from the provisions of this ordinance. If this can be accomplished, considerable economy to property owners will result. The reason for the installation of the shut-off valves is that the supply of gas and steam may be cut off from the building in the time of a fire. The Fire Prevention Bureau insists that they be installed for this purpose; and it would seem more desirable to have them placed at the curb, under the pavement, than within the house, so as to be readily accessible in time of emergency.

"However, the same conditions during a fire applicable to gas and steam do not apply to water. Therefore it is evident that shut-off valves upon water pipes entering buildings are not essentially important. Upon this basis, property owners can justly request the Board of Aldermen to amend the ordinance so as to apply only to gas and steam pipes. In so far as these latter cases are concerned, it has been possible, as stated above, for the Advisory Council to arrange that the expense be borne by the gas and steam heat companies."

A MODEL BUILDING CODE.

Characteristics of the Revised Edition of the Underwriters' Regulations.

A revised (fourth) edition of the Building Code recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters has just been issued. It contains three new features. One is the use of numerous notes scattered through the text, serving either as recommendations, cautions, or explanations. The second is the introduction of cuts illustrating details of construction, and the third is the use of frequent cross references in the text which will aid in quickly finding allied subjects. The object of these changes is to make the code a guide or textbook for the use of commissions engaged in drafting building ordinances, and is designed to cover all the essential features of construction which such a commission would be likely to discuss.

The revision was in charge of the committee on the Construction of Buildings, of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, of which committee C. G. Smith is chairman. The committee had the able assistance of Prof. Ira H. Woolson, consulting engineer to the National Board. Attention is called in the foreword of the volume to the "Suggested Building Ordinance for Small Towns and Villages," also issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, for the use of municipalities too small to require an ordinance as comprehensive as the one under consideration.

In addition to the prominent new features heretofore mentioned, the treatment of the following subjects is either distinctly new or so radical a revision of old requirements as to constitute practically a new material.

A broader application of the table covering allowable floor areas, both with and without sprinklers, and more generous allowance for efficient protection.

An entirely new treatment of the sub-

THE NEW CHAPEL IN TRINITY CEMETERY

DEDICATION services of the new Chapel of the Intercession, one of the Trinity Church chapels, were held last week and the building, designed by Bertram G. Goodhue, architect, 2 West 47th street, was officially declared opened. Services have been held for some time in the edifice by the Rev. Milo H. Gates, vicar of the chapel. One of the interesting features of the structure is the main altar, composed of one hundred and six stones, collected by Mr. Gates, each having some historical and religious significance. The church was founded in 1846, the first service being held in the old Moorwood house, then located at the southeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 155th street, in what was known as the village of Carmansville. A church was later erected at the northwest corner of Broadway and 157th street, and several years ago was absorbed by Trinity Corporation. The church was one of the most prosperous in the city, but the historic Black Friday ruined many of its supporters and debts began to pile up. Prior to the taking over of the church by Trinity Corporation, it is said that there were only 256 communicants, while today there are approximately 2,500 registered communicants. The present building is located in old Trinity Cemetery, bounded by 153d, 155th streets, Amsterdam avenue and Riverside Drive. The old structure, at 156th street, is still standing, though not used as a place of worship. The corporation sold some of the property abutting on the north to speculative builders, who have erected, during the last five years, apartment houses. The building up of Washington Heights changed the condition of the finances of the church, for a vast number of residents were brought into the section. Old private dwellings were demolished to make way for apartments, and vacant lands were similarly improved.

Edison Service is proving the city over the only answer to the light and power riddle. In place of private plant annoyance and extravagance, it offers absolute security at lowest cost

HARRY D. APPLEBY has resigned as Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Design and Survey of the Borough of Manhattan, New York City. The bureau has been abolished and the work divided among the bureaus of highways, sewers and topography.

BARTOLOME M. RAFFO, a prominent architect of Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, recently arrived in New York. He will make an extended tour of this country for the purpose of making a study of American architecture and building methods.

WHEELING STOVE & RANGE COMPANY, Wheeling, W. Va., recently opened a branch office at 50 Vestry st, Manhattan, in charge of C. N. Cumberland as manager. A full line of gas ranges, heating stoves, hot plates, ovens, water heaters, etc., will be on display.

GEORGE H. WELLS, architect, who has been with Cass Gilbert during the last fifteen years, has withdrawn from Mr. Gilbert's organization for the purpose of separately practicing his profession. He has opened offices at 10 East 43d st. Telephone, 5646 Murray Hill.

S & S WINDOW CORPORATION, 41 Liberty st, has received a contract to furnish the S & S ventilating and reversible windows on all street fronts of the new Central Branch Young Men's Christian Association Building in Brooklyn. Trowbridge & Ackerman, architects.

BRUNSWICK-BALKE-COLLENDER CO., manufacturers of billiard tables and bar fixtures, has decided to discontinue their activity in the bar fixture line. It is understood that their plant at Dubuque, Ia., which was devoted exclusively to the manufacture of bar fixtures, will be used for making talking machine and piano cases.

WILLIAM A. KLEMANN, secretary of the New Jersey State Board of Architects, recently called the attention of the public to the existing law against the practice of the profession of architecture without a license in the State of New Jersey. This law is to protect builders against a letting down of standards in art as applied to buildings.

PRESTON K. YATES, consulting engineer, Equitable Building, 120 Broadway, has admitted his son, Sheldon F. Yates, into partnership, under the firm name of Yates & Yates. Sheldon F. Yates was for two years an instructor in the Harvard Engineering School under Professor Swain. He has since then been principal assistant engineer on the construction of the New Haven Trap Rock Co.'s plant at North Branford, Conn.

CITY EMPLOYEES in Brooklyn must now be punctual. A new time system has been adopted by the heads of city departments in that borough for the employees under them. The regulation went into effect June 1. All employees must in future record on a time-sheet the hour and minute of their arrival at their respective offices. If they are late four days in the month, a day is clipped from their vacation.

NATIONAL FIREPROOFING COMPANY, whose Natco hollow tile is used so extensively for the fireproofing of buildings is applying its material to a new form of sewer construction. It is claimed for this tile that a lineal foot of it displaces approximately fourteen ordinary bricks, saving cement and time. A lock-joint feature produces such tenacity that an assembled section may be suspended after allowing the cement but twenty-four hours to set. Accordingly, the sewer may be assembled in half or whole sections before lowering into the trench, thus saving much time in building the sewer and obviating any of the costly delays so commonly experienced because of wet trenches.

On arrival at Poughkeepsie the directors were taken for a motor tour of the city and suburbs. Returning they were taken aboard the yacht "Clara," where luncheon was served, while the boat steamed up the river about 15 miles. After landing the party was escorted to the Nelson House for dinner. BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

NATIONAL CONSTRUCTION SHOWS NET GAIN OF $10,000,000—CEMENT AND BRICK MOVE UP

Further Advance in Copper—Brass Manufacturers Withdraw Quotations

ACCORDING to construction statistics compiled for the metropolitan district, the great preponderance of demand for material now developing is for hastily constructed mill shops required by firms making war supplies of one sort or another. Notable among the orders taken in the last three weeks have been orders for munitions for the United States Government. In the lists are powder, machinery, metal ceiling, corrugated iron mills, a grain elevator, a searchlight factory, a cheese factory, a butter manufacturing plant, a packing plant, several additions to meat refrigeratories, one ship building plant, a wire-making factory and many cloth and shoe mills.

A majority of the operations are for one and two-story structures, mostly of manufactured material, like corrugated iron, wire cloth and expanded metal, some concrete reinforcement, but not much brick, steel, stone or cement. The lime and plaster markets have not reported marked impetus in orders emanating from this class of building work, so the inference is that the construction work is finished with composition boards or metal. There is a great change for the better in factory flooring in the lumber department, a department that has been stagnant for some time. Studding is said to be in better demand in the wholesale market for this class of construction.

The building situation in general is active. Bradstreets, from incomplete reports received to date, looks for an actual increase over national building construction for the same month last year. There will be shown a net gain of more than $10,000,000 for large cities. Manhattan and the Bronx shows a gain of $6,000,000; Chicago, despite the strike, shows a gain of $1,000,000; Cleveland, of $3,000,000, and Milwaukee a drop of only $500,000, from last year's figures. The total building figures for the country are expected to show a normal state of building for 130 cities for the first time since the war began.

Prices of building materials open June at about the same level as last month. Portland cement is the notable exception. This has advanced about ten cents a barrel. With the exception of one or two small companies every manufacturer supplying this market from the Hudson or Lehigh valleys has listed the product at $1.32 a barrel, alongside of dock, N. Y., in wholesale lots. The smaller companies who have not put their prices up to a profit-taking base are rapidly filling to capacity for building construction and taking contracts some distance ahead. Other manufacturers are now selling cement at prices giving them a small margin of profit, while the cutters are taking orders at an actual loss. As soon as they fill up to the limit of their production capacity, they will be forced to bring their prices to the new level and the consumer will have no alternative but to pay more for this commodity.

The May statistics for shipments of cement, considered a reliable barometer for the rise and fall of the construction movement in the metropolitan district, will show a gain over the total reported for April which was in excess of 13 per cent. over March. In May 2,690,000 barrels were shipped, or 125,000 more than in May, 1914, from Zone No. 1.

Edward M. Hager, who is organizing the large national cement manufacturing company, was at the Waldorf-Astoria this week. There was a rumor that the Edison plant at New Village, N. J., may be the Lehigh Valley member of the chain. Verification was not obtainable from Edison officials, however. Intimation was given that except for a few minor details the Century Portland Cement Company, the name of the new company, is about ready for incorporation, which will be under the laws of Delaware.

Copper, brass, spelter and lead have advanced another cent a pound, making the former 24 cents; brass, 25 cents; June spelter, 27 cents and lead 4.82½ cents. Further advances are expected.

Plan filings for the five boroughs this week follow: In the same week last year 301 new building plans were filed with an estimated value of $3,184,942.

COMMON BRICK.

Price Movement Upward—Unsettled Weather Only Drawback.

UNSETTLED weather pulled the brick market down this week. Otherwise $7 brick doubtless would be ruling at this time. As it is the current quotations are minimum at $6.50, with some moving at a shilling to three shillings above that figure. The change in condition was due not so much to increased demand, which, in fact, was curtailed owing to intermittent rainy and clear days for ten days, as to an upward movement in Portland cement.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

NEW YORK, JUNE 12, 1915

THE CITY'S COURT HOUSE PROBLEM

Views of Experts on What Is Best to Be Done—The Greater Civic Center Project Challenged—A New Court House Is Imperative

COMPTROLLER PRENDERGAST has filed with the Board of Estimate a statement predicting that the new courthouse and site will cost $25,000,000, or $8,000,000 more than President McAneny estimates, and advising against the further continuance of the project.

He says the Board of Estimate has proceeded with this great financial undertaking in the face of business conditions which some of the members of the board are daily describing in the press as most unfavorable. He quotes some of his colleagues as saying that "If ever there was a time when public expenditures should be curbed, this is the period."

In view of this stand on the part of the Comptroller of the city, realty and business interests are asking if it is not time to pause and consider. In fact, it is said that the members of the Board of Estimate are waiting to hear from the people on the matter, and that some are inclined to support the Comptroller.

Important interests suggested to the Record and Guide to ascertain if possible the consensus of opinion among business men as to what should be done under the circumstances. In the minds of some of those interviewed the courthouse problem divided itself into three parts. First, the construction of the building, second the acquisition of the site, and third, the making of a civic center to extend from City Hall Park to Manhattan Bridge with a grand boulevard and concourse of public buildings. One thing that seemed to be agreed to was that the civic center project should not be linked up with the courthouse plans at this time.

Sounding Public Opinion.

It seemed to be the predominating opinion that the construction of the building should somehow proceed, but that the civic center scheme is too ambitious and should be disconnected from the court house undertaking proper, and every bit of land not actually needed for a site disposed of.

Said a very representative real estate authority: "Irrespective of the cost of the building, it will cost fifteen million dollars for the land, when the original proposal of the Court House Board did not contemplate expending one dollar for land. The city has been led on by degrees by city planners until it contemplates an improvement which may cost as much as one hundred million dollars, at the price New York pays for things.

"I am thinking of that ambitious civic center scheme of Mr. McAneny's, of which the court house site forms only a part. The excessive amount of land for the court house site was no doubt purchased as part of the civic center plan.

"We simply cannot afford it. In my opinion, I think it would be better to sell off the land and build on a less expensive site. It certainly would be a wise thing to do, if the city has not committed itself too far, to go back to the City Hall Park site, remove the present building, as the Court House Board first proposed, and build there, meanwhile renting court rooms in adjacent buildings. That is the way a business man would solve the problem. At any rate, the civic center scheme should be shelved as altogether too extravagant."

ERNEST FLAGG.
Criticises the site of the new court house.

The Committee on Civic Improvements of New York Chapter, A. I. A., has submitted to Acting Mayor McAneny a plan for shifting the Court House to a site nearer to the Municipal Building. As explained by Ernest Flagg of the committee, this plan would cost less to carry out, as there is less disturbance of existing streets. It occupies less land and the salvage would be greater. Instead of releasing only 101,000 square feet for sale or other use by the city, it releases 208,650 square feet or over 100 per cent. more. The saving on this item would doubtless amount to several million dollars. It provides better and larger sites for other public buildings in case they are needed. It provides some park area about the building. It adds about 25,000 square feet to the area of Mulberry Bend Park.

"The adoption of this plan would mean a saving of $6,000,000," continued Mr. Flagg. "The plan put forward by the Court House Board seems to us defective in vital particulars, and should not, we think, be approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment or by the Art Commission."

A Great Architect's Opinion.

Mr. Flagg was of the opinion that a great mistake had been made in the selection of the site.

"The heart of the legal district is, and always will be, in the heart of the financial district," he said. "When the matter was under advisement I suggested a site for the building which would have cost far less and have been as much better and more convenient, as it was more economical. I refer to the three small blocks bounded on the east by Battery Park, on the west by Coenties Slip Park and on the south by the new Plaza in front of the Municipal Ferry Houses.

"This site would have therefore been perpetually open. Moreover, its cost to the city would have soon been entirely offset by increased taxes from the land lying between it and the financial district.

No Telling What It Will Cost.

"If the method usually followed in the erection of our public buildings is used in building the Court House, then there is no telling what it will cost. That plan is to start work on somebody's estimate and afterwards discover it was a mistaken one. The Capitol at Albany is a shining example of what may be expected under this method; the original estimate for that building was exceeded by five or six hundred per cent. It is safe to say that nine times out of ten, when work is done in this way, the estimates are overrun by from one hundred to several hundred per cent.

"If, by good luck, the estimate in this case is exceeded by only one hundred, or one hundred and fifty per cent., and the building is paid for from the proceeds of fifty year bonds, then it will have cost the taxpayers, before they are through with it, from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000; for every dollar spent will cost, with the interest, three dollars. To be sure, the city will have the use of the building, but the rent will be unnecessarily high.

Get Bids on All.

"This difficulty can be avoided by starting work only after bids have been received and accepted for the building complete in every detail. Common prudence and past experience demand that this be done and the taxpayers should demand it also.

"The city ought not to go in debt for the building at all. That plan is sure to lead to extravagance.

"Pay as you go, is just as sound a doctrine for a community as for an individual.

"New York has no real need for a court house of the kind proposed. The present one has many defects but for very little, they could all be cured. The court rooms are spacious and well lighted. The dependencies are cramped, but by sacrificing a few of the court rooms, this defect could be obviated and the additional court rooms needed might be provided in a building one quarter the size of the one contemplated."

Mr. Marling Would Proceed at Once.

Alfred E. Marling, president of Horace S. Ely & Company, said:

"I believe the wise step for the city to take in connection with the court house is to proceed at once to build it and stop further loss in interest, etc. The site has been secured at a great cost, the plans for the building have been approved and careful estimates secured, and Mr. McAneny is authority for the statement that the net cost will not exceed seventeen millions. We have been waiting for years to have this court house built, the need for it is universally recognized, and whatever mistakes may have been made in the selection of the site, or in the condemnation, or in the plans of the building, might readily be repeated in any new undertaking, and there would be still, in addition to this, further delay. The duty of the city authorities is to proceed at once."

Wiser Now to Continue.

William L. De Bost of the Cruikshank Company said:

"Of course, I am quite sure that the real estate world in general feels that the city should be very careful about spending any money at the present time, unless it is absolutely necessary, and the twenty-five or more millions which the court house will cost will be a great burden on the taxpayers. However, as the matter has progressed so far, it does not seem to me that it can be abandoned now, and the work must be carried out.

"Recently I had occasion to look into the question of the loss to the city, providing the site were abandoned and the property already acquired, sold, and the loss seemed so great that it appeared wiser at this stage not to take this step."

Have Gone Too Far to Turn Back.

Hon. Cyrus C. Miller, who was a member of the Board of Estimate when the Court House act was passed, said:

"It is a fact that we need a court house; the city has embarked on the plan, and private owners have been subjected to annoyance and loss. I fear that we have gone too far to recede, and that we must proceed."

Views of a Financial Expert.

Stewart Browne, of the firm of Stewart Browne & Co., bankers, and president of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, said: "The idea of a Civic Centre and new Court House for Manhattan from the 'city beautiful' standpoint is splendid; provided the site chosen be suitable and the city has the money to pay for it.

"The site for them was chosen because the land was cheap and not because it was an ideal location; the combination of the 'city beautiful' with a cheap out-of-the-way site is grotesque; the proposition to spend anywhere from twenty to forty million dollars for such in the financial condition the city has been in for the past few years was the dream of madmen.

"If the city administration were wise they would do as any business man does when he finds he has made a mistake; he cuts his loss by selling out and profiting in the future by such experience. It would pay the City of New York today to sell the entire site purchased even although it made a loss anywhere from five to seven million dollars; let the city rent space for courts in the buildings surrounding the City Hall until such time as the city's financial condition is put in proper shape, which will not be within five years at the earliest, if even then.

"No man can say what effect the present European war, when finished, will have on the price level of this country; it may be extremely beneficial or the very reverse; even with existing conditions a 2.25 per cent. and 2.50 per cent. tax rate is written on fate's map within five years."

"If Unprepared Now, Wait," Says Mr. Parish.

John L. Parish said:

"In a proposition so large as the provision of a new court house for the foremost city in all the world a niggardly or cheese-paring policy would, in my opinion, be entirely out of place.

"If the city is unprepared financially to proceed with the matter on the lines laid out, let it wait until a more propitious time. But whatever is done should be done for permanency.

"I myself feel that the commission could have chosen a better site—one better suited to the dignity and importance of the city, one that would have had what this and so many other public buildings in America lack—a proper and sufficient perspective. But the site selected has been definitely decided upon and the plans for the structure are far advanced. The municipality is so far committed to the general scheme that it would undoubtedly be more costly to abandon it and begin all over again than it would be to go forward.

"Money spent in such works by great municipalities is never lost. It may seem that the investment is wasted, but it is not so. Such structures create values. It is only when the money appropriated to the creation of such buildings is diverted to the pockets of political parasites and grafters that the taxpayers lose in such undertakings.

"In the hands of such an administration as this present the taxpayers need have no fears in this respect. It will be their own fault if the building of the new court house should develop another orgy of rascality, incompetency and graft."

BUILDING RESTRICTIONS IN CONSTITUTION

The Principles of Height Limitation, Zoning and Condemnation for Safety and Sanitation Incorporated by Amendments

At a series of conferences attended by Messrs. Paul D. Cravath, Darwin R. James, Jr., and Alfred T. White of the Tenement House Committee of the New York Charities Organization Society, by Messrs. John C. Gebhard, Ralph K. Jacobs and Charles Coleman Miller, of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, and Messrs. Frank Bailey, Edward C. Blum, William M. Calder, John J. Kuhn, Walter Lindner, Cyrus C. Miller and Frederic B. Pratt, of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, it was decided to submit on behalf of these organizations three constitutional amendments to the convention at Albany. These amendments were introduced on Friday, June 11, by Mr. Bannister. The first amendment provides for the legalization of buildings' heights restrictions, and reads as follows:

> "The Legislature shall have power to limit the height and dimensions of buildings in cities, towns and villages of the State, by provisions which apply to such cities, towns and villages generally, or to parts or districts therein, and to amend such limitations from time to time.
> "This power may be exercised directly or may be exercised by authorizing towns, villages or cities to exercise the same in such manner as may be provided by the Legislature."

Although the New York City Charter confers authority upon the Board of Aldermen to pass ordinances with regard to the restriction of buildings' heights, and a recent Act of the Legislature intrusts this same prerogative to the Board of Estimate, nevertheless there might be some question as to whether or not these special grants to the city on the part of the Legislature are constitutional, under the principles embodied in the Federal Constitution, granting to every citizen the equal protection of the laws and guaranteeing that no one shall be deprived of his property rights, without due process of law.

The second amendment relates primarily to zoning and districting of the City for industrial, commercial, residential and other purposes. This amendment reads as follows:

> "The Legislature shall have power to limit the use and character of the occupancy of buildings in the cities, towns and villages of the State, by provisions which apply to such cities, towns and villages generally, or to parts or districts therein, and to amend such limitations from time to time.
> "This power may be exercised directly or may be excercised by authorizing towns, villages or cities to exercise the same in such manner as may be provided by the Legislature."

Very few cases have been decided by the courts with regard to the use and the character of the occupancy of buildings. Probably one of the leading cases with an incidental reference to districting has arisen in Massachusetts, where the Legislature enacted a Building Restriction Law applicable to the City of Boston, dividing the city into two sections—commercial and residential, and providing that the buildings in each could not exceed a certain height, and providing for commissioners to determine this height in certain instances. In other words, the height of the building depended upon locality and use, and the court upheld this act under the police power. This case was affirmed in the Supreme Court of the United States, where the court emphasized that the authority conferred by the Legislature must reasonably come within the police power, and in questions of this character local conditions must determine their validity. Although the case is primarily one relating to buildings' heights, nevertheless in so far as it divides the city into two sections—commercial and residential—the zoning feature is recognized. The Federal Court has also upheld a prohibition of laundry work between certain hours in particular sections of the city, on the ground of safety from fire, although most of the opinions of the Federal Court relative to districting have been in the nature of obiter dicta.

The final amendment submitted to the Constitutional Convention is as follows:

> "The Legislature shall have power to authorize the towns, villages and cities of the State to take real property which is dangerous to public health or safety, and to sell or lease the same, subject to such restrictions as may be deemed to be in the public interest. Property taken pursuant to this provision shall be deemed to be taken for a public use."

If this amendment is adopted the legislative authority to condemn private property for public purposes, when this property is maintained as a nuisance or as a danger to public health, will become certain. Such prerogatives have already been exercised by the Legislature, in condemning unsanitary premises for park purposes, as, for instance in the cases of Hudson Park and Mulberry Bend Park. To-day while buildings are condemned under the power of eminent domain, by the Legislature, for reasons of public health or to abate a nuisance, yet the land remains in the possession of the owner. This amendment permits the city to purchase the land, at a fair value, and re-sell it upon such terms as it desires, whenever public interest so demands.

In all these amendments the rights of the property owner are thoroughly and completely protected and conserved, under the provisions of the Federal Constitution, which conclusively prescribes that private property shall not be taken for public purposes, without just compensation, thereby insuring to taxpayers the equal protection of our laws.

There have been merely dicta in New York cases upon this subject, although the courts have upheld ordinances which prohibit the erection of a bill board exceeding 6 ft. in height, as within the police power. Upon the grounds of public health and safety, as well as for economic reasons, it would appear that the restriction of buildings' heights in the City of New York, within certain reasonable limitations, would be valid.

RECONSTRUCTION OF STEINWAY TUNNEL

For Temporary Operation Under the Dual System—A New Force for the Development of Queens Borough Realty

ANOTHER link in the chain of rapid transit railroads will be opened to travel shortly when the temporary operation of the Steinway Tunnel (or Belmont Tube) under the East River will begin. Eventually it will be an integral part of the Dual System carrying through trains from Manhattan into Queens, but for the time being it will be used for a shuttle service only, because of the incompleteness of the connections at either end. The present Manhattan Terminal station entrance is through a new building which the Interborough Rapid Transit Company decided to erect on the south side of 42d street between Lexington and Third avenue. This will become a way station when the tunnel line is connected with the underground system at Grand Central Terminal.

The original owners of the franchise were incorporated as the New York and Long Island Railroad Company July 30, 1887. The work was started in May, 1892, and continued until December of that year, when an explosion having occurred, operations ceased, for a period of 13 years. The Rapid Transit Company acquired control of the capital stock in January, 1904, and a new contract for construction was entered into with the Degnon Contracting Company in July, 1905. In April, 1914, the property was purchased by the City of New York and made part of the Dual System. Since then the tunnel has been reconstructed in part and brought to its present nearly completed state. Melville S. Miller, Assistant Engineer Second Division, in a report appearing in the May Public Service Record, issued by the Public Service Commission, gives a complete account of the reconstruction work, from which the following information is taken:

The Steinway tunnel extends from a loop at the intersection of Park avenue and 42d street, Manhattan, somewhat below the present subway, easterly under 42d street and the East River to the west end of 5th street, Long Island City; thence under private property to 4th street and thence under 4th street to a loop just west of Van Alst avenue, Borough of Queens.

The tunnel was built in the form of two single-track tubes, except under 4th street, Long Island City, where the usual form of subway section was used. Under Manhattan, Long Island City and for about 300 feet under Man-o'-War Reef, the tubes were constructed of concrete. Under the East River, with the exception of the three hundred feet under Man-o'-War Reef, the tubes were built of cast iron rings two feet two inches in width. The main grades in the tunnel are as follows: Manhattan section, 3 per cent; River section, 1.63 per cent., and Queens section, 4 1-2 per cent. and 0.25 per cent. Three stations were provided, but not entirely completed; one under 42d street, Manhattan, between Third and Lexington avenues, one at Jackson avenue, Borough of Queens, and one at Van Alst avenue, Borough of Queens. The tunnel was designed for surface cars with an overhead contact, but with the exception of the loops at each end, sufficient clearance was left for the present subway car.

Reconstruction.

The contract with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company provided for the temporary equipment and operation of a part of the Tunnel, pending the extension of the Steinway Tunnel to the west to connect with the present subway at, or near, Times Square, and its extension to the northeast in Long Island City to a junction with the Astoria and Corona rapid transit lines on the Queens Plaza of the Queensboro Bridge. In order to put the road in condition for operation, it was necessary to reconstruct part of the tunnel and complete the remaining part to be operated. The contract for reconstruction was awarded to the lowest bidder, the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, and the contract was signed on the 10th of April, 1914. Based on the preliminary estimate of the quantities and on the unit prices of the contract, the cost of reconstruction would have amounted to $383,910.75.

The contract called for the following work to be done: The reconstruction of the structure and the provision for a crossover between First avenue and the East River. The filling in of Shaft No. 3 at Man-o'-War Reef. The reconstruction of Shaft No. 4 and the providing of suitable doors and ladders for use as exists in case of emergency. The building of new duct lines and the grouting and draining of the old ducts. Grouting wherever necessary to make the tunnel watertight. Furnishing and laying tile drains and such pipe connections with sumps and sewers, as required. Provision of station finish and the building of a temporary superstructure for the Grand Central and Jackson Avenue Stations. The removal of parts of the present tracks now in place, and the provision and installation of additional track material to make the track complete throughout the railroad.

Contractor's Plant.

At the time of the construction of the Steinway Tunnel, four shafts were used: The first on the south side of 42d street between Lexington and Third avenues, the second on the north side of 42d street between First avenue and the East River, the third, at Man-o'-War Reef, and the fourth on the north side of 4th street, Long Island City, between Front street and West avenue, all in private property.

For the reconstruction, the contractor's plant was divided into three units; one at Shaft No. 2, one at Shaft No. 3 on Man-o'-War Reef, and one at Shaft No. 4. In the yard at Shaft No. 2, were located the offices, carpenter shop, blacksmith shop, etc., and here the excavated material from the crossover and vicinity was taken out, and conveyed over a narrow gauge track to the dock at the east end of the yard. By means of this shaft the steel for the crossover was lowered into the tunnel.

THE WESTERN PORTALS OF THE STEINWAY TUNNELS UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

At Shaft No. 3 on Man-o'-War Reef were located the concrete mixer and compressor plant. This made a very accessible point for the storage and delivery of material. Sand, cement, stone, tunnel ducts, etc., were delivered here by scows. The greater part of the concrete used in the reconstruction was mixed at this point. The concrete was dropped through a chute to the small cars below and distributed by means of electric locomotives, run by storage batteries.

Station Finish Work.

At Grand Central Station a temporary superstructure was to have been built, but the Interborough Rapid Transit Company decided to construct a building on this property. This building provides the necessary entrance to the station in accordance with an agreement with the city. Because of the great depth of the platform below the street surface, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company has built an escalator as part of the equipment to convey passengers from the mezzanine level to the street surface. This escalator is said to be the longest ever installed in this country, having a vertical lift of 52 feet. At this point, the platform had to be raised, a new stairway built from the platform to the mezzanine, the stairway from the mezzanine to the surface completed, railing, etc., provided, a despatcher's office built, electric conduits, etc., laid, concrete finish applied to floors, fire lines installed and the walls plastered,

SOME OF THE YEAR'S HAPPENINGS REVIEWED

Results Accomplished in Municipal Affairs Dwelt on in Annual Report of Manhattan's Borough President

LAST week the Record and Guide printed a portion of the annual report of Borough President Marcus M. Marks, and following are some other points touched upon in his report:

Building Activity.—Although building activity was comparatively light in 1914, a few notable structures were erected or planned. The Equitable Building, estimated to cost $8,000,000; also the Hallenbeck-Hungerford building, in Franklin street, costing $1,200,000; the J. P. Morgan bank building, costing $1,200,000; the Hill Publishing Company building, at 36th street and Tenth avenue, costing $750,000; the Waldorf building at No. 2 West 33d street and No. 5 West 32d street; and a twenty-story office building at Vanderbilt avenue and 45th street, costing $900,000.

Elevator Inspections.—During the year, 35,895 inspections of elevators were made to comply with the requirements of the law, which specify that elevators shall be inspected not less than four times a year.

Filing Plans.—Work was begun on the installation of a new system of filing plans and applications. There are in the files about 250,000 plans. The old system of filing plans had been in use since 1868, and was obsolete and absolutely inadequate for present needs. Under the new system, all plans are filed by lot and block numbers as given by the Tax Department.

Car Track Re-Location.—A year ago, it seemed simple enough to relocate the street car tracks on Central Park West, where a dangerous condition has long existed. We pushed negotiations vigorously, but finally had to invoke the slow process of mandamus, which it is hoped may, during the present year, bring the much desired relief and safety to pedestrian traffic.

Cross-Town Traffic.—The very poor pavement on the transverse roads at 65th, 79th and 97th streets has caused a dangerous congestion in the 86th street transverse road. We are actively urging new pavements, and the development of electric bus connections between the east and west sides, separated by Central Park.

Building Orders and Inspections.—We have for over a year aroused public interest in the elimination of duplication and conflict in building inspections and orders by various State, city and borough departments. Landlords and tenants have been annoyed and unnecessarily taxed on account of stupid and wasteful methods. Aroused public sentiment has finally crystallized the efforts to secure relief through legislation.

Borough Control.—The regulation of streets, sewers, markets, buildings, physical works coming close to the daily lives of the people—can best be guided by borough control, leaving police, fire and other general functions to the city government. If a referendum were taken on this subject, we believe that every borough would vote to retain such local physical functions. The argument that borough government is too responsive and sympathetic to the desires of the people, is no argument against, but really in favor of local control, for our representative form of government is based and depends for success upon such quick response.

Revenue from Waste Paper.—The practice formerly followed was to sell the waste paper at a lump monthly contract price determined by a rough estimate as to the probable value of the paper. We considered that this practice was certain to result in an injustice either to the city or to the buyer, inasmuch as no method was employed to determine the exact value of the paper sold. We adopted, instead, the plan of selling waste paper by weight and to the highest bidder. The change in the system went into effect March 1, 1914. The highest bidder at present is the Salvation Army. It pays at the rate of 41 cents per hundred weight; and bales, collects and removes the waste paper from the various buildings and offices under the Borough President's jurisdiction. It is interesting to note that the total receipts from the waste paper during 1913 under the old plan, were $310, and that during 1914, under the new plan, they were $1,802.06.

Use of Roofs.—We have urged upon architects and builders the utilization of roofs for purposes of pleasure and recreation, and we have in line with this urged the use of sleeping porches. In this movement, we have received the unanimous support and cooperation of representative architects, civic associations and other institutions of New York.

Loading Platforms.—To reduce the amount of street and sidewalk obstructions to traffic, we have urged upon architects and builders the desirability of constructing loading platforms within the buildings devoted to business purposes, wherever there is a large volume of shipping concerned. Many prominent architects have expressed their intention to cooperate to this end, and concrete results have already been accomplished in the actual construction of inside loading platforms as a direct consequence of our recommendation.

Advisory Commissions.—We have appointed sixteen neighborhood commissions, representing all sections of the Borough, each consisting of twelve members, two of whom are women. The total membership is 201. The following is a list of the commissions: Fifth Avenue, Washington Heights, Riverside, West End, West Harlem, Central Park West, Chelsea, East Side, Greenwich, Murray Hill, Washington Square, Gramercy Park, Kips Bay, Yorkville, East Harlem and Broadway. Each commission will advise the Borough President of the needs of its neighborhood.

Open Markets Established.—Four open markets were established by us on September 1, 1914, without expenditure for improvements, on unused city-owned land. They catered to as many as 100,000 buyers in a day, and reduced the cost of living 33 1-3 per cent. in vegetables, fruits and meats. During the early days of the open markets, no fees were charged to sellers, but we early urged that modest rentals should be fixed as soon as the markets were duly established. Three of the four open markets thus established have lately been adopted by the city as permanent public markets. The fourth near the Fort Lee Ferry will be continued as a private cooperative enterprise. Washington Market is being reconstructed, and we have plans to save Jefferson Market. Our next effort is to promote wholesale terminal markets, preferably through the investment of private capital.

Highway Pavements.—Considering the conditions of street upheaval consequent to subway construction, we trust that pavement repairs during the past year have been satisfactory to the public. Our appropriation for new paving was cut from $2,500,000 in 1913 to $1,500,000 in 1914. We are asking for $2,000,000 in 1915, inasmuch as many of our old pavements are in such condition that maintenance is expensive and unsatisfactory and new construction is necessary and economical.

Bureau of Sewers.—The use of the sewers for snow removal was greatly extended. Careful experiments were also made to determine how rapidly snow will melt in sewers, and how great an amount of snow can be accommodated without seriously obstructing the sewers.

The Bureau of Sewers, working with the New York Sewer Plan Commission, has taken an active and prominent part during 1914 in devising not only a general plan for the entire city, but also a scheme for treating sewage and partially reconstructing the old sewers in Manhattan.

Protection of Harbor.—It has made marked progress toward protecting New York harbor from serious pollution from sewage from New York and other communities whose sewage is disposed in the tributaries which empty into New York harbor. Measures have been undertaken during the year to abate the gasoline nuisance and danger consequent to the discharge of gasoline into the sewers. A ventilating fan has been purchased for use in forcing fresh air into a sewer where the men are working.

Better Organization.—Repair and cleaning forces have been brought under a single head, thus eliminating duplicate office staffs and expensive supervision. Official records have been simplified, and a gang cost control worked out for the Repair Division. The establishment of an Inspection Division has secured a better protection of the sewer structures against disturbance by corporations, the Water Department and the Public Service Commission. We have adopted a plan which affords better surface drainage facilities. Intakes to the catch-basins located at street corners are now placed on either side of the corner instead of exactly at the corner. Before this improvement was effected, the surface water would traverse the crosswalks, thus exposing the pedestrians to annoyance and discomfort.

Bureau of Design and Survey.—Its principal work is the surveying and preparation of plans and contract drawings in connection with sewer, highway and topographical work, and special engineering problems of the Department of Public Works. During 1914, the bureau has undertaken a topographical survey of Manhattan, based on the triangulation system recently determined for this borough, and which is co-ordinated with that for Greater New York. A portion of the field work and the computations have been completed. Based on this survey, a complete topographical surface map of Manhattan is being prepared for the first time, indicating all building lines, street lines and street grades. The bureau has undertaken a complete sub-surface map of Manhattan for the first time, indicating all water pipes, gas pipes, steam pipes, subways, sewers, electric ducts, mail tubes, and other sub-surface structures. This map will bring about a reduction in pavement mutilations by avoiding numerous haphazard openings to locate a pipe or conduit. It will assign definite location for future sub-surface construction so that existing sub-surface structures will not be disturbed, and will furnish reliable information to all departments and corporations.

CHAOTIC CONDITION IN 42nd STREET

Deadlock Between City and Railroad Officials Blocks Widening of Thoroughfare—Property Owners Suffer in the Meantime

ASK ten men familiar with traffic conditions to name the most dangerous crossings in New York City and nine of them will probably include in the list, Madison avenue and 42nd street. If you ask them why they will say that the hill on Madison avenue and the subway kiosks, almost upon the curb support this contention. A pedestrian stepping from the sidewalk into the roadway steps on the track of the Madison avenue surface line, and has an excellent opportunity of walking into a car. An attempt has been made to remedy this situation by the removal of the opaque glass on one side of the kiosk and by the substitution of a screen in order that the passengers leaving the subway by this exit may be more readily aware of possible danger.

The same people will probably tell you that the enormous pedestrian and vehicular traffic to and from the new Grand Central Terminal, which appears to centralize or focus in the short block between Park and Madison avenues, has created an almost endless procession of vehicles of every description, at practically all hours of the day. The trolley cars on 42nd street crosstown; also the Third and Tenth avenues, the Broadway, and the Fourth and Madison avenue lines, present other formidable factors for traffic regulation. Conditions are further aggravated by the fact that the Fourth and Madison avenue cars turn into 42d street going north and south, from Madison avenue.

But the crowning obstacle and the greatest source of annoyance and confusion is the width of nearly half the street, between Park and Madison avenue, which is only forty feet as compared with fifty-five feet for the rest of the block. The space left for the operation of the cars and the use of the various conveyances is too narrow for more than one vehicle to pass east or west at a time.

Before the opening of the new Grand Central Terminal the possibilities of this traffic problem presented themselves and the city decided in July, 1910, to widen 42nd street from forty feet to fifty-five feet, involving the removal of 7½ feet from each side. Those interested in the improvement proceeded to do their share. The street car tracks on Madison avenue were moved in almost to the sidewalk, creating the above described dangerous condition which was to have been a temporary one. The property owners began to remove the encroachments from their 42nd street holdings. The thoroughfare was widened, with the exception of half the block between Park and Madison avenues. The work stopped at a point in front of the office of the Lincoln Safe Deposit Company and another point directly opposite and has never been completed. Today half of the block is fifty-five feet wide and the remainder forty feet wide.

Inquiry into the reasons for the delayed improvement resulted in the knowledge that there is no difference of opinion regarding the desirability of the further widening of the street and the removal of the kiosks. There is a unanimity of opinion among the property owners, Public Service Commission, the Borough authorities, and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company that the work should be completed and a dangerous condition eliminated.

As far as could be learned the hold-up of the project has been caused by the difference in opinion between the engineers of the city and of the Interborough with reference to the cost. The widening of the street involves certain structural changes in the subway station which include the removal of the ventilating gratings, the elimination of the kiosks and the providing of new entrances and exits. Matters are further complicated by the fact that this work must be done without further interference with vehicular and pedestrian traffic and the operation of the subway trains.

FORTY-SECOND STREET SIDEWALK "IMPROVEMENTS."

The Interborough estimated the work as follows: Additional entrances and exits, $138,045; widening 42d street, $161,318 and the Belmont tunnel, $73,511. The Public Service Commission's estimate for the portion made necessary for the widening of 42nd street was $147,801. On this basis the chief engineer of the Public Service Commission recommended that the offer to do the work for $161,318 be accepted. The Borough President's engineers considered this price too high, since their designs and estimates ran considerably less and the offer was not accepted. Negotiations were begun again, but for a time no progress seemed to have been made.

Then the idea of improving the existing station at Madison avenue and 42nd street was abandoned on account of the authorization of the construction of the Lexington avenue subway, which it is expected will relieve a great deal of the congestion. There remained, however, the street widening matter which again brought up the question of the kiosks. It was suggested that they be moved around into Madison avenue and it was also suggested that they be entirely removed and new entrances built in front of or alongside of some of the buildings in the immediate neighborhood. There seems to be a general feeling that the kiosks are undesirable, so much so that the Public Service Commission at one time seriously considered closing them entirely, but was reluctant to take such an extreme measure on account of the unusual congestion which might result in some of the other entrances and exits. The question of cost came up again, and the same difficulty encountered, namely, the apparent inability of the parties to come to an agreement.

At the present time there seems to be a dead-lock and no appreciable progress is being made. A number of the property owners interested in 42nd street holdings are indignant that such a condition should have been permitted to exist for so long a time.

"The assessed valuation in West 42nd street is not justified until this improvement is completed," said Edward B. Boynton, president of the American Real Estate Company, which is the lessee of the Vanderbilt Avenue Building. "When we have so long suffered on account of chaotic conditions lack of funds should not be pleaded."

"Owners who are urging this improvement, which should have been completed two years ago, represent properties taxed for more than a hundred million dollars and the taxes paid on this block alone in one year could cover the entire cost of the project. A disagreement of engineers should not hold up so necessary an improvement," declared W. R. Messinger, representing the owners of No. 30 East 42nd street.

"Laying aside all questions of traffic, inconvenience, etc., in this thoroughfare, the property owners are entitled to some consideration in view of the fact that the street has been torn up by subway construction, the laying and relaying of sewers, and by the removal of encroachments, all of which have been borne patiently by them," said Alexander Taylor, owner of the Taylor Building, at 26 East 42nd street.

"The heavy traffic, however, should in itself constitute enough of an incentive for the immediate authorization of the widening because the effects of the congestion in this one block are felt in blocks in practically every direction."

"Why should the city be a privileged party in this transaction," asked Robert E. Simon, president of the Henry Morgenthau Company, "and withhold from doing its part in the improvement? Property owners have done their share and it is only fair to ask that the city do its share. Those who use the street should not be subjected to further inconvenience."

At the offices of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company this week it was said that the matter was in status quo and that nothing had been done since last January when negotiations had been again reopened. It is said that there have been conferences from time to time but there does not seem to be any move made toward the completion of the work. The Public Service Commission is in a way powerless because its jurisdiction does not cover the street widening improvement in itself but only the proceeding in its relation to the transit question which will not come up until the actual street widening.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has made its estimate of the cost; the city engineers feel that the price is too high. That is the present situation and there does not seem to be any relief in sight; meantime a dangerous condition is permitted to exist. How long will it continue?

The Nostrand avenue subway route indicates a section of Brooklyn that will witness a great upbuilding, in the opinion of realty experts, and with a good type of apartment houses. The character of the section has been well settled by what has gone before. Already considerable has been done in anticipation.

Gradually property interests are getting their feet back under them. The Court of Appeals says, in effect, an owner is not responsible for the negligence of his tenant. Both the Tenement House act and the Labor law have tried to make him so, by asserting his equal responsibility. The former act having been overruled, it is likely that the other will soon be challenged also.

Architects have greatly reduced the cost of construction in recent years by exercising remarkable skill in eliminating the sort of ornamentation which adds nothing to the good appearance of a building, by the use of lighter structural members and by economizing in quantities. Plan examiners in the Building Department were once wont to say that sometimes as much as twenty per cent. could have been saved in the cost of the steel for a building if the architect had specified the lighter material which the code allowed. Building materials cost less than they did on the whole ten years ago, and wages are no higher, to say the least. The final result is that a firm wishing to erect a business building can do so at a less cost per cubic foot and get a more useable, a safer, a better equipped and a more satisfactory building every way in 1915 than could have been obtained under the present building laws at any previous time.

Reasons For Not Taxing Churches.

The Committee on Taxation of the Constitutional Convention has under consideration resolutions for the taxation of church property as well as the premises of the various social, moral, mental and benevolent societies now exempted under section four of subdivision seven of the Tax Law. A correspondent conversant with the forces which make and unmake land values in the city suggests as a further argument why churches, of all institutions, should not have their property taxed, that when rebuilding they would erect cheaper and less monumental structures than they do under existing circumstances. "We can not afford to be without churches and institutions that are beautiful," says our correspondent, "as cities are judged by their monumental buildings as well as by their administration and their business interests; and furthermore, a monumental public institution usually creates higher values in the neighborhood and so adds considerably to the city treasury."

A similar line of reasoning will be found in the argument advanced by the rector of Trinity Church in the reference which he makes in his annual statement to the taxation of church property, where he says that Trinity parish renders a great service to the community by maintaining its two downtown churchyards as open breathing spaces and places of sacred and historic interest, without deriving any income from them, and without any expectation of ever doing so. No other parish in the world holds property of such great value solely for religious purposes and for the good of the community without deriving any revenue from it.

If the city were to tax Trinity Churchyard and St. Paul's Churchyard, what would be the practical result? The Rev. Dr. Manning answers that it would be impossible for Trinity to hold them as she now does. She would be compelled to sell or to use them for business purposes. The financial gain to the church would be large, but the city would lose heavily in the years to come through the reduced valuation of surrounding property, and from every higher standpoint the loss both to the church and the city would be beyond all calculation. And what has been said about the downtown churchyards applies with almost equal force to Trinity's uptown cemetery at 155th street and Broadway, which is a source of no income to the parish, because the small revenue derived from it is much more than offset by the expense of its maintenance. But if the cemetery had not been there, the neighborhood would not have had the beautiful development which now distinguishes it from ordinary residential sections of Washington Heights. To tax out of existence such a piece of property as this, or the Cathedral of St. John the Divine with its beautiful grounds and auxiliary edifices, would indeed be a strange way of benefitting the community.

The critics in the Constitutional Convention of the law which exempts eighteen hundred million dollars' worth of real estate from taxation in this city will find, as the President of the Tax Board has always said, that the whole subject bristles with difficulties. The repeal of all exemptions for real estate not owned by the city, state and nation is not to be seriously thought of, and the discussion of any such proposition in the Constitutional Convention can only be academic. Four-fifths of all the property exempted in New York City is owned by the city, the state and the United States Government. If all the private cemetery corporations that are maintained as business enterprises, and all the "homes", "schools" and institutions of doubtful value to the community as a whole were taken off the exempt list and restored to the taxable list, the saving would not amount to enough to make any appreciable difference in the tax rate. However, some minor abuses have crept into the statute, and in the list of exempt public property are many parcels which should be sold and added to the taxable list, and we understand that they will be when the market regains its normal activity.

Shall the City Be Free?

The news from the State Constitutional Convention this week is not of the sort to give rise to feelings of hopefulness that any really great remedial pieces of legislation will come from that body. The Cities Committee, of which ex-Mayor Seth Low is chairman and to which had been referred the various resolutions designed to put in effect in one way or another the principle of non-interference by the Legislature in city and county affairs is reported to be opposed to granting anything more to each city and county than the privilege of making rules pertaining to the duties, tenure of office and compensation of its own employees, the incurring of obligations and the disposition and care of its own property.

Or, to put it negatively, the committee is opposed to giving cities exclusive authority to regulate personal conduct, or to make rules for the protection of the property, health, comfort and lives of its people. That is to say, cities will not be permitted to have exclusive control over the construction and alteration of buildings, of all kinds, or to discharge the duties now devolving upon the State Labor Department, the Tenement House Department, or to regulate the salaries of the employees of the Board of Education.

The Cities Committee has not actually reported out any resolution, but if it is true that Chairman Low has amended his own bill to accord with the foregoing limitations, as he is reported to have done, it is apparent that there will not come from that quarter much if any real relief from that state of affairs which permits the Legislature to take from the cities powers previously granted whenever it is moved to do so. To complete the discomfiture of those who had hoped that municipal government reform might come from a thorough reorganization of the Legislature, if not from a direct grant of some system of home rule by the Convention, the Committee on Legislative Reorganization voted to report adversely proposals for a short ballot, the initiative, referendum and recall and four other measures for Legislature reform, as well as a proposal for an appointed judiciary. In other words, the people of the State will continue to have district representation in the Legislature instead of a single house of fifty members or even less, and consequently there will continue to come from Albany an annual flood of new laws; there will continue to be no less than six State administrative establishments, when they all might be comprehended in one; an unwieldy ballot with so many names on it that no citizen can vote it intelligently; and a bench of judges selected because of their political influence instead of being appointed as in New Jersey and Massachusetts.

There is yet a chance that a constitutional amendment may be passed by the convention which will permit New York City to make a charter of its own after one of several good models. Such an amendment would comprehend all the reforms which the Municipal Government Association and the New York Short Ballot Organization have proposed for this city. Third-class cities in this State now have this privilege. Sincere friends of municipal democracy and of the separation of national politics from city affairs will not permit themselves to be discouraged by the adverse votes in the committees above referred to.

The need of simplified forms of government and a responsive administration is conceded by the foremost statesmen of all parties. Ex-President Taft in an address at a joint hearing on Thursday night before the Committee on Finance and the Committee on Governor urged the adoption of the principle of the short ballot and the decapitation of "the hydra-headed beasts created for the consumption of the people's money," which he considered the present governmental machines to be. The ex-President advised the convention to reduce the number of State departments and put all under the Governor.

When a city has a mayor who will veto a reform bill against almost the unanimous protest of its represented business interests, it is clear that the ship of state has drifted far away from the mooring grounds of popular government.

Gas Range Leases.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I note in your issue of May 15th "A controversy about gas range leases," and while I hold no brief for the gas companies, I can see no reason why they should be penalized to help make up the loss resulting from vacancies for which owners alone are to blame.

The statement that if leases were made from May to May, after the first year, tenants would go to the country during the summer, return in the autumn, and hire a house or apartment for the winter months only, may be true in some instances, but as a reason for October leases, has no force, and is a poor argument.

Apartment dwellers did not create the present unbusinesslike and ruinous custom, but on the contrary were encouraged to take advantage of opportunities for saving, offered by the speculative builder and loan companies.

If a building is commenced in the spring, it is usually finished too late for fall renting; whereas, if commenced in the late fall, it will be ready for tenants in the early summer of the following year, and as loans are made to fit the date of construction, operating expenses and taxes must be provided for from rents; it is, therefore, necessary to get tenants.

You cannot blame tenants for accepting what is offered, nor for making a hard bargain with a builder with an empty house, which usually takes the form of signing a lease with from one to six months concession, or to be more correct "free time," either allowed in bulk, or spread over the term of the lease; in other words, the lease gives possession for twelve months or more, but returns rent for less.

If the concessions were but a temporary expedient to fill the house, it might perhaps work out; but as a matter of fact, when once commenced it becomes a continuous yearly performance, with the result, that while cost of construction, land values and taxes are going up, "actual" rent income is getting less.

There are no doubt many apartments where this does not prevail, but as the custom is growing, and is felt in store, loft and office buildings as well, it is a safe statement that it will soon reach them.

"Free time" is wrong in theory, ruinous in practice, and wasteful in the extreme; creates false values, makes returns uncertain, and in the end lessens the demand for real estate as an income investment.

Aside and apart, however, from the loss to the owner of a building, there is created by the custom, an economic loss that is far-reaching in its effect.

In the matter of moving, when all leases expire in October, or at a given time, there is a congestion that must, by the very nature of things, encourage and promote waste, for, while all moving vans are reasonably employed for a month or more, two-thirds of the whole number necessary to supply this demand are idle, or partly so, for the balance of the year.

In the matter of repairs the waste is an important item that enters into the expense account, for while in theory ten men can do as much work in one day as one man can in ten, in actual practice, at least two days are lost in the hurry and confusion, resulting from crowding too much work into a short space of time; and further, when any industry requires a great number of men for a limited period, it follows, that when that period is passed, production ceases, and those thrown out of work become consumers, and here enters a natural law, that operates quietly, but nevertheless effectively, in causing what is termed labors unrest.

This happens in all departments of the building industry, is felt in the factories, and in the shops as well. The effect is far-reaching; it does not stop, however, with the strictly mechanical trades, but finds its way into all other industries.

Crowding a year's work into a few months is economically unsound, and reason as one will, in the final analysis, spells waste, and waste means a money loss. This need not be, unless we are willing that the speculative builder shall forever be encouraged in his ways of high finance, as against the old time understanding of real estate as an investment.

A Proposed Unnecessary Burden on the Property Owner.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The duty assigned Mr. Rudolph P. Miller to secure for New York City a first-class building code is admittedly not an easy one to perform. It is doubtful if any other man in practice at this time combines within himself the varied understanding of the many difficult problems presented in the preparation of this important matter. That he is conscientious, we all know. That he is diplomatic, we fellows who have been up against him, all admit, and that he has a mighty hard job to accomplish goes without saying.

On the everlasting matter of cinder concrete fireproofing, he is evidently trying to steer a course laid out between theory and practice. It would be a very difficult thing for Mr. Miller to lay aside what he has learned in books and to accept only the result of what has occurred in practice and under his own supervision; and just here lies the possibility of what seems to be an unnecessary burden being placed upon property owners, and particularly upon the owners of large structures, hotels, office and mercantile buildings, etc.

For a number of years past the spans between steel beams in buildings have in a large number of cases been 7 ft., 7 ft. 6 in. and 8 ft. center to center, and the cinder concrete arch used as fireproofing has been 4 ins. in thickness, with varying amounts of steel reinforcing.

It is now proposed under the regulations of the new code to make a flat slab of concrete 5 ins. in thickness for spans of 7 ft. 6 ins., and the question at once arises, is this necessary? The additional cost of the extra inch would figure about two cents per square foot, or in an area of 100,000 sq. ft., an additional cost of $2,000. This, of course, to be borne by the owner and to operate as a permanent charge against the building operation. This does not on the face of it seem such a large matter, but multiply it by the number of square feet contained in the structures erected in the City of New York in one year, it becomes a fabulous sum. If this extra thickness is actually demanded by the authorities, they should be prepared to demonstrate the necessity for it, and I claim that they cannot make the demonstration. There is no use in sitting down to the table and talking about matters of this kind. Every man has his own ideas about it and very few think alike.

The facts as to the safeness and carrying capacity of a 4-inch slab are easily attainable. If a 4-inch slab is not sufficiently strong, then it must be unfit for use, and if it is unfit for use, then the floor arches in the Biltmore Hotel, McAlpin Hotel, and in the home office at 80 Maiden Lane of the Continental Fire and Phoenix Fidelity Fire Insurance Co., the East River Savings Bank, Arnold Constable's new building, Brooks Bros.' new building, and the Architects' Building, and in literally thousands of structures in New York, are not safe, and the most prominent architects and engineers in New York have heretofore figured and installed unsafe construction. Warren & Wetmore, Clinton & Russell, LeFarge & Morris, Schwarz & Gross, Buchman & Fox, and any number of prominent concerns have been in error, but they have tested the construction put in their buildings heretofore, and it is a safe proposition to state that not one of those concerns but believe that their construction is and has been the very best in the country.

Now, if this is so, why must the builder of a structure alongside of one of the completed buildings in New York be told that he must place an added burden on his investment, and that the fellow alongside has just that much percentage over him in getting an income from his investment?

This is not written in a fault-finding frame of mind, but only because the writer believes there is no warrant for any additional expense being placed on the fireproofing of buildings in New York City.

Your publication is selected by me as the medium which will almost certainly call it to the attention of property owners, who I think feel with me that our tax burdens are already too great and that any unnecessary expense now proposed to be added should be carefully guarded against.

The City's Share of a Direct State Tax.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of May 29th you print an interesting table showing the tax rate in each of the cities of the State and the supposed ratio of assessment of real estate of full value. Your statement, however, is inaccurate in representing that 77 per cent. represents the share of the City of New York of a direct tax.

In 1914 the assessed value of real estate in the City of New York was 75.05 per cent of the aggregate assessed value in the State, but the State Direct Tax is not based on assessed values but on equalized values, and in 1914 the City of New York had 69 per cent of the equalized value instead of over 73 per cent of the assessed value. The city pays on the basis of equalized values. The following table shows the assessed value of real estate in the City of New York and in all the remainder of the State for 1914 and the equalized value in the City of New York and all the remainder of the State:

	Assessed Value.	Equalized Value.
New York.
1914.....	$8,006,647,861	$7,561,076,209
Remainder of State.
1914.....	2,953,613,031	3,399,184,683

The City of New York was equalized on the basis of 91 per cent of full value, except the Boroughs of Richmond and Queens, and the remainder of the State was equalized on the basis of an assessment of 74.51 per cent. of full value. The effect of the equalization as it appears from the above table was to add $451,000,000 to the assessed value of the remainder of the State and deduct $451,000,000 from the assessed value of the City of New York.

Registration of Architects.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In reference to your article in Record and Guide of June 5, 1915, as to registration of architects, kindly advise me to whom application should be made, and oblige. A. J. S.

It is understood that the board of examiners for architects will be appointed at a meeting of the Regents of the State University on June 24. Then it will be the duty of the examiners to frame regulations for registering architects already in regular practice. Some little time must therefore elapse before the actual registration will be in order.

With wheat selling at $1.30 or more per bushel the growers of the West should soon be in affluent circumstances, and some of their prosperity will eventually get into Eastern channels.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Brokerage Sales, Auctions, Foreclosure Suits Together With Other Current Realty Items

BOROUGH PARK SALE.

Night Auction to be held by Jere Johnson, Jr. Company, on June 15, in Brooklyn.

BARGAIN year, or cleanup year is the best name that can be applied to the lot auction market of 1915, for an unusually large number of development companies and estates are closing out the remnants of their once large holdings, accepting in many cases much lower prices for their properties than they have been obtaining at private sale. There have been three such sales already this spring while the largest and most important of all is scheduled to be held on Tuesday evening, June 15, at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn.

At this sale, under the direction of the Jere Johnson, Jr. Company, the last of the original Borough Park will be offered. There is not much left of the original property, only 281 lots, and like other companies, the owners have decided to turn their equity into cash rather than continue an expensive organization to look after the property. If the actions of other owners who have sold remnants of their properties this spring is any criterion of what the Borough Park owners will do, buyers at this sale are likely to pick up well located lots at much less than prevailing market prices for the lots are to be sold to the highest bidder.

Marks a Climax.

This auction sale will mark the climax of one of the most successful real estate developments in Greater New York. Borough Park was started in the days when elevated trains were operated by steam locomotives. To reach the section it was necessary to cross the Brooklyn Bridge on one train; take a half hour ride on the elevated and then take a steam railroad for another ten minutes ride. The fare each way was thirteen cents.

Today Borough Park is reached by direct elevated trains from the Brooklyn Bridge, in twenty-five minutes, for a single five cent fare and within a few months the great new Dual Subway System will be serving it by way of the 4th avenue subway, with a running time of only about fifteen minutes from the City Hall.

Under the influence of the better transit which exists today more than 2,000 houses have been erected in Borough Park proper. So great is the population in and near the section that the city has erected in the vicinity three of its largest schools. Borough Park is now a well-built semi-suburban appearing locality, but a change is coming over it rapidly, for the building of the subway on New Utrecht avenue has caused so great a demand for homes that builders have turned their attention almost entirely to high class four-story apartment houses which are filled as fast as they are finished, with tenants who pay excellent rents.

It is this transformation from a section of low price detached houses to one of high class apartments that is causing a steady rise in values in Borough Park. The section has now all the advantages that public or private enterprise can give it.

The lots to be sold by the Jere Johnson, Jr. Co. lie on New Utrecht avenue, 14th to 17th avenues and in 41st to 61st streets. Two one-family houses are to be included in the sale, which is to be held at night, for the convenience of those who cannot leave their business affairs.

TO SELL BRONX LOTS.

On account of the calling of an existing first mortgage, Bryan L. Kennelly will offer on Wednesday, June 16, at the Vesey street salesroom, the property of the Upland Realty Company, comprising 172 lots, bounded by Jessup place, Shakespeare avenue, Featherbed lane and McCombs road, which is divided up into three large and small blocks by Jessup avenue and West 172d street. The sale is of special interest at this time because every lot must be sold in order to satisfy the claim of the lenders and it is expected that a rare opportunity will be afforded to builders and investors to obtain desirable plottage at comparatively low prices.

The property is along the line of the Jerome avenue elevated extension, which location will give the entire area direct rapid transit to both the East and West Sides of Manhattan. There will be stations at the foot of the hill on Jerome avenue at 170th and Belmont streets. Three blocks from the property is University avenue, where the West Bronx trolley lines converge. The entire section is admirably adapted for residential purposes, not only on account of the present and future transit facilities, but also on account of the natural advantages which the high ground affords.

In the immediate vicinity of this property, the trend has already been indicated by construction on Plimpton, Nelson and Shakespeare avenues, and particularly on University avenue, which has been the scene of considerable recent buying for a prospective apartment house improvement.

The large holdings west of University avenue, it is said, will practically shut off the possibility of further building in this direction, so that it is felt that the trend will be eastward towards the property of the Upland Realty Company, which is to be sold. According to those familiar with local conditions, the section east of McCombs road between West 170th street and Featherbed lane, the two principal approaches from Jerome avenue to the Washington Bridge district, across and around the Upland Company's highlands, is destined for improvement with business and amusement buildings and a more moderate grade of multi-family houses.

Real Estate Board Tennis Tournament.

The Tennis Tournament held by the Board on May 11 was finally terminated on June 1. In Class A the winner was Eugene Ashley, who won against J. L. Ennis by a score of 7—9; 6—4; 6—2. In Class B the winner was J. J. McGuire, who won against Fred'k V. Calder by a score of 6—2; 6—3.

The tournament throughout was enjoyed by all who contested and was marked by the special skill of many players of whom the board can be naturally proud.

Special mention can be made of the placement shots and drives of J. L. Ennis, Eugene Ashley, A. R. Parsons and H. Williams in Class A and of the service and returns of J. J. McGuire, F. V. Calder and R. L. Elliman in Class B.

The full number of entries totaled 26 and was confined to single play only, the prizes in each class being handsome silver cups.

As a whole the tournament was a great success and the committee in charge have decided to hold another later in the season to include both singles and doubles. The tennis committee is composed of A. V. Amy, chairman; Wallace J. Hardgrove, secretary; Leroy Coventry, E. A. Tredwell, Harry Parker.

Comptroller William A. Prendergast will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens at its meeting Wednesday afternoon, June 16, and speak on the subject of "Port and Terminal Facilities."

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Sales, leases, new building projects of importance and mortgage loans were well represented in the budget of realty reports of the week. In addition there was an uplift in sales and rentals in the Metropolitan district outside of New York City.

Announcement of the projected erection, through plans filed, of two high-class apartment houses, on Murray Hill, is of interest, because of the demand for houses of this character in the neighborhood. Another building operation is soon to be started in the Dyckman section, which will, of course, cater to those paying less rentals. The Riverside Drive section was represented through the purchase of a corner, by a speculative firm, which will resell to builders for apartment house improvement. The buyers have been prominently identified with the section, having bought about 125 lots in the immediate vicinity during the past two years.

In the Bronx a large brewery, on Third avenue, changed hands, and will be remodelled into a warehouse, which will be thoroughly fireproofed. This property has been vacant for some time.

Among the interesting leases is that of the Hotel Netherland at 783 Fifth avenue. The hotel, which practically has been under one management since its opening about two decades ago, passed into the hands of interests which now operate several other hostelries in this and other cities.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 22, as against 14 last week and 25 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7, as compared with 6 last week and 12 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 15, as compared with 8 last week and 13 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 117, as against 129 last week, 25 having stated considerations totaling $578,214. Mortgages recorded this week numbered 77, involving $1,257,918, as against 84 last week, totaling $3,493,466.

From the Bronx 11 sales at private contract were recorded, as against 5 last week and 15 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,113,315, compared with $1,920,250 last week, making a total for the year of $37,680,648. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $415,634, and the total from January 1, 1914, to June 13, 1914, was $19,860,897.

Old Cafe Boulevard May Go.

Negotiations are reported to be well advanced for the sale of the one-time Cafe Boulevard, a four-story building, at the southeast corner of Second avenue and 10th street, on plot 65.7x125. The property is owned by the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank, which acquired it at foreclosure some time ago, for $100,000. The previous ownership had been in I. H. Rosenfeld, who has since opened a similar establishment in the old Albany Hotel at Broadway and 41st street. There are several apartment houses in the vicinity of Second avenue at this point and it is said that, if the present deal is closed, such a project will be undertaken.

Bronx Brewery Sold.

The Liberty Brewing Company plant, formerly occupied by the Zeltner Brewing Company, in the north side of East 170th street, between Third and Fulton avenues, has been sold by the Cottage Realty Company, De Witt C. Flanagan, president, to a syndicate of warehousemen, headed by Charles H. Sproessig, Jr. The property has a frontage of 280 feet in East 170th street and 200 feet on Fulton avenue and contains eight large buildings. It is understood that the entire plant is to be remodelled into a fireproof warehouse. The broker was John McCullough, former chief of police, who has gone into the real estate business.

Dyckman Corner for Builder.

The J. B. C. Building Company, Joseph B. Cottier, president, bought from the St. Clair Realty Company, the vacant plot, 100x100, at the southeast corner of Dyckman street and Sherman avenue. The buyer contemplates the erection of two five-story apartment houses with stores. The brokers were Wolfsohn & August and Donato Piciulo. The corner is part of a six-lot site acquired in 1908 by the seller; the remaining plot was sold last December to James Livingston, who has built a five-story apartment house.

New Home for Brokers.

Douglas L. Elliman & Company sold for John R. DEPARTMENTAL RULINGS.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

The following appeals and decisions have been handed down by the Board of Building Examiners:

APPEAL 191 of 1915, Alteration 152 of 1915, west side Bryant av, 116.69' south Freeman street, The Bronx. Kreymborg Architectural Company, appellants.

2. Proposed moving of frame building from one lot to another within fire limits is unlawful.

We propose moving a frame building, two stories high, from the east side of Vyse avenue 169' south Freeman st to the west side of Bryant avenue, 116.69' south of Freeman street, all within and bounded by the same block as shown by our diagram filed herewith.

The owner, William Sinnott, has purchased this frame dwelling which at the present time is located on Vyse avenue and also purchased a lot on Bryant avenue with the intention of moving the building to the last mentioned location, and would ask that permission be granted to allow this removal.

When this purchase was made the owner did not know of any change in fire limits and upon filing plans we were informed that moving frame buildings within fire limits was prohibited. We would ask that consideration be given to this case, as there are 18 frame and 3 brick buildings within this block and as we are moving this building from one part of the block to another portion of it, we are not changing the condition of same, or in other words, after change would be made, there would still be 18 frame and 3 brick buildings, with 85 7-10 per cent of frame buildings.

Appearances: Charles Kreymborg and William Sinnott.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the building be set on the southerly lot line.

APPEAL 192 of 1915, New Building 84 of 1915, 145-149 East 49th street, Manhattan. Edward Blum, appellant.

2. Court walls checked are of unlawful thickness in cellar, 1st, 2d and 3d stories.

The walls in question are supported at each floor level on steel beams.

That the walls should not be increased as the increase would not be of any value to the construction.

That our walls are supported on steel beams at each floor level, making same a skeleton wall construction, and any increase of wall would merely add excessive weight to the steel, and at the same time be no material advantage.

Appearance: Edward Blum.

On motion, APPROVED. Mr. Harding recorded in the negative.

APPEAL 208 of 1915, Alteration 3056 of 1915, southwest corner of Livonia avenue and Amboy street, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Comply with Section 142 of Code.

The construction of the buildings as they now stand is legal, and it is not proposed to alter them, but to move them to the opposite side of the street.

Whether the buildings can be moved as they are at present with brick filled party and side walls to a plot on the opposite side of the street and within a block of the line of the new fire limits as established in August, 1914.

That the plot upon which the buildings now stand has been taken by the City of New York for a playground, and the buildings must be either wrecked or moved. The line of the fire limits as established in August, 1914, is only one block away, the section is very thinly populated and the majority of the buildings in the surrounding neighborhood are similar to the ones it is desired to move.

Appearance: W. T. McCarthy.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 213 of 1915 (new), Alteration 3145 of 1915, 359 46th street, Brooklyn. Mortimer Foster, appellant.

That he cannot grant any permit for the removal of the building to a new location.

The building, which is owned and used by the Norwegian Hospital, if destroyed would be a serious loss to the hospital. It is necessary to move the building to make room for the addition of a new fireproof pavilion to the hospital.

Will the Board of Examiners approve the moving of the building to a new site? The building which we propose to move is a two-story frame dwelling, 20x30'. After removal to new location this building will be used as a dormitory for hospital help.

To save the hospital the cost of erecting a new structure to serve the purpose for which the old building is well adapted.

Appearance: Mortimer Foster.

On motion, DISAPPROVED.

APPEAL 214 of 1915, New Building 138 of 1915, 15-17 West 36th street, Manhattan. Messrs. Peabody, Wilson & Brown, appellants.

1. Front and rear skeleton walls of unlawful thickness. (Sec. 36.)

Permission to construct the front and rear skeleton walls 12" thick from the roof to the first floor.

The enclosure wall being supported entirely on the steel skeleton at each floor no practical advantage is gained by making walls thicker than 12". This thickness is ample fire protection and sufficiently rigid against wind pressure, particularly so in the case of this building, which has a twelve-story fireproof building next to it. This change will give the owner the benefit of the economy resulting from the decrease in the cost of brickwork and steel, the simplifying of the foundations and the increase in the floor areas.

Appearances: Albert Wilson and T. C. Tuck.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that all sidewalls be carried on steel above existing party wall. Mr. Harding recorded in the negative.

APPEAL 215 of 1915, New Building 146 of 1915, 132-138 East 45th street, Manhattan. Parish & Schroeder, appellants.

1. The building being 13 stories in height should have fireproof flooring, trim, sash, doors, etc., throughout as required by Section 105.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction is employed.

To allow the pent house as shown on drawings, as the total height of the entire structure including the pent house is only 146 feet from the curb to the top of the pent house roof beams. The pent house will be used exclusively as a place to keep the trunks belonging to the nurses while they are living at the club. There are two direct means of exit from the pent house to the street and in addition there are two elevators that will be installed extending to the pent house which are additional valuable means of exit.

That the construction proposed is equally as good as the law calls for.

Appearance: J. O. Cummings.

On motion, APPROVED.

SOME NARROW ESCAPES FROM ACCIDENT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Co.

"ACCIDENTS will happen in the best regulated families. But precaution should be the sure brake upon their recurrence."

That is the way a prominent building manager sized up the situation regarding accidents in buildings this week. The speaker was in charge of a large number of buildings for a prominent estate. Some of these buildings are well known commercial structures. Others are industrial buildings. All are considered profitable properties, because they are well managed. The extent of this man's supervision ought to be stated so that a full understanding may be obtained as to just how these conditions came to exist. He has figured that in order to reach every one of the buildings in his charge consecutively he has to travel twenty-one miles. The buildings are located in all five boroughs and two of them are in Essex County, New Jersey, in the city of Newark.

Housekeeping by one score miles is some job. He has assistants and depends largely upon them for making inspections; but some of the conditions he has found has led him to change his plan for supervising the buildings in his control. He used to have one assistant visit a certain section. He made him personally responsible. Like some capable men this assistant had his failings and the good man came to be unreliable. The result was that he was careless in his inspections and his laxity was discovered just in time.

There was supposed to be a weekly inspection of elevators. The cables had to be reported upon. When conditions were discovered, however, that resembled those shown in the accompanying illustrations published by courtesy of the Travelers Insurance Company, the manager decided to make a change in both man and system. All five inspectors are now required to make a weekly circuit of that twenty-one mile route and check off the other fellow's reports.

In the picture shown a freight elevator was found operating without car safety devices and supported by a single hoisting cable. The condition at the time of its removal is shown. The elevator was used for both passengers and freight, and as the travel of the car was five stories, grave consequences and possible injuries were narrowly averted.

In still another case there was a home-made elevator in use and at the time it was discovered was carrying loads of 600 to 800 pounds. The chain was promptly removed, but in the words of the insurance company's inspector, it is hard to understand, after examining the worn links, how it held together so long.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of security," as the modern building manager paraphrases the historical utterance, and this is illustrated by the cut showing a sample piece of elevator chain taken from the insurance company's museum. This chain was found in use as a sling chain for hoisting heavy material into a factory building. Some of its links had already started to open. This hoist was in operation over the heads of many persons many hours each working day.

How Are Your Cables?

Accident authorities aver that many so-called accidental injuries are entirely preventable through ordinary precaution. During the year 1914 one insurance company alone reported 195.073 conditions such as have proved productive of accidents. Assuming, for the purpose of argument, that one in fifty would have caused serious injury had they not been detected, we have the impressive total of 3,000 accidents prevented by careful inspection.

There are in New York City 24,000 factory buildings of one story or more. Add to this the number of buildings that are under the care of managers. These managers depend upon reliable subordinates to make inspections of equipment and to report conditions liable to result in accidents to transients or tenants. It is therefore a matter of considerable wonderment that more accidents do not occur. It is mainly because of this sort of vigilance constantly exercised that the number is kept down to modest proportions.

The fact, nevertheless remains that where the single human element is alone depended upon dangerous conditions are bound to exist, as note the fact of almost 200.000 defective appliances reported only last year.

It has been estimated that about 2,553,750 people ride on passenger elevators in New York City every day. The number of vertically traveling passenger cars in use here is estimated to be about 13,000. There are, in addition, about 7,500 freight elevators. Each elevator makes on an average of seventy-five trips in an eight-hour day.

There are about 500 elevators for each municipal inspector to look over. An inspection of every elevator in the city every three months is required by Section 101 of the building code. This means about 2,000 inspections a man, not including the examination and inspection of every new freight and passenger elevator installed.

It is not so surprising that conditions such as are shown in the accompanying illustrations should now and then be found, but rather that more accidents do not actually occur.

Elevators are common carriers and in the case of Fox vs. Philadelphia, 208, page 127, the Supreme Court of Philadelphia said:

"The rule applicable to common carriers of passengers that the mere happenings of injurious accident to a passenger raises prima facie a presumption of negligence on the part of the carrier, is also applicable to a municipality which operates elevators in a public building.

"A person or municipality owning and operating elevators in a building must give to the persons using the elevators the utmost protection which human knowledge, human skill and human foresight and care can provide. In case of injury without fault or negligence by the person injured, the presumption is that such protection has not been afforded and there has been negligence on the part of those operating the elevator."

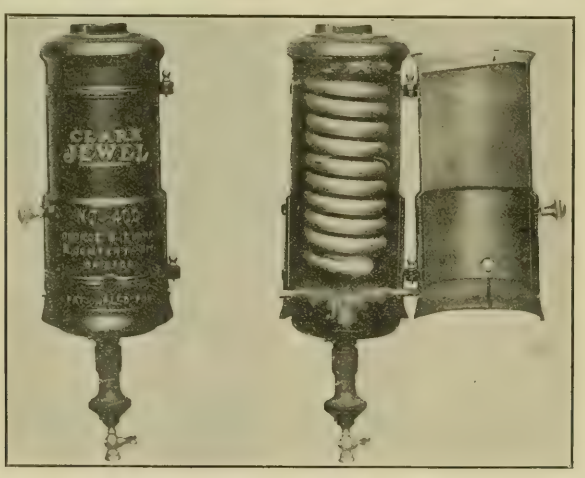
Some people appear to think that the owner of an elevator is held by law to the exercise of good care only. They may learn from the above decision that their idea falls far short of the fact.

It is easy enough for the average manager to dismiss the subject of his responsibility in the matter of elevators with the complacent reminder that he is insured in a company of good standing. In a court of law, however, he may be called upon to show that he selected the insuring company because of its reputation for making thorough inspections if he makes that sort of defense. If they take insurance from companies with a reputation of carelessness in making inspections, the manager or owner may suffer from their disregard of moral responsibilities by actual pecuniary loss. A bad elevator accident is quite likely to cost more than the policy provides in the way of indemnity to the insured.

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.

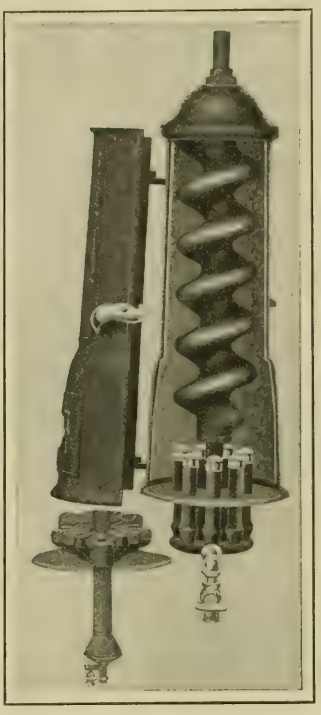


Gas Water Heaters.

VARIOUS improvements have been made in the gas equipment of buildings, but in none perhaps has the development been so keen as in the perfection of the water heaters. The building of water heaters is a science of its own. To succeed correct principles in the construction and wide-awake management and engineering skill must be properly combined to obtain real efficiency at the lowest possible cost. There are some devices on the market which are widely known, others are of more recent design. In line with the series of gas appliances in improvements which have been presented in the Record and Guide the present week introduces the newest designs of water heaters available to building owners, architects and others. The illustrations are shown through the courtesy of the American Gas Light Journal and the National Commercial Gas Institute.

Even Heat Distribution.

PROMINENT among the features of the heaters shown in the first cut is a brass casting brazed on the bottom of the coil, which receives the concentrated heat at the center of the burner. One-inch copper tubing is used, allowing easy flow of water and does not fill up when used with hard water. It is a high efficiency power burner with a condensation cup below. There is a double jacket with air space where the heat is the greatest, composed of cast iron outside and heavy steel inside. Other features are: Steel diaphragm at center of coil and ribs cast on casing to guide the flow of gases which have much to do with the heater's efficiency.

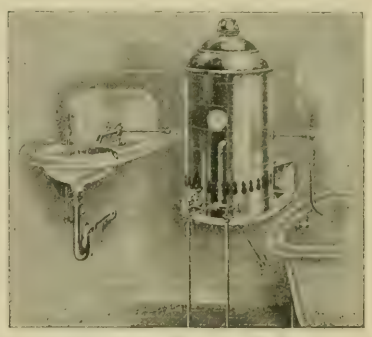


The brass casing at the bottom of the coil is directly over the hot central part of the flame, and the copper tubing gets the full effect of the powerful burner. By this arrangement a great deal of heat that would otherwise escape is transferred to the water.

Double Coil Heater.

DISTINGUISHING characteristics of this heater include a one-piece worm-shaped water chamber made either of cast brass or cast iron. The water chamber in this heater is cast in one piece, and is worm or screw shaped, as the name indicates. This construction insures the exposure of the greatest possible surface to the direct action of the heat; eliminates all angles or pockets which might collect sediment; and affords an unobstructed course for the water.

The new burner for this appliance shows high efficiency. It is of the bunsen type, shaped to project the flame in a semi-circle around the base of the water chamber. Its peculiar shape permits the maintenance of the highest possible velocity of the gas at the nozzle, and unretarded conduct to the point of combustion, assuring a powerful flame and efficient combustion without danger of firing back.



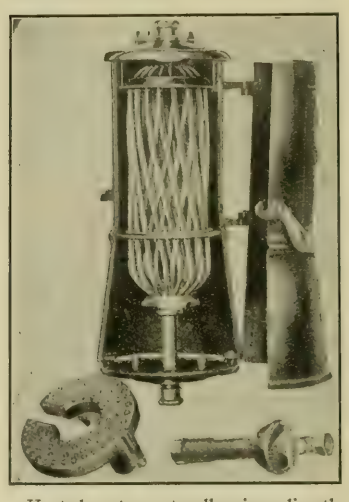
The cast iron jacket fits snugly around the water chamber so as to compel the products of combustion to follow the deep spiral threads of the water chamber in their travel upward to the flue. In this way the entire surface of the water chamber (approximately two square feet) is directly exposed to the products of combustion, absorbing the maximum amount of heat for communication to the water that courses through the chamber.

The jacket is made in two equal sections, the front half forming the door, which must be opened to light the burner.

The illustration shows two types of burners, a drilled star burner and one of individual bunsens with gauge caps.

Bathroom Water Heater.

SCIENTIFIC construction of this heater prevents the creation of injurious products of combustion, and, therefore, eliminates the dangerous vent pipe, and down draft troubles. The heater can be installed in any place where there is gas and water, because there is no flue pipe or condensation attachment required.

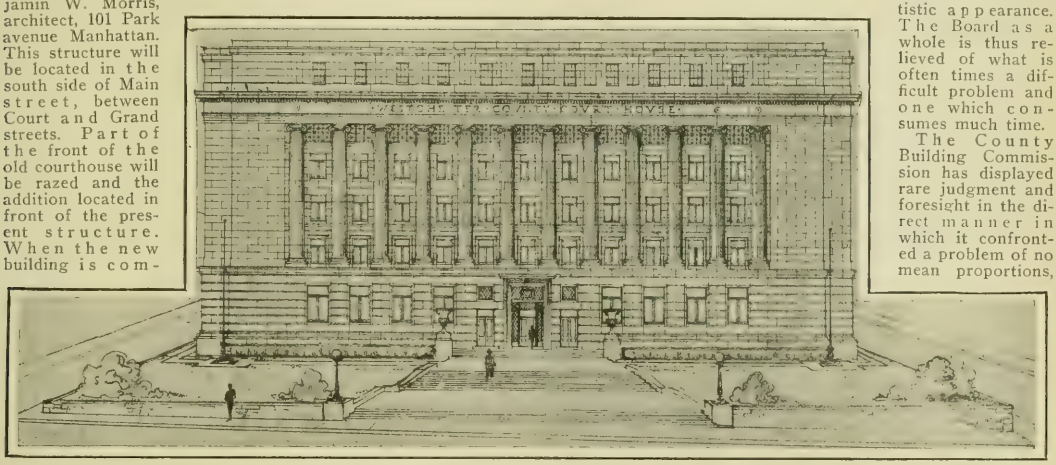


The advantage of this device is that it supplies one of the greatest household needs; hot water for bathing and shaving purposes, with the least possible consumption of gas. The heater itself is an ornament in a bath room and by virtue of its scientific burner it is odorless and no vent pipe is necessary. The virtue of this device is that it gives to the apartment house owner a device that will supply his tenant with hot water without having to run a vent pipe through his side wall.

Vertical Pipe Heater.

SMALL seamless heavy gauge copper pipes surround small units of water in the device illustrated. These pipes swedged into bronze heads forming boiler and water tight joints, and the heads fused into a solid mass with a special metal produce a non-leakable connection.

The pipes are so placed that the entire heating surface is exposed to the fire directly. The burner is of approved one-piece pattern, and especially designed to concentrate the heat to carry the largest possible percentage of heat units into the water.



Heated water naturally rises directly upward, not sideways and then up, but straight up. In the vertical pipes of this water heater the instant the water begins to receive the heat it takes its natural flow upward. Because of the small columns of water surrounded by proportionally large heating surfaces, the reception of the heat by the water is almost instantaneous and with the unusually large percentage of the heat absorbed by the water the rapidity of action is accounted for.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

County Courthouse Addition in Westchester Will Involve Outlay of Nearly $1,000,000—Other Buildings in Group

WESTCHESTER COUNTY Board of Supervisors, through the Westchester County Building Commission, has arranged for a comprehensive program of improvements, particularly as applied strictly to building projects. This program will require an expenditure of county funds to the extent of more than $2,000,000 for the erection of an imposing addition to the county courthouse, at White Plains, N. Y., and a new almshouse, tuberculosis hospital and penitentiary group, to be built in the town of Mt. Pleasant.

Foremost in importance in this program is the courthouse addition for which plans are now being prepared by Benjamin W. Morris, architect, 101 Park avenue Manhattan. This structure will be located in the south side of Main street, between Court and Grand streets. Part of the front of the old courthouse will be razed and the addition located in front of the present structure. When the new building is completed Westchester County will have for the transaction of county business a group of four buildings, joined together and having as their center the historic old White Plains courtroom, erected in 1855.

Benjamin W. Morris, Architect.

FRONT ELEVATION OF THE WESTCHESTER COUNTY COURTHOUSE ADDITION.

Plans for the new structure call for a building six stories in height, 182 x 100 feet over all. Indiana limestone will be employed in the construction of the exterior and the building will be absolutely fireproof throughout. E. E. Seelye, 101 Park avenue, has been retained as structural engineer and J. F. Mussellman, 101 Park avenue, is the consulting engineer for steam heating, ventilating, electric installation and sanitation.

Classic Style Used.

Architecturally, this building is being designed in a severely Classic style. The austerity of its front is broken up by a colonnade of twelve fluted Ionic columns, forty feet in height.

In plan the structure will provide for efficient transaction of county business. The principal entrance, from Main street, opens into a rotunda which will extend upward the full height of the building, supplying adequate light and ventilation.

On the main floor, to the right of the rotunda, will be located the offices of the county treasurer, county comptroller and purchasing agent. On the left of the main floor the space will be utilized as offices for the surrogate and as record rooms.

The second floor will be devoted entirely to courtrooms and from a mezzanine floor the suite for the district attorney, the grand jury room and the witness rooms will be reached. Private stairways from these offices will lead to the courtrooms above and to the offices and rooms below. The top floor has been reserved entirely for the county and Supreme Court law libraries.

Elevator Equipment.

Two electric elevators will be installed when the building is erected and space will be reserved for two additional cars, if required at a later date. Separate rooms will be provided for the women and children who are called as witnesses. The interior of the structure will be of simple design and construction for the purpose of minimizing expense both in initial cost of construction and in repairs and maintenance.

The building will cost approximately $800,000 to erect, and it is hoped to have it completed and ready for occupancy by July 1, 1916. The working drawings are now well under way and it is expected that bids for construction will be invited at an early date.

Work on Other Buildings.

The plans for the other buildings called for by the commission's program are not quite so far advanced, and except for the preliminary studies practically nothing definite has been accomplished. The almshouse, tuberculosis hospital and penitentiary will be erected at East View, in the town of Mt. Pleasant. Here the county has purchased a four hundred acre tract which was part of the Alexander Smith Cochrane farm. This tract is to be developed and will be the site of as fine a group of county buildings as it is possible to design and construct.

The new almshouse will be planned by Walker & Gillette, architects, 128 East 37th street, and James Brite, 18 East 41st street, has been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the proposed hospital for the county tuberculosis patients. This project will consist of a complete group of buildings, adequate for the future requirements of the county. The penitentiary group of buildings will consist of a penitentiary, workshop, laundry, power plant, etc., and will be planned by Alfred Hopkins, 101 Park avenue. Mr. Hopkins has had a wide experience in the design of structures of this character and is the architect of the East Side Court Building and jail which is soon to be erected in the Borough of Manhattan.

While these buildings to be erected at Mt. Pleasant are to be designed by various architects, they will adhere strictly to a specified style and will harmonize with each other as well as with their environment.

When the Westchester Board of Supervisors appointed its County Building Commission it took a step which might well be emulated by other counties in this State. The Commission is made wholly responsible for the buildings erected in future by the county, both as regards practical construction and artistic appearance. The Board as a whole is thus relieved of what is often times a difficult problem and one which consumes much time.

The County Building Commission has displayed rare judgment and foresight in the direct manner in which it confronted a problem of no mean proportions, namely, the rapid completion of preliminary arrangements for a very comprehensive building scheme. Under ordinary circumstances, in a project of the magnitude of the one now being considered by Westchester County, the architect would have been selected by a competition. This would have consumed at least three months of valuable time and in addition required a considerable outlay of money in prizes or guarantees. In the event of a competition there is also the danger that when the announcement of the award is made those not mentioned will give way to the cry of politics, wire pulling or favoritism. This was all eliminated.

Commission's Good Work.

The commission is to be highly complimented on dividing and awarding the work directly to architects of high standing and of recognized ability, and who can be entirely depended upon to cooperate with each other, and utilize their talents to the best of their ability to further the cause of the county. It has selected a way out of a very perplexing problem with great wisdom and without doubt for the greatest good to the largest number.

The progress in the construction of the various buildings contemplated by Westchester County will be under the supervision of A. N. Garthwaite, of Yonkers, who has been retained by the owner as County Inspector of Buildings. His long experience as a building contractor should make him particularly valuable in this connection.

COMPANY WINS SUIT.

Patents Owned by Scaffolding Company Held Valid by Court of Appeals.

By a recent decision of the United States Court of Appeals of the Eighth Circuit, the Patent Scaffolding Co., 647 West street, New York City, lessor of adjustable safety suspended platforms, was awarded profits, damages, injunction and costs in the case of the New York Scaffolding Co. vs. Egbert Whitney.

This is a most important patent decision and is very broad and lengthy, having been written by Judge Sanborn, who is considered one of the foremost authorities on patent law throughout the country. The Patent Scaffolding Company has heretofore brought suits against infringers, but this one is the first where the patent has been finally adjudicated and would indicate that the series of patents owned by this company are very strong and binding upon the trade.

The company has operated for a number of years in New York City and has been successful in the prevention of scaffolding accidents. Perhaps its most notable achievement has been the furnishing of the scaffolding equipment upon the Woolworth and Equitable buildings, without any accident whatsoever. This record has been recognized by the award of the Scientific American gold medal by the American Museum of Safety to the Patent Scaffolding Co., which also has received the grand prize at the First International Exposition of Safety and Sanitation held at the Grand Central Palace, New York City, and a medal at the Dresden Exposition in the summer of 1911.

The company has a very prominent display of its devices at the Panama-Pacific Exposition and will probably receive a gold medal from the jury of award. Practically all the recent buildings in this city have used scaffolds leased by this company, also many other buildings throughout the United States and Canada as this company operates its machines through its agents in various parts of both countries.

INTERLOCKING SAFETY DEVICES

A Favorable Report on an Experiment in the Municipal Building.

Borough President Marks and Chief Engineer Lewis of the Board of Estimate have reported the results of an experimental operation of elevator safety devices that has been going on in the Municipal Building since March. Car No. 11 was equipped without expense to the city with a device to prevent the car from being moved in either direction while the shaft door is unlocked. The conclusions arrived at follow:

"We believe that the demonstration which has been conducted with this appliance on car No. 11 in the Municipal Building shows very conclusively that the interlocking safety devices on elevators are entirely practicable and that the one which we have inspected satisfactorily and effectively accomplishes the purpose for which it was designed. There may be, and there probably are, other such devices, but we do not understand that the board desired us to examine and report upon others that are on the market either as to their efficiency or their construction. We are convinced that the many accidents which have been caused by unlocked elevator doors which can be opened when the car is not at the landing would be impossible if the elevators were equipped with a device as effective as the one which we have examined."

Contractor for Industrial Building.

Moyer Engineering & Construction Co., 375 Fulton street, Brooklyn, has been awarded a general contract to erect a modern factory building on the south side of Broadway near Wythe avenue, Brooklyn. The structure which will be owned by the Gretsch Building No. 4, Inc., Fred Gretsch, president, 110 South 4th street, has been leased for a term of years to Braunsworth & Co., bookbinders, 16 Nassau street, Manhattan. The plans for this structure were prepared by William Higginson, architect and engineer, 13-21 Park Row, and call for a building ten stories in height, 80x260 feet. It will be built of reinforced concrete throughout and have every modern appliance for safety and comfort. Its cost is placed at between $550,000 and $600,000.

New Plant for Schaefer Brewing Co.

Plans are being prepared in the offices of Mortensen & Co., architects and engineers, 405 Lexington avenue, Manhattan, for the group of buildings to be erected for the F. & M. Schaefer Brewing Co., Park avenue and 51st street, Manhattan, on the block bounded by 9th and 10th streets, Kent avenue and the East river, Brooklyn. These buildings will be built of brick and stone on a steel frame and as projected will include a brewhouse, stockhouse, power plant, garage, bottling plant and service building. A general contract for the construction of these buildings has been awarded to the John Peirce Co., 383 Madison avenue, Manhattan.

Edison Service

Makes Good

It was in October 1910 that Alwyn Court at 58th Street and Seventh Avenue was first opened to tenants

The architect had previously stipulated a private electric generating plant. This idea, however, was discarded for Edison Service on which the Court opened. Street Supply has since demonstrated consistently how economical and trustworthy light and power supply can be when in the hands of highly trained experts

Service such as this will help your receipts increase. In any event, you lose nothing by writing or phoning us for an estimate

Mr. Farley's endeavor will be devoted among his large acquaintance of construction engineers and architects.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS which are members of the Hudson County Building Trades Alliance recently filed a protest at the Jersey City office of the State Civil Service Commission on the claim that there is a preferred list of building inspectors. It is claimed that these inspectors were "blanketed in under the law when it was adopted" and that they were "never examined as to their qualifications or fitness and never questioned as to their experience or training in relation to building construction."

GEORGE D. BARNETT, senior member of the firm of Barnett, Haynes & Barnett, architects of St. Louis, Mo., architects for the new Cathedral of St. Louis in that city, recently arrived in New York to make a final selection of the mosaics and jewels to be used in one of the chapels. This chapel is the gift to the Cathedral of R. C. Kerens, a prominent railroad builder of St. Louis, and formerly United States Ambassador to Austria-Hungary. The interior decorations of this chapel are expected to cost more than $75,000.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE has added the names of three prominent New York architects to its faculty. William A. Boring has been appointed professor in charge of design; Francis A. Nelson, associate professor, and Frederick L. Ackerman a lecturer in principles of architecture. Mr. Boring and Mr. Nelson are graduates of Columbia University and Mr. Ackerman was graduated from Cornell University. All three are graduates of the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris.

UNIVERSAL PORTLAND CEMENT CO. makes the following announcement: R. F. Atkins, formerly Assistant Credit Manager at Chicago, has been appointed Eastern Credit Manager at Pittsburg, vice L. S. Fuqua, deceased. Ray S. Huey, formerly Assistant General Superintendent, Buffington plant, Buffington, Ind., has been appointed Superintendent of the Duluth plant, Duluth, Minn. Frederick Robinson has been appointed Assistant Superintendent of that plant. C. O. Soderquist, formerly Superintendent of Mill 6, at Buffington plant, has been appointed Assistant General Superintendent, Buffington plant. J. H. Kempster, formerly Chief Chemist, Buffington plant, is now Superintendent of mills 3 and 4 of the Buffington plant, and M. S. Humphreys, formerly Chief Draftsman, has been appointed Superintendent of mill 6 at Buffington, Ind.

TRADE LITERATURE

The Associated Metal Lath Manufacturers, of Youngstown, O., has just published a comprehensive book, dealing with metal lath, and edited by H. B. McMaster. The book, which is bound in cloth, contains 128 pages of text, profusely illustrated. It deals with the various uses of metal lath and should prove of great value to those who use the product.

There has just come to hand a most artistic and well compiled catalogue showing some of the buildings in which the Webster Modulation System of Heating has been installed. The interest in this work centers in the fact that the entire system is fully explained therein for the benefit of architects, but it is equally understandable by the laity. Copies of this book may be obtained by addressing Warren Webster & Co., Camden, N. J.

There is just off the press the fourth edition of "Financing an Enterprise," by Francis Cooper. The volume, which contains about 525 pages, is a manual of information and suggestion for promotors, investors and business men in general. The work is divided into the following classification: The enterprise; 2, Investigation of an Enterprise; 3, Protection of an Enterprise; 4, Capitalization of an Enterprise; 5, Presentation of an Enterprise; and 6, Special Features of Promotion.

LOUIS BOSSERT & SONS, lumber and trim manufacturers, have issued a comprehensive book on the building of portable houses, bungalows, garages, churches, schools and manufacturing plants, boat houses and hospitals. The entire building, as shown in the illustrations, is made of sections just large enough to conveniently handle and erect, and the sections are interchangeable. Skilled labor of any kind is not required, and the entire building can be erected by anyone possessing average knowledge and a monkeywrench.

THE ATLANTIC TERRA COTTA COMPANY'S June number of its Monthly for Architects, deals with a subject of paramount interest to architects and owners of buildings in general, that of color. It tells in a fascinating way just how terra cotta glazes are produced and why they are permanent. The conception of the editor, Edward H. Putnam, of this interesting publication, which is sent to architects each month, is a happy one in view of the general tendency of builders to conserve light in crowded sections for neighboring structures by making the exterior of buildings as light in shade as possible.

A COMPREHENSIVE and complete hand book on Hy-Rib and Metal Lath products is represented by the enclosed copy of the 13th edition of the Hy-Rib handbook just off the press. This publication embraces all the advantageous features and information in previous editions and includes many valuable and important additions. All the various types of Hy-Rib are shown with their applications to all types of constructions. Specifications and reading matter have been completely revised and include the most recent developments and improvements. Many new details and discussions have been added. The photographs of installations are particularly comprehensive, including many new applications. Illustrations and information on Pressed Steel Studs and Kahn Pressed Steel Construction, as well as the floretyle construction have been added. The hand book is sent free to interested parties.

S. H. POMEROY CO., INC., manufacturers of hollow metal fire retardant windows at 282-96 East 134th street, Manhattan, has issued the May number of "Window Wisdom," its unique little sales-promotion periodical appearing at intervals throughout the year. The text for this number is "Responsibility," and around it the editor has built up an appeal to owners, architects, contractors and building tenants in the interest of more thorough fire-prevention methods. The unusual feature of this little journal is that the article it exploits, the Pomeroy Fire Retardant Window, is kept severely in the background of a discussion of larger subjects which are of vital interest to the owner and professional man to whom the booklet is addressed. For instance in the present number, the Pomeroy window is considered simply as one of many fire-resisting and fire-retarding building accessories which are essential if the fire hazard is to be minimized. After considering "the national ash heap" and the individual drain it makes upon the pocket of every member of a community, the editor proceeds to show how the reduction of this waste is a matter of personal responsibility with every one having to do with building operations.

DISPLAY WINDOW LIGHTING AND THE CITY BEAUTIFUL, by F. Laurent Godinez, New York, The Wm. T. Comstock Co. Cloth, Illuminated Cover 6x9, 226 pages, 115 illustrations. Colored plates. (Price $2.00.) A very unusual book is this. Window advertising is an important department of business, and display window lighting has come to be a science. This book is full of facts and new ideas for the progressive merchant. Here he will find discussed from an authoritative knowledge such subjects as modern display lighting, the lighting of signs, color attraction lighting with electricity, lighting with gas, advertising and attraction. The volume is handsomely printed, illustrated and bound. Theodore Starrett in a review which he has written of it says: "So impressed have I been with my experience (with reflected light) that I have asked the privilege of speaking a word about Mr. Godinez's book. Here, among other things is stated a new use for a show window. The old notion that it was only really necessary as a mirror in which passing ladies and gentlemen could view their counterfeit presentments and arrange their hats, their hair or their neckties is exploded. I have recently seen show windows in which you could only see the goods in the windows instead of yourself as you looked within. But that, perhaps, is not just what Mr. Godinez writes of here. But my experience opened my eyes, and I can testify now from actual experience that there is 'something to it'—something big."

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

GENERAL PRICE ADVANCE OF 10 PER CENT. AFTER SEPTEMBER FIRST EXPECTED BY THE TRADE IN THIS VICINITY

Hager Portland Cement Company Incorporated—Its Probable Effect

VARIOUS changes are looked for in the price and supply of building materials coming into the metropolitan district, before the turn of the first half of the year. The principal concern is with supply. If the reported deals for the centralization of control of various ship building establishments are fully confirmed by future events and the new $20,000,000 Hager Portland Cement Company gets under way in time to take up some of the business expected to materialize within the next few months, a conflicting condition affecting prices will result. These two factors alone will have an important bearing upon practically all other building materials.

If there is to be a revival of ship building in this country a heavier demand is going to be created for steel, lumber, iron, glass, oils, rope, tar, copper, brass and practically every commodity that enters building construction of the better sort. If the chain of manufacturing plants is established as proposed by Mr. Hager it will put an effectual brake upon any skyrocketing tendency of Portland cement owing to the otherwise almost certain shortage in cement supply before the autumn season sets in. If the price of Portland cement is kept within the 90 cent mill level the price of all concrete ingredients will remain within reach of the builder and even common brick prices will not soar beyond safe metropolitan district wholesale levels.

In other words, the demand for construction materials in the face of restricted supply, in almost every branch of the trade, save that of common brick, entering this market is such as to cause the wholesale trade considerable uneasiness. Producers recognizing the trend of affairs are not desirous of selling their products at a loss, nor at a meagre profit. They are simply holding back until they can make some money.

In the meantime building construction statistics from all parts of the country show a $10,000,000 gain over the corresponding period last year. When manufacturers of building materials compute the requirements of the late summer and autumn they give more consideration to exports and general structural requirements. The demeanor of steel, copper, chemicals used in paints and varnishes, hardwoods, special grades of lumber, spelter, cement and common brick in the last few weeks are only vanes showing which way the business air currents are blowing. It may account for the action of railroad companies in coming out for liberal supplies at this time.

Whereas in the past the requirements of building construction was the principal factor under consideration, it is at present temporarily only a secondary factor. The requirements of brick and concrete roads, the heavy exports of shaped or manufactured building materials, such as metal ceilings, reinforcement, cement, etc., to South America and the neutral countries abroad have only one interpretation to those in the supply market here. Jobbers abroad are looking for an early peace and are preparing for the reconstruction period by loading up. It is argued that if this change can take place now with the war still in progress every day the end of the war comes nearer the greater this demand will become.

The result is that the American building contractor and the man who is contemplating the construction of buildings of any sort will find an ascending scale of prices as already shown in leading lines. Inclement weather has had a restricting influence upon the movement of materials in important centers throughout the east, but the basic supply is nevertheless restricted and will continue to be so. One authority said it would be wholly conservative to arbitrarily mark up all building materials ten per cent. after September first.

Plan filings in the five boroughs this week follow. In the corresponding week last year 323 new building plans were filed with an estimated value of $2,105,925.

HAGAR CEMENT COMPANY FORMED. $20,000,000 Corporation Files Paper in Augusta, Maine—Starts Soon.

DE FREES, BUCKINGHAM & EATON, of Chicago, counsel for the Hagar Portland Cement Company, filed articles of incorporation under the laws of Maine, at Augusta, this week. The papers call for an ultimate capitalization of $20,000,000, which will be entirely in common stock with no bonds. The company will be ready to begin operations within the next few months, starting with an initial annual output capacity of 14,000,000 barrels a year, divided among twelve companies, two of which will be located in this district, one in the Lehigh and one in the Hudson zone.

Edward M. Hagar, who will be the president of the company, said late yesterday afternoon that while the incorporation papers had been filed, it was too early yet to give the names of those who will be departmental heads of the new company, nor the names of the companies which will be among the twelve composing the chain. This announcement will be made later. The main offices of the company will be at 208 LaSalle street, Chicago. An office will be established in this city.

The idea, as previously outlined in the Record and Guide, is to save the consumer of Portland cement a considerable amount in freight charges and at the same time materially reduce the cost of manufacture of this commodity. Supplies will be bought in bulk and distributed among the plants supplying their respective zones. Each one of these zones will have a shipping radius of about 200 square miles except in the far West. All business originating in a given zone will be taken care of by the plant nearest the job.

The plans are said to call for the production of Portland cement of uniform grade and quality. Established plants will be selected so that there will not be required an extensive amount of new building construction, but each plant in the chain will be thoroughly modernized with the latest machinery for producing good cement as cheaply as possible.

Mr. Hagar, who has been taking care of the brunt of the organization work since he resigned from the presidency of the Universal Portland Cement Company, a subsidiary company of the United States Steel Corporation, said that it was too early to make a detailed statement of the company's plans, but probably would have something more to say at a later date.

There are now approximately 450 different uses for Portland cement in wholesale quantities and the industry has grown to be the fourth in extractial importance in the country. The latest development has been the creation of a tremendous market for cement for road construction and specifications are out now for more than 1,500 miles. It requires about 3,000 barrels of cement for a mile of good road, making a current requirement alone of 4,500,000 barrels. The export problem has not loomed up, as yet, as an important factor in the sale of cement in large quantities, but apparently there is a development tending toward tremendous gains in the consumption of this material on this side of the Atlantic.

LIME & PLASTER.

Dealers and Agents Here Restrict Shipments as Labor Strife Looms.

LIME and plaster men were not inclined to let shipments run very heavy this week in anticipation of eventualities arising out of a conference of the plasterers and their bosses. At this conference the question as to whether a maximum shall be placed upon the amount of work a journeyman plasterer may do in a work day would be approved by the bosses. The bosses had been reported as having given notice to the journeymen that if they attempted to put this proposal into effect a lock out of all plasterers in the city would follow. It was predicted that an amicable adjustment would be effected.

These were the stories that reached the floor of the Building Material Exchange and probably accounted for the slow market in that department this week.

METALS.

Spelter Stronger—Copper Firm and Steel Steadier.

PENDING developments in certain lines of structural activity and in industrial expansion, notably the further acquisition of ship yards, there was a steadier tone to the metals department of the building material market this week. Spelter failed to advance as expected and lead held fairly steady. Copper also remained stationary at 24 cents for finished sheets and brass was firm at a cent higher.

Structural steel as applied to building construction shows the same degree of retardation, but for commercial purposes and for equipment of one sort or another there is a decidedly improved tone. As far as building work is concerned the big companies are figuring a great quantity of work. Prices have remained unchanged in structural shapes and pig iron.

COMMON BRICK.

Good Demand and Sales Keep Market Steady at $6.50.

ARRIVALS and sales of common Hudson brick exactly balanced each other as the week closed. Fifty-one barges came in and fifty-one went out, leaving 41 barge loads still in the market this morning, with four en route. Prices continued at $6 and $6.50. Raritan brick was stiff at $6.50.

Conditions in the suburban districts as regards common brick are without change, except that there are fewer concessions. Newark yard prices run between $7 and $7.25. There is considerable second hand brick moving at $3.25 and $3.75 a thousand in this city.

THE INDUSTRIAL FUTURE OF THE BRONX

Remarkable Revelations From the U. S. Supreme Court Concerning the Advantages We Have Here For Iron and Steel Manufacturing

BY CYRUS C. MILLER

GREAT events are happening in the industrial world which will affect strongly the future of the Bronx. Heretofore the principal industry of the borough has been the erection of buildings—some for business, but largely for dwellings for its citizens who labor outside of the borough. A new industrial idea of enormous value to New York is progressing among capitalists, namely, the location of iron and steel industries around New York harbor. For this the Bronx is peculiarly adapted.

The building industry of the Bronx is bound to go on; but, in addition to its activity in dwelling houses, it will expand so as to include industrial buildings and plants. The population of the Bronx has grown very fast to over 700,000, because people have come there to establish homes and bring up their children.

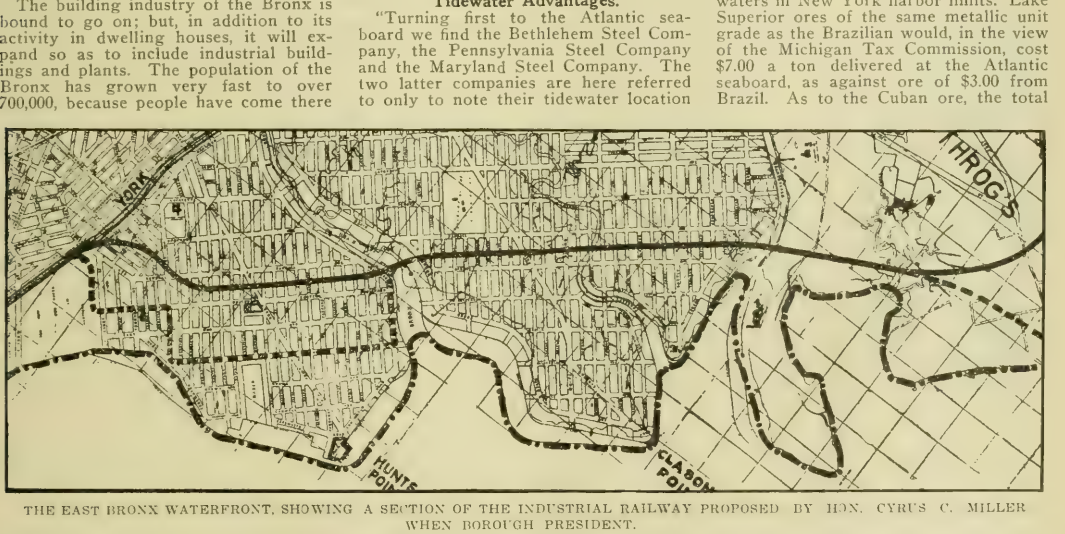
More Industries Needed.

Its industries, however, have not grown so fast, and its residents spend time and vitality in traveling elsewhere for their daily work. An all-around development of the borough demands the establishment of industries within easy distance of its dwellings. Its natural facilities for such industries are not to be excelled in any city of the United States. Its miles of frontage on the navigable waters of the Hudson River, Harlem River, East River and Long Island Sound; its many lines of railroads, and its nearness to a large market and full labor supply give it advantages over any competitors in the matter of location of such industries.

These railroads must be connected by an industrial railroad running around the southerly and easterly shores of the Bronx on which freight brought into the borough on any railroad or steamship line may be transferred to any other line.

The Barge Canal, to be opened in the near future, and the Panama Canal, now in operation, hold out promises of future industrial development of the Bronx which are almost inconceivable.

The decision of the United States District Court for the district of New Jersey, in the case of United States of America vs. United States Steel Corporation et al., was of far-reaching importance, and especially to the Bronx. In its opinion dated June 3, 1915, the court concludes that the Steel Corporation is not an illegal combination, because the steel and iron business is not and cannot be monopolized by it. The court comments on the strong competition which the Steel Corporation has and will have to meet:



Tidewater Advantages.

"Turning first to the Atlantic seaboard we find the Bethlehem Steel Company, the Pennsylvania Steel Company and the Maryland Steel Company. The two latter companies are here referred to only to note their tidewater location as an advantage which the Steel Corporation with its inwardly located works does not possess. Their ore supplies are drawn from the great Cornwall ore beds of eastern Pennsylvania and from Cuba, where they have inexhaustible supplies of Bessemer ore which can be worked by steam shovels and are close to tidewater.

"Three matters have impressed us in reference to this seaboard competition: First, that the Eastern seaboard iron and steel competition of the Steel Corporation has an ore supply wholly independent of Lake Superior; second, that their location near the seaboard gives in many cases substantial freight advantages over the Steel Corporation; and, thirdly, that the greatest advance in ore and steel production in the past ten years has been made by the seaboard competitor of the Steel Corporation, the Bethlehem Steel Company. * * * The market reach of basic iron and steel plants is measurably restricted to its own district by freight limitations. The supplies from which steel is made and the basic articles into which it is turned are of such bulk and weight as to thus localize or restrict their markets.

"Freight changes forbid such heavy product being hauled to far-removed markets. The proofs show that the competitors of the Steel Corporation have abundant ore supplies, cheap water freights and a great accessible surrounding market. The proofs further show that with the enlargement of the Erie Canal system Lake Superior ore will be canal-freighted from Buffalo to New York at 28 cents a ton less than the same ore is rail freighted from Lake Erie ports to the Pittsburgh district.

"With the enlargement of that canal, the proofs are that blast furnaces are now planned for location on seaboard waters in New York harbor limits. Lake Superior ores of the same metallic unit grade as the Brazilian would, in the view of the Michigan Tax Commission, cost $7.00 a ton delivered at the Atlantic seaboard, as against ore of $3.00 from Brazil. As to the Cuban ore, the total cost will not in any case exceed $2.25 per ton. This means that the ore reaches Philadelphia (or New York) at a net cost of 4 cents per unit of iron. It is the cheapest ore in the world delivered at eastern Atlantic ports or in German or English ports."

THE EAST BRONX WATERFRONT, SHOWING A SECTION OF THE INDUSTRIAL RAILWAY PROPOSED BY HON. CYRUS C. MILLER WHEN BOROUGH PRESIDENT.

A Relocation of Steel Industries.

These quotations predict a relocation of the iron and steel industries of the East, with their attendant industries, such as hardware, machinery, tools, railroad supplies, stoves and the like. This is of the greatest importance to the whole city of New York, as it means participation in the world's business in iron and steel. They should come to the Bronx, where every facility is offered them.

Four elements must be considered in the economical manufacture of iron and steel. The business must go where these elements can be had most cheaply.

(a) Cost of iron ore.
(b) Cost of coke.
(c) Cost of limestone.
(d) Cost of distribution of products.

Success in producing high-grade iron cheaply depends upon the ability to procure the different kinds of ores necessary for mixtures at low prices. A comparison of Pittsburgh and New York facilities for obtaining raw materials cheaply shows New York to have most of the advantages. The average lake and rail freight per ton for Lake Superior ore to Pittsburgh is $2.03, while the total rate over the Barge Canal to New York will be $1.75. As there is about 50 per cent. of metallic iron in the ore, this saving will amount to about 50 cents per ton of pig iron.

Iron Ore at Low Prices.

The strength of the New York position is that it may secure a great variety of ores at low prices. The Adirondack ore mines are easy of access to New York. These ores will cost Pittsburgh $3.54 for transportation, while they can be laid down in New York for 77 cents per ton at present, and this rate may be cut in two when the Lake Champlain Canal is completed.

The Texas ores are of good quality and may be brought to New York for about $3.70 per ton, which is lower than the rate to Pittsburgh. The Cuban ores are in great quantity and cost $4.50 a ton to Pittsburgh and $1.80 to New York. Newfoundland has immense ore deposits which can be laid down in New York for $1.52 per ton, as against $4.38 to Pittsburgh. Venezuelan and Chilean ores are likewise accessible to New York at a low rate.

The advantage to New York in the Brazilian, Venezuelan and Chilean ore trade would lie in the return freight business which the vessels could enjoy. American manufacturers going to the three places named would be carried by the same vessels which brought ore to New York.

Cost of Coke.

New York is able to produce coke at a low rate because it has a plentiful coal supply and a sufficient market for the by-products. Pittsburgh has an advantage over New York in the manufacture of coke. It can make coke for $1.94 per ton of pig iron, while it would cost the New York producer $3.85. This is more than offset by the saving in transportation of Adirondack, Cuban and Newfoundland ores, and the cost of delivery of manufactured iron from Pittsburgh to the New York market.

New York has large and cheap available supplies of limestone on the Hudson River and in Maine.

New York has the largest supply of labor, both common and skilled, in the United States.

The convenience of New York to its own large market and the markets of New England give it a great advantage over Pittsburgh. Much of this distribution can be made by water.

New York has an unusual location for the manufacturer of steel because it can produce the pig iron cheaply and can buy the scrap iron for melting at a low rate.

Beyond the unusual facilities for rail and water domestic distribution, the Bronx affords fine accommodations for foreign shipping. Ore-bearing vessels from Cuba and South America need not go through the tortuous and congested channels of the East River and Hell Gate, but can come around the east end of Long Island directly to the Bronx. This slight extra distance is of no importance. On their return they can carry manufactured products.

The establishment of iron and steel industries in the Bronx will be only one factor in the tremendous industrial development which is bound to come to that fortunately situated part of Greater New York.

TRINITY'S DWELLINGS LIKE OLD NEW YORK

Comfortable Little Homes From Which the Tenants Seldom Move—Report of Miss Dinwiddie in the Year Book

THROUGH the expiration of leases more of the dwelling houses erected on land belonging to the parish have come under Trinity's control and the general standard of living conditions in the property of the parish has been fully maintained.*

Fifteen houses built and formerly belonging to other owners holding ground leases have been purchased by Trinity Corporation during the year.

Houses on Ground Lease Sites.

There are now only 97 dwelling houses on Trinity Corporation's land which do not belong to the corporation, instead of between two and three hundred, as was the case when the preliminary study of the properties was made in 1909.

The ground lease properties still remaining are of two classes, those still on old long leases and others on short leases. For some years past no renewals of ground leases have been granted for more than twelve months, and examination of the premises is made in every case before renewal of the lease of the site to ascertain whether the house is in good condition and complies with the law.

Beside one former ground lease house torn down, two houses which were owned by Trinity last year were torn down in the course of the year, the sites being taken for a new building for a working girls' home by one of the churches of this section.

General Conditions in the Houses.

In spite of some changes from year to year in the purchase of additional houses as ground leases expire and in the tearing down of a few buildings here and there to make way for new improvements, the general type of Trinity's dwelling houses and tenants remains the same.

The length of residence of the families is conspicuous. The Trinity tenants do not move once a year. To have been in a house less than a year is the exception and to have occupied the same dwelling for a number of years is the rule. Even the families in the vicinity of the street widening and subway work are preferring to stay on in spite of inconvenience from noise, dust and street obstruction.

The occupations of the heads of families vary widely, ranging all the way from day laborers to professional men in comfortable circumstances. Of the total of 359 dwelling houses now belonging to Trinity Corporation, 241 or 67 per cent. are private dwellings for one or two families in each, and 118 or 33 per cent. are occupied by three or more families each.

The largest number of families in any one house is 21, in a building erected as a model tenement. The next largest number is 13 in a house. Next come five houses built as model tenements with ten families in each. The houses owned by the corporation contain accommodations altogether for 889 families, an average of 2.5 families per house.

About one-half the houses have a place of business, usually on the ground floor. These are groceries, dressmakers' and tailors' shops, candy or candy and stationery shops, cigar or cigar and stationery shops, restaurants, barbers' shops, or distributed among a variety of other businesses.

Not only are no gambling places or immoral resorts permitted in the houses owned by Trinity, but there are also no rag shops, junk shops, stables or bakeries.

The Prevailing Type of Houses.

The low, old-fashioned buildings with a large yard in the rear, commonly used as a flower garden or flower and vegetable garden are still the prevailing type. Out of 359 houses, 3 are two stories high, 290 are two stories and attic, or three full stories; 60 are four stories and 6 (of which 5 were built as model tenements) are five stories high. There are none higher than five stories. The ordinary six-story, double-decker, dumbbell tenement of downtown New York is unknown among the Trinity houses, though such buildings are seen in large numbers in the section east of the corporation's dwelling houses.

The whole area of the Trinity properties, though built over in past years by individual ground lease owners according to their individual ideas, is remarkably free from congestion, as compared with other sections of the city below 14th street. The absence of tall buildings and of overcrowding of lots is a great advantage, and the practice of the corporation of removing rear buildings, if there are any on the backs of lots, as soon as these come under control, has been a further help in this direction.

Rentals.

The rents average about $1 a week, or between $4 and $5 a month per room. The rents for private dwellings range from $12 a month for a very small, one-family house to a hundred dollars a month for a two-family house with an office. The lowest apartment rents are $7 a month for three rooms; the highest are $26 for five rooms.

The houses are all on the West Side, and are scattered about in thirty different city blocks throughout an area about three-quarters of a mile long. Trinity Corporation thus has on an average ten or eleven dwelling houses to a block, sandwiched in among buildings belonging to other owners or of other kinds.

Systematic inspections of the properties are made on the corporation's own initiative, in order that all defects which call for attention may be discovered and remedied. But special credit is due to the tenants also for their part in the work of keeping the houses up to a good standard and making them attractive and comfortable homes.

The William Street Subway Entrances.

Through the efforts of Borough President Marks, a public hearing on the matter of subway entrances and exits has been arranged with the Public Service Commission for Wednesday, June 23, at 11 A. M., at the hearing room of the commission, Room 310, 154 Nassau street. Borough President Marks is opposed to the placing of entrances and exits on William and Nassau streets. This matter was also taken up some time ago by the Real Estate Board with the Public Service Commission, and the board's position placed before the commission.

The subway plans show proposed entrances and exits of 6 feet 6 inches on these crowded sidewalks, which are only 9 to 10 feet in width. On account of the narrow streets, contour of ground, etc., only two stations will be placed on this route, one at Wall street and one at Fulton street.

At the Fulton street station, entrances and exits will be on the easterly side of the street only. From 5,000 to 7,000 persons pass on these narrow sidewalks in a given hour, morning and night. The Real Estate Board has placed itself on record, through its committee on railroads and transportation, against the proposed plan. It believes that the necessary easements should be condemned for this purpose. In Boston, subway entrances are put on private property where similar conditions exist.

The Real Estate Board is urging that its members and property owners on and about William and Nassau streets write to the Public Service Commission and attend the public hearing on Wednesday, so that the commission may be thoroughly convinced of the public feeling against the proposed plan for obstructing the sidewalks on these streets.

BUILDING ACTIVITY IN UPPER MANHATTAN

Section Adjacent to Riverside Drive, North of 157th Street Scene of Large Amount of Apartment House Construction

APARTMENT house builders, realizing the manifold advantages of upper Riverside Drive for residential purposes, for several months have been acquiring desirable corners and large inside frontages for high class building construction. Of current interest is the contemplated structure at the northeast corner of the Drive and 161st street, described in detail in the Record and Guide of April 17, and the proposed similar buildings in the north side of 161st street, 140 feet west of Fort Washington avenue, by the same builders, the Melvin Construction Company and the Hudson View Construction Company.

Apartment house builders have been active in the section toward the east and have erected high class structures on both sides of Fort Washington avenue, from 160th to 163d street. On Broadway, multi-family houses have claimed, with one or two exceptions, both sides of the thoroughfare from 157th street to 167th street, to the one-time grounds of the New York American League Baseball Club. This property was recently taken under option by the trustees of the Presbyterian Hospital and will eventually be utilized as a site for a group of large structures similar to those, not very far away, of the Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb.

Improving Loyal L. Smith Tract.

Opposite the contemplated structure, at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 161st street, the same builders are finishing two six-story apartment houses, occupying the entire block front between 161st and 160th streets, and also three similar buildings in the north side of 160th street, occupying large frontages. Similar projects are also under way in both sides of 161st street, between Fort Washington avenue and the Drive; and it will not be very long before the rocky waste of the Loyal L. Smith estate will become a high class residential district. These operations comprise practically all of the activity in that immediate neighborhood, although to the north squads of laborers are at many places blasting rock and clearing lands as if preliminary to building.

Toward the south, on Riverside Drive, is the new six-story apartment house at Nos. 838-844, recently completed by the Podwill Realty Company, from plans by Samuel Katz. Abutting this structure is a similar one, in West 161st street. Riverside Drive is so winding at this point that for some distance it is almost parallel to 161st street.

Just west, toward the shore, in what may be called the valley, are rows of brick and stone residences and here and there an old homestead, still reminders of the former character of the neighborhood. Over all tower the tall apartment houses, which are probably to be seen for miles along the Hudson. Viewed from the south, looking toward the extensive grounds of the Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, the picture is a most striking one.

The operations of the Melvin Construction Company may be considered unique, not only because the contemplated buildings will embody interesting architectural features, but also because of their unusual location. Their addition to the rapidly growing apartment house colony on the Heights expresses a renewal of confidence in such operations on the Upper West Side.

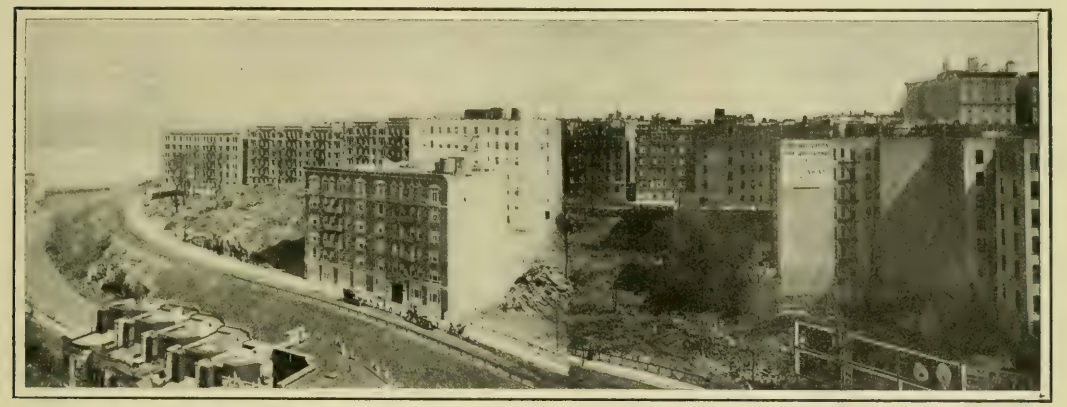
"Renting conditions throughout the section are excellent," said J. Day Knap, of the Knap & Wasson Company, apartment house managers, "along Fort Washington avenue, nearly all the houses are completely tenanted and in the others, the percentage of vacancies is very small. The average rental per room is between $11 and $12, the popular demand appearing to favor the four or five-room suite. These builders within very recent times have invariably erected high class structures to meet this demand.

"The renting season usually commences about June 1, most of the leases terminating on October 1, but long before that we were receiving a large number of inquiries and so are anticipating an exceptional season because, from present indications, the demand for apartments seems to exceed the supply. This situation should furnish the necessary incentive for builders and leads us to express the opinion that the section will continue to furnish building sites for high class multi-family building construction."

Opinion of a Broker.

"Two of the principal influencing factors which have been attracting builders to this district," said J. Dudley Phillips, of L. J. Phillips & Company, "are the excellence of the transit facilities and the natural advantages which the high ground affords for residential purposes. The blocks east of Broadway have all been improved and the large available unimproved frontages, west of that thoroughfare are now occupying the center of interest. The new buildings are designed and built to provide all of the most modern conveniences, besides presenting a fine exterior.

"That apartment house building has continued, unabated, throughout the so-called period of depression, is the best indication of the intrinsic value and desirability of the land in this section for such improvement."



Many of the lots now feeling the benefits of this building movement have been part of the holdings of the late Loyal L. Smith, during his lifetime associated with J. P. Morgan & Company. He had purchased the tract from the trustees of Columbia College and, while he lived, showed no particular willingness to sell. After his death, however, the heirs began disposing of large desirable building plots and these have found their way into the hands of builders who have utilized them along the lines for which they seemed best fitted.

The land between Riverside Drive and the Hudson River, lying along a slope and unusually picturesque, may eventually be acquired by the City for park purposes. This project has been receiving a great deal of consideration by members of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association.

Northward Growth.

The entire section with its sharp contrasts of rugged woodland and level, well-kept thoroughfares, its winding country roads and asphalt pavements, its old-fashioned dwellings and tall apartment houses, furnish a link between past and present Riverside Drive which is most interesting and unique. Here is another section of New York City which is in process of transformation. The growth of the city northward is inevitable. It is claiming old landmarks and picturesque scenery in the same pitiless fashion which has characterized its growth in the past.

That the development in this particular neighborhood, assumed the form of high-class apartment house construction, is not surprising, because the section offers, to the builder, locations naturally adaptable for residential improvement. The houses, as a consequence, make the task of the renting agent less difficult and the success of the project more reasonably certain. It was feared that an over-built condition would result, but this has been proved unfounded.

CONSTRUCTIONAL ACTIVITY NEAR UPPER RIVERSIDE DRIVE.

THE REFORMATION OF THE BILLBOARD

What Started It and How It Is Being Brought About—The Story of That Christmas Poster of "The Nativity"

NO ONE realizes more thoroughly than the poster advertising fraternity the abuses for which out-door advertising has been responsible in the past. But no body of business men is more interested in correcting these abuses than the members of the National Poster Advertising Association. In New York City, following a mutual agreement between the Board of Aldermen aid the bill-posting companies, there has been a gradual reformation of the billboard. It is disappearing by degrees as contracts expire from places where it offends the public taste or impertinently obstructs a landscape view.

Neither can it longer be accused of indecency; soon it will be innocent of the charge of impertinence, and may yet be complimented on its morality. Churches are using the boards in their work. The Sunday School Poster, as it is called, is displayed in front of a prominent Harlem church. In a short time there will appear in many places in all the principal cities a Boy Scout poster.

At many places in this city during the Christmas holidays the boards carried for two years past a strange but beautiful poster. The subject was one that nobody had ever expected to see in a poster, the Nativity. It bore the legend, "Ask your Sunday school teacher to tell you the story."

That poster is symbolical of the reformation that has come over the billboard wherever it is found in this country, a reformation that has not only given the poster better manners but which is preventing natural scenic beauties from being despoiled by hideous painted advertisements.

Did you ever hear how that poster came to be there? At the late convention of the American Civic Association, held in Washington, Mr. A. M. Briggs chairman of the Educational Committee of the National Poster Advertising Association, related in an address the essential facts of a very remarkable movement that has been going on in this country, a movement of which the picture of the Nativity is a symbol.

"No one can possibly realize more thoroughly than we do the terrible abuses that outdoor advertising has been subjected to in the past," said Mr. Briggs, "and no body of men could possibly be more interested in correcting these abuses than we are. Our organization, the Poster Advertising Association, was formed twenty-three years ago. Every man in our association controls his own business, and every member is a free agent.

Early Efforts.

"At first, our rules governing service were crude in the extreme, but such as they were, they were made to be obeyed, and they were obeyed. The billposter soon learned that when the majority of his brothers made a rule governing service, that he must obey it, if he were to remain in good standing in the association, and that if he were not in good standing, the advertiser would not patronize him, for the advertiser realized that we, as an association, were trying to build up an honest, clean service, and he supported us. Every member had a voice and a vote in the meetings that made the rules, and they soon learned that the organization was too large, and its purpose too sincere, to adopt any rule that was not honest, or make any move that was not clean.

"It took seventeen years of hard work to reach that point, where every billposter cheerfully and voluntarily obeyed every rule, but we did reach that point, and that made it possible to begin our great work of reconstruction. The work that is now showing the results that you want to see—for it was at that point that our inspection system was put to work and the classification of plants was begun.

"That was the start, and the first classification was made. It was successful beyond our expectation. The force of inspectors was increased, the inspections made more rigid, until now, each inspector has a small district; he is held responsible for it. The billposter never knows when the inspector will come. He knows only that he is coming and if the town is not cleaned up that he, coming often, and coming until it is, or until a better man has taken over the franchise and made it clean.

Wooden Structures Doomed.

"Wonderful improvement has already been made. Greater improvements are being made. The doom of the old wooden tumble-down billboard has been sounded and with it you will witness the passing of sniping and all other forms of indiscriminate outdoor advertising. The law has been passed. It goes into effect January 1, 1916. In thirteen months every plant in our association will be composed of steel boards—no more wooden structures—just the perfectly built beautiful steel boards, raised three feet from the ground, framed with six-inch picture moulding, and each surrounded by a white mat—a perfectly framed picture—ready to receive the art posters they deserve and which we will insist upon. Hundreds of thousands of feet of this construction have already been built. You see some of it in nearly every town. In thirteen months you will see nothing else in our towns, and in another year, at the next convention of your great organization, I do not believe the subject of billboards will be of great interest to you—for I sincerely believe that you will then be satisfied to let us take that trouble off your hands and leave you more free to handle the great civic movements and improvements you have already started—and will start.

The Inspiration.

"There is a magazine owner, publisher and editor—a world-famous writer and speaker on political and economic subjects—who, while he is a direct business competitor of ours, is also our friend—we think he is our best friend. Several years ago he happened into one of our national conventions. He said he had dropped into our meeting to kill time. He became interested in the work we were doing and in the way we were doing it. It was he who gave us the idea for our uplift work.

"He was asked to address our convention, and in a most eloquent and convincing address he appealed to us as the body that controlled the medium through which the churches and the uplift societies could, through convincing and interesting pictures, appeal to the people they were trying to reach. He spoke at length of the many uplift and educational movements that were in need of such assistance. He mentioned the Church Attendance Movement, the Sunday School Attendance Movement, the Boy Scouts Movement and the possibilities of the effect upon the discouraged boys of the streets, of inspirational posters, and then he pointed out to us that there had been placed in our hands a medium for the doing of great good. He pointed out that at certain times in the year our boards were not filled, that our rules required each billposter to keep his boards properly posted with fresh, clean posters. Now, why not allow this space to be used by the uplift societies, without cost? It would really be no effort, and practically no expense to us.

"Well, it did not require any further effort. There were over five hundred of our members present—five hundred men from five hundred different towns—nearly all of them men of families with the welfare of their children and their communities at heart, and to a man they realized that Mr. Chapple had spoken the truth. It was a duty that they owed to humanity. A meeting was held that same day. It was decided to try the idea out, and that the first movement we would support would be the Sunday School Attendance Movement. But why ask the Sunday Schools to buy the posters—why not buy them ourselves? If it's worth doing, why then let's do it ourselves—and we did.

A Wonderful Poster.

"Our committee was appointed to work out the details. The meeting adjourned and we went to work. Every man on that committee worked faithfully. The principal art galleries, art stores, libraries in the country were searched for a suitable subject and we failed to find one that would lend itself to reproduction in the size of 9½x24 feet, but we decided on a picture of the Nativity, to be used at Christmas. So we engaged a painter of great reputation to paint the picture. He painted it, and now he calls it his masterpiece, and we reproduced it, in seventeen colors. You all know the beautiful picture. It was posted throughout the country, bringing so vividly to the minds of those who knew, the most beautiful and wonderful story in all history, and creating a desire in those who did not know, to hear the story.

"The results of our poor efforts to do good had been more than gratifying. We decided to go farther, and the Easter Poster, in all its gorgeous, beautiful colorings, was produced. We took for our theme Christ's message: 'Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.' You all know the picture. You don't know the results, but we do. Again hundreds of letters came, telling us that our posters had sent thousands of children into the church, into the good Christian atmosphere, and under the good clean influence which are theirs by right of birth—as Americans.

"And then came the Grant poster with its message to the boy of the streets—picturing what one of the greatest men in history had accomplished—showing the boy what the great Grant had made of his life that started at the plow—with no advantages. Then pictured him at his zenith of his career as the commanding general of the Army of the United States, and then his reward—the highest gift of the people—the presidency. 'What one poor boy did—what are you doing with your better opportunities?' And then came the Boy Scouts Poster.

"As an association, and as individuals, we know from the comment we have heard, and the letters we have received, that our educational and inspirational posters have done great work for good, and we are repaid a thousandfold for our small effort. Our conscience is clear as to the motives that prompted this movement, and our conscience will remain clear as the movement is continued, and continued it will be—as long as we shall live—and we believe as long as our sons and our son's sons shall live."

TAKING PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR PUBLIC USE

The Principle of Excess Condemnation Can Now Be Used—Advance Payments to Owners—Awards to Be Made By the Supreme Court Only

By LAWSON PURDY
President Department of Taxes and Assessments

IN 1913 an amendment to the Constitution of the State of New York was ratified by the people, providing for an alternative method of making awards for land taken for public use.

Prior to that time the only method in use in this city was that of the appointment by a justice of the Supreme Court of three commissioners, who acted together and determined the value of land taken for public use.

The amendment added a new method, namely, that the award might be made by a justice of the Supreme Court without submission to a referee and without a jury. In the same amendment to the Constitution it was provided that when streets, parks, etc., are laid out or widened additional land might be acquired sufficient in area to form suitable building sites.

To carry out the provisions of the Constitution six bills were prepared on behalf of the city and enacted by the Legislature of 1915. Four of the chapters relate to the method of acquiring real property, one relates to the acquisition of excess land and one enlarges the powers of the Board of Assessors and modifies the regulations concerning the award of damages caused by the regulating and grading of streets.

Chapter 606 relates to the method of acquiring property for streets, parks and other public purposes. All the existing provisions of the Charter that covered procedure are repealed and are then substantially re-enacted in clearer form, with the provision that prior to January 1, 1917, the Board of Estimate shall determine whether compensation for land taken shall be ascertained by the court without a jury or by commissioners, and that after that date awards shall be made by the court only.

Old Law Repealed.

This chapter repeals the present sections of the Charter relating to cessions or conveyances without compensation of property for street purposes. A new section has been inserted, which provides that owners may cede to the city upon such terms and conditions as the Board of Estimate may from time to time prescribe. Flexibility is thus imparted to a statute which formerly failed to meet the many varying conditions encountered.

Hardship has often been caused owners whose property was taken for public use because they had to wait a long time for their awards. Section 981 provides for advance payments not exceeding 60 per cent. of the value placed on the property by the city's expert.

The city may make partial payments and thus save interest. As a further accommodation to the owners of land taken, there are provisions for the recording in the office of the Comptroller of assignments or pledges of awards; an award may thus be made an available asset. The old provisions for damages in case of intended change of grade are relegated to Section 951 of the Charter, which confers jurisdiction upon the Board of Assessors to award damages when the grade is physically changed.

Chapter 596 amends those sections of the Charter under which heretofore property has been acquired for bridge approaches, school sites, police and fire station and property of that general nature, which is not paid for by assessment. The charter repeals the old section and reenacts the substance except in so far as the old matter is unnecessary or inconsistent with the new plan or condemnation. Other new provisions are similar to those contained in Chapter 606.

Chapter 597 amends Section 822 of the charter, relative to the acquisition of wharf property. It changes the mode of making awards as previously described and gives the Board of Estimate the same option until January 1, 1917.

Chapter 604 amends the rapid transit act, so that land taken for rapid transit in the city of New York shall be condemned in the manner provided in Chapter 606. Awards will be made by the supreme court without a jury in all cases. The act will take effect September 1, 1915.

Chapter 593 adds two new sections to the Charter, 970a and 970b, which confer upon the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the power to authorize the acquisition of additional real property in connection with any improvement and directs that the same be acquired with the real property required for the improvement. In the preparation of this chapter the language of the constitutional amendment relating to excess condemnation was carefully followed.

Purpose of the Power.

The purpose of the power is generally known. It is to leave land after the opening or widening of a street in plots of suitable size and shape for development.

Chapter 537 amends Section 951 of the Charter, in relation to award of damages to buildings by reason of regulation and grading of streets. Hereafter an abutting owner who has improved his property in conformity with the grade established by lawful authority and such grade is changed after such buildings or improvements have been erected, shall be entitled to damages for such a change of grade; also an owner of property who has improved his property prior to the original establishment of a grade by lawful authority shall be entitled to the damages caused by the grading of the street in accordance with such established grade. Damages are to be ascertained and assessed in connection with and as part of the expense of grading or otherwise improving the street.

The section is further amended to provide that the assessors may view the property and exercise their own judgment in respect of the damages caused by the change of grade based upon their inspection as well as by the evidence introduced before them.

NEW INHERITANCE TAX LAW

The State Comptroller's Opinion Relative to the Collection of the Tax By the New Method

THE law recently enacted by the Legislature establishing a new Tax Commission provides for a separation of the assessment and collection of the corporation tax. This stipulation is one of the principal features of that amendment to the Tax Law, and is regarded as a distinct advance in the method of collecting State taxes, for it removes from the power of the official who collects and holds the corporation tax the privilege of stating the amount of tax due.

In the light of this amendment it is advisable that property owners should be cognizant of the recent opinion submitted by the State Comptroller to the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, relative to the determination and collection of the inheritance tax.

Under the laws of 1899 a statute was enacted which provided that when property was transferred in trust or the interest of anyone inheriting property was dependent upon the fulfillment of a certain condition or contingency, that a tax should be imposed upon the transfer at the highest rate possible under the law. Since that date, all contingent remainders have been taxed at the highest rate which would be possible, on the happening of the event provided for, and the tax was thus paid into the State treasury. In 1910 the tax law was amended by providing that there should be a graded rate of inheritance tax and also making the tax and rates apply to each individual transfer instead of to the whole estate of the decedent.

In the case of immediate relatives, there was an exemption of $5,000. Above this amount there were graduated rates for direct descendents, as follows: 1 per cent. up to $50,000; 2 per cent. up to $250,000; 3 per cent. up to $1,000,000; 4 per cent. over $1,000,000. In case of bequests or devise to collaterals the rates extended as high as 8 per cent. Under a recently decided case in the Court of Appeals the question arose as to whether it was possible to determine the amount of each individual transfer to an heir at the time of the death of the decedent or when the devisee actually came into the possession and enjoyment of his estate.

The Court of Appeals held that both the law of 1899 and the amendment of 1910 were operative, and that therefore the value of any property that would go to an heir upon the happening of a certain event could be determined at the time of the death of the decedent, at the highest possible rate. Naturally, there were certain instances where persons would inherit property for their lifetime and upon their death the property would go to another. It would therefore be inequitable that those particular persons should be required to pay the highest tax possible, when their successors would be liable for the same.

Under the laws of 1911 a further

Iron ore cannot be monopolized, any more than clay or cement rock or any of the great mineral resources necessary to mankind. Nature cannot be bridled.

The uplifters are deeply intrenched in the law of the State, but gradually and surely the artillery of the property interests is shelling them out.

The Department of Health is extending its activities by investigating the conditions under which office people work in lower Manhattan. This ought to result in more uplift laws and the installation of another municipal bureau, if worked right.

In the Bronx they have a new office building which the local government rents from a private owner at a net annual cost (after the landlord has paid his tax bills) of only 62 cents per square foot. An addition for new court rooms is now being built. Economy and efficiency are going hand in hand.

Senator Bennett cannot understand why a builder, when he has once completed his building in accordance with the laws and ordinances, should be subjected to the passing whims of the State lawmakers. The reason is, Senator, that the Praetorian guards profit from frequent changes in the laws, just as the dressmakers profit from changes in the fashions.

If New York City is to have a new Charter from the Legislature, why should not the real estate interests prepare a tentative draft? Why leave it altogether to those who may wish to perpetuate themselves in office? The new forms of government which more than three hundred American cities have adopted were planned by unofficial citizens' committees.

Prodding the Procrastinators.

Property rights seem to be winning more consideration. Several times lately the courts have interposed with decisions which have relieved property owners from oppressive conditions. The Court of Appeals of this State handed down a decision this week that is a distinct victory for property owners on Riverside Drive who have suffered from nuisances chargeable to the improper operation of the railroad tracks which run along the shore. The railroad company must not use the sidings it has laid there for the storage of livestock any more, nor for the classification of freight cars, both of which offenses entail disagreeable noises in the night time; and the use of soft coal, which fills the air with heavy black smoke, laden with soot and fine ashes, must also be discontinued. These annoyances were plainly contrary to the cardinal laws, and yet it has taken years to abate them, and but for the fighting abilities of William Randolph Hearst, who carried the case through the courts, the afflicted residents might have continued their expostulation in vain.

While the decision can be hailed as an important local victory for property rights, the accompanying opinion from the court carries a message of greater significance and wider application. It appeared from the papers in the case that the railroad company has been willing to co-operate with the city government for the betterment of the situation, but has been prevented from improving its terminal facilities and approaches (and so removing the claimed necessity for using the tracks in Riverside Park for classification and storage purposes) by the failure of the Board of Estimate to either approve or disapprove of plans which the Legislature years ago directed the railroad company to prepare and submit.

The court therefore admonishes the city government to be diligent and induce the submission of plans which will be more satisfactory; and a stay of six months is issued against the injunctions of the judgment, outside of those relating to smoke, to enable both the railroad company and the city authorities to take "prompt action" looking to general improvements below 96th street, with the right to the company to apply at the end of that term for an extension of the stay, which the court intimates will then be granted if it be found that the company is proceeding with reasonable rapidity to improve the situation.

The plans to which reference is made by the court are those which carry a complete reorganization and transformation of the West Side railroad system of Manhattan Island. The railroad company was ordered years ago to take its tracks off the surface of the streets; now it is ordered to stop using the tracks through Riverside Park for terminal purposes, and it has six months in which to show satisfactory plans for new terminals and approaches. The crisis is one from which, if the city's interest could be represented and managed efficiently, there would come railroad terminal and port facilities of so complete and convenient a nature that they would give the city's real estate and shipping interests the most wonderful forward push they ever have had.

This would come about, moreover, at the expense of the railroad interests, not of the taxpayers. The cost of taking the tracks off the streets, covering them over through Riverside Park, depressing them below 60th street, and building a marginal road with terminal warehouses and classification yards in connection, would not be a city charge. Certain collateral improvements to the abutting wharfage facilities would, however, have to be made by the Department of Docks and Ferries, but this cost would be taken care of with dock bonds, the interest on which would be met from the augmented revenues of the department.

Ten years have elapsed since the railroad company was ordered to make these improvements; and, owing to the slight acquaintance of the city officers with the problem, the railroad company has so far been successful in fighting them off. As the company is owner in fee of only a small part of its right-of-way, and is subject to the city's dictation, it is incomprehensible to business men who do not understand the mazes of the law and the procrastinating abilities of city managers not responsive to the popular will why these great West Side improvements, which hold so much potential benefit for the city at large, have not been more rapidly advanced.

First of the New Subways.

Two new divisions of the great dual system of urban rapid transit will be opened to traffic next Tuesday noon, the Steinway tunnel route to Queens and the Fourth avenue subway line to Bay Ridge and Coney Island. They will be the first fruits of the city's investment of $171,000,000 in a system which will cost altogether $337,000,000. The other partners and contributors to the cost are the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, $105,000,000, and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation, $61,000,000. The total investment for the new lines exceeds the total of the capital stock and bonds of some of the trunk railroad systems. Every dollar will go into construction and equipment and none for watered stock. Our existing local rapid transit lines are carrying eight hundred million passengers per annum. The Dual System will be able to transport three billion in the same time.

Of the two new links in the system about to be opened to traffic the greater public benefit will come from the Fourth avenue subway and the Sea Beach line jointly. Real estate interests expect a quick response from builders and investors to the opportunities which the new lines of transit offer. We have found here in New York that while the city's outward growth depends on transportation, it will not grow far beyond the limits of a five-cent fare, and it will not grow fast where the transit is not rapid. The new route to the sea will give a faster and better service than any now existing for the minimum fare. The Fourth avenue section has had a moderate general development, but the country through which the Sea Beach division runs has been as yet only partly cultivated as a real estate field.

The operation of the Steinway tunnel under the East River will be under disadvantages until the line shall have physical connection with other parts of the system. In the meantime it will serve better than a ferry service to Long Island City and will provide a quick trip as far as it goes.

The general expectation is that the opening of these new roads will signalize the beginning of a new real estate movement, which will gradually extend over the city as other divisions of the system are opened to traffic in the course of the next few years. In the past, the opening of every new rapid transit line has been attended with great activity in the real estate market and building trades, and there is no reason to expect any less agreeable results in due time from the utilization of the latest transportation facilities.

The Outlook for the Realty Market.

Technically the real estate market is strong and there are many evidences that it "wants to go up." Everything being even, this is a natural condition, following a protracted period of inactivity extending over a period of years. The influencing factor which brought about the change of feeling is described as improved business conditions. This improvement has been most noticeable in the wholesale houses and industrial plants, but it is only a question of time before the retailers also feel the benefits. This of course means more ability to pay rent and maintain a larger force of employees.

In several brokerage houses the force is being augmented in order to handle the increased business. As brokers must anticipate the market, many concerns are now making a thorough canvass of properties which may figure in deals. It is yearly becoming harder to assemble plots for apartment house construction. Several years ago many investors purchased individual parcels and plots with the avowed intention of reselling them to speculators or builders. The carrying charges on these properties have been mounting up, and yearly it requires an increased selling price before the owner can come out with a profit.

Owing to the attitude taken by the loaning companies some months ago, builders were virtually forced out of the market. These institutions were in most cases justified in curtailing commitments, for few could foresee how much money would be necessary to meet the enormous outlays necessitated by the European war. Then again, in certain sections, there was an overproduction of buildings and the danger signals were clearly visible. Prudence and conservatism demanded that a halt be called. The change has now arrived.

Builders and architects suffered, and in many of the large offices drafting and other forces were cut down to a minimum. In order to maintain their organization, and to obtain some revenue, some architects went farther afield and took commissions for drawing plans outside the section where they were accustomed to operate. Competitive bidding was keen, and contractors worked on as small a margin of profit as possible.

According to figures recently printed in the Record and Guide, national building is on the increase, last month showing an increase of almost $10,000,000 in several of the large cities, over the corresponding month in 1914. Manhattan and the Bronx indicated an increase of about $6,000,000, Cleveland, $3,000,000, and Chicago, $1,000,000.

These increases will surely have a beneficial effect on the country at large, and should stimulate the building industry. Should this country engage in war, there might be a momentary hesitation, but the impetus already gained is sure to carry the movement forward.

Millions and millions of dollars are flowing into this country as the result of the European situation. Industrial plants which have been idle are working to capacity, filling orders. In many instances the machinery has been changed in order to satisfy, in part, the foreign demand. This means employment for thousands of artisans, profit for the owners and stable conditions.

There is always a last word, and that is real estate. Investors, as a class, are engaged in other lines of trade, and only invest in real estate their unnecessary surplus. As this has been an unknown quantity for many months, every dollar has been going back into their own business. Light is ahead, however, and the influence of a tremendous buying power is bound soon to be felt. There is a lot of satisfaction in being one's own board of directors and every real estate investor occupies this position.

Encumbrance Yard Objected To.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Residents and owners of the Fourth and Seventh Wards, which take in a good part of the sections of Monroe, Madison and Henry streets and East Broadway, from Catherine, Market, Pike and Rutgers streets, are considerably worked up over the proposed encumbrance yard being placed under the Manhattan Bridge. This place is badly needed for a playground for the number of children that are in the neighborhood; and, further, adjoining properties would be greatly depreciated and damaged if this encumbrance yard should be permitted to be placed on the block between Monroe and Madison streets under the Manhattan Bridge.

The present encumbrance yard is located in Rivington street, between Mangin and Tompkins streets, and the five surrounding blocks of the present yard have about 70 tenement houses and perhaps very few children when compared with the five surrounding blocks of the new or proposed encumbrance yard. The number of the tenements of the five surrounding blocks show 230 tenement houses and two large public schools, and will be strongly objected to by many of the Jewish congregations in the neighborhood, among which are Zuchrin Benjamin, S. Tannenbaum, president; Beth Hacneses Aushei Stutzk, Morris Asofsky, president; Congregation Sons of Israel, A. M. Oppenheim, president; Chera Beth Aaron, Samuel Katzerinsky, president; Rabbi Jacob Joseph School; Chebrah Orach Radeskowitzk; Talmudicial Academy; Congregation Arnsel Israel Swolker, A. Nubinstky, president; Congregation Progressive Brothers of Neshwis, S. Friedberg, president.

The petition was also signed and a protest entered by the Rev. Father Mc Entyre, of St. Theresa's Church, of Henry and Rutgers streets; also the Rev. James B. Curry, pastor of St. James' Catholic Church, of James and Oliver streets. The Church of the Sea and Land, the Rev. J. E. Steen, also signed a petition against the using of the space for an encumbrance yard; as well as Dr. J. E. Roberts, of the Jacob Riis Settlement, of Henry street.

Protect Riverside Park.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The decision of the Court of Appeals in Mr. Hearst's suit against the New York Central is of great importance as showing what may be accomplished by the residents and property owners in resisting the obnoxious, unsightly and illegal uses which the municipal authorities seem to be willing to have established in and along Riverside Park. The unsightly coal pockets, the garbage and ash dumps and the great amount of litter upon the Riverside Park waterfront as well as the obnoxious railroad operations, owe their existence to the acquiesence and consent of the municipal authorities.

It is not generally understood that in 1894 the West End Association procured the passage of a law under which Riverside Park was extended so as to include all of the land and land under water for about 1,000 feet west of the railroad tracks and running all the way from 72nd street to 129th street. The dock reservations, 1,100 feet at 79th street, and 825 feet at 96th street, were excepted and restricted so that they cannot legally be used in any way that injuriously affects the public use and enjoyment of Riverside Park or property fronting thereon.

Notwithstanding these restrictions, the property owners and residents have for several years been subjected to the most obnoxious and unsightly activities along the Park, and at the restricted dock reservations. The significance of the Court of Appeals' opinion is that when taxpayers assert themselves, offensive and illegal encroachments will not be tolerated. Nearly five years ago the Park and Dock Commissioners presented a plan for the filling in of Riverside Park, and placing therein a large number of railroad tracks.

In 1913, Mr. Mitchel, now Mayor, presented a plan providing for twenty-six railroad tracks through Riverside Park north of 72d street and extending the railroad yards far to the north. The present Dock Commissioner has put forward a plan for twenty-one tracks. The rock fill along the Riverside Park waterfront deposited during the last four years, was designed to provide a foundation for railroad tracks. Unless the taxpayers are vigilant the municipal authorities and the railroad will yet take from the public the waterfront park added by the action of the West End Association in 1894. The delay for which the Terminal Committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has been so much criticised in all the courts, is accompanied by the completion of the filling operations. Only last week the Board of Estimate and Apportionment made an appropriation under which dredging operations are to be carried on in Riverside Park north of the Yacht Club at 86th street, so that it can be filled in with rock.

When the Park was extended in 1894 the plan was perfectly understood:

"Mr. Loomis, representing the New York Central Railroad, said that as far as he could see the only objection to the plan was that it would prevent any extension of the railway tracks. To this ex-Corporation Counsel Henry R. Beekman replied that this was the chief object of the plan." — (Evening Post, January 12, 1894).

Encouraged by the Court of Appeals decision the taxpayers and citizens should now exert themselves to have the park landscaped where filled in outside of the railroad tracks, and the tracks themselves covered. They should also require the opening of the streets through and over the 60th street yards for the disposition of the garbage, refuse and ashes now forced through Riverside Park at 79th and 96th streets.

Proportional Representation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Proportional representation is a plan for electing members of legislative and administrative bodies, such as State legislatures or city councils. It is not available for the election of single officers, such as a Governor or Mayor.

Our present plan of election from single member districts is unfair as between parties. A party that has small pluralities in many districts may often elect more than its just share of representatives, while a party that is massed in a few districts, where it piles up useless majorities may get less than its share. A minority of the voters sometimes elect a majority of the representatives. This unfairness is often intentionally aggravated by gerrymandering the districts. Small parties usually get nothing. Thus large bodies of voters are practically disfranchised; they are nominally represented by men to whose principles they are opposed; they are misrepresented, not truly represented.

An even more serious objection to the present plan is that it unduly restricts the individual voter's freedom of choice, and subjects him to a domination of the party organizations, the politicians and the bosses that is so far-reaching that it is hardly an unwarranted use of language to call it a tyranny. When you go to the polls to vote for a member of the Legislature you are practically restricted to a choice between two candidates picked out for you by the party organizations, or in places where machine politics have reached their full fruition by the boss.

If you are a good party man, there is only one candidate for whom you will think of voting. Unless the district is a close one, there is no use of any one but a member of the dominant party voting at all. All the other voters simply throw away their votes. This discourages citizens from taking an interest in politics. It may be that both of the candidates are men whom you consider wholly unfit for the place, and you find yourself between the devil and the deep sea; or your party candidate may be sure of election without your vote or have no chance of election at all.

At the same time there is perhaps in an adjoining district, or even in your own district, a man who would grace and dignify the office, for whom you would gladly vote; but you cannot. It is true, the law allows independent nominations, but the difficulty and expense of making them is very great, and usually an independent candidate has no chance.

All those evils are obviated by the plan of proportional representation. A just apportionment of the representation among all parties and groups of voters is effected; the voter is given a wide freedom of choice, and it is made possible and safe for him to vote for the man whom he really prefers; every vote, or nearly every one, counts in the election of a representative, so that no voter is disfranchised, sees his vote thrown away or is misrepresented by a man to whom he is opposed.

REAL ESTATE BOARD.

Changes in the Constitution.—New Class of Members.

A special meeting of the active members of the Real Estate Board of New York was held on Tuesday, June 15. It is unusual for the active membership to be called together except at annual meetings, which occur in October. The attendance was large and a luncheon was served after the meeting. The purpose of the special call was to consider a number of important amendments to the Constitution.

All the proposed amendments were carried except in one instance, that providing for the re-election of one of the officers on the expiration of his three-year term and not after one year, as now provided. In this case the amendment was broadened so as to entirely eliminate the existing prohibition that governors may not be re-elected except after the lapse of one year. At present three of the nine governors are elected annually for a three-year term and are ineligible for re-election. The amendment removes this limitation.

Compulsory Arbitration.

Another important amendment provides for compulsory arbitration between all classes of membership. Before the adoption of this amendment one party to a controversy might ask for arbitration and the other might decline to arbitrate. It was necessary for both parties to agree in writing to arbitrate and to abide by the decision of the Arbitration Committee. Under the amendment any party aggrieved may request arbitration and the other party to the controversy must arbitrate, failure to arbitrate subjecting a member to expulsion.

A very important feature to this amendment includes associate members on the arbitration committee. Hitherto only active members were on this committee. An objection to this was that builders, operators and other elements in the real estate business were obliged to submit their claims to a jury of brokers. The effect of this amendment will be to lift the whole arbitration system to a higher plane and to give it a much broader scope.

Vested Rights.

An amendment was also adopted designed to preserve the rights in membership. This amendment provides that active membership in the Real Estate Board "is vested in a member or his estate, but in the latter case without voting privileges, and may be transferred or sold by said member or his estate" subject to the provisions of the Constitution. In case of a transfer or sale of membership the new member is not to be required to pay an initiation fee, but shall pay a transfer fee of $50. Membership not sold may be bought in by the board.

An amendment was also adopted providing for a new class of members to be known as "registered members." Under the present system and with so large a membership as the board now has, it is difficult to control the use of the board rooms by commission salesmen and various employees of the 200 active members. "Registered members" are to include any salesman employed in the office of an active member of the board, and in good standing in such office, and only such employees as are "registered members" shall have the use of the board rooms. Cards of identification are to be issued. A "registered member" severing his connection with a firm is to turn in his membership card, such card, however, to be re-issued to him subject to procedure provided for in the amendment. For such "registered members" there is to be no initiation fee but an annual fee of $5.

The constitution was also amended so as to make eligible for non-resident membership any male person not a citizen of the United States, subject, of course, to the other membership requirements laid down by the board.

It was also proposed to provide a death benefit for the estates of deceased members by assessing each active member on satisfactory proofs of the death of a member. By mutual consent, however, this amendment was postponed for further consideration to be taken up at the next annual meeting.

West Bronx Lots Sold.

Bryan L. Kennelly, for the Upland Realty Company, sold on Wednesday in the Vesey Street Exchange Salesroom, 146 lots in the West Bronx for $199,665, or an average of about $1,367 a lot. The owners were so well satisfied that they discontinued the sale, the amount realized being enough to cover the encumbrances including a mortgage, the calling of which had brought about the sale. As a result the owners retained twenty-five free and clear lots, a most unusual occurrence, when it is considered that within recent times prices obtained at auction sales have invariably been below existing liens.

"The result has been satisfactory to the sellers, to the buying public who did not let general conditions interfere with their buying, and also to the auctioneer," declared Mr. Kennelly. "The disposition of so large a number of unimproved lots may furnish a new impetus to Bronx trading. When it is noted that a number of the lots are covered with rock, the prices are not as low as the figures may indicate."

The announcement that 172 lots in the immediate neighborhood of Washington Bridge Plaza would be sold at public auction served to attract more than 400 interested men and women to the salesroom. The lots were located in West 172nd street, Featherbed lane, Jesup place, Shakespere avenue, Macombs road, and Jesup avenue, in a section which has been developing within recent times on account of rapidly progressing subway construction, on the Jerome avenue extension of the Broadway-Lexington avenue route.

The sale began at 12.25 o'clock when lots Nos. 6 and 7 on Shakespeare avenue, were sold to A. Finck for $1,300. Thomas C. O'Connor acquired the next four lots at $1,275 each. Macombs road lots, near Featherbed lane, brought from $2,400 to $2,725, while those to the south, that were of smaller depth, brought from $500 to $900. In the east side of Jesup place, prices ranged from $1,050 to $1,325; in the west side of this street, from $845 to $1,300. On Shakespeare avenue, lots brought from $875 to $1,525. The largest single item in the sale involved the southwest corner of Jesup avenue and Featherbed lane, consisting of five lots and a frame dwelling, sold to Elizabeth Griggs for $13,500.

The largest individual purchasers were Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum, the operators, although the great majority of buyers were builders or small investors, many of whom figured for the first time in such a transaction. Complete details of this sale will be found elsewhere in the Record and Guide.

Borough Park Lots Bring $135,565.

A total of $128,865 for 212 lots and gores and $6,700 for two dwellings, a grand total of $135,565, was realized by the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company last Tuesday evening at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, when all that remained unsold of the original Borough Park tract was offered at public sale. The heavy rainstorm did not keep away enthusiastic bidders, and about 700 people, mostly residents and real estate owners of Borough Park, attended and participated actively in the bidding, until two o'clock in the morning. When adjournment was finally taken at that hour, 35 lots remained unsold, and these will be offered next Tuesday at noon in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange at 189 Montague street.

In most cases the prices obtained averaged less than the assessed valuation of the city, although in a few instances desirable frontages brought slightly above this valuation.

"Considering the present market and general unsettled business conditions, we are well satisfied with the result," said Frederick B. Snow, of the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company, who conducted the sale. "The lots were undoubtedly sold at bargain prices, and the fact that they were disposed of indicates that buyers can always be found for real estate in New York City if prices are not too high. That the people of Borough Park believe in its future was very well illustrated by the fact that practically all of the buyers came from that section."

The sale started at about 8:30 o'clock and the first property offered was three lots in the west side of 43d street, measuring 73x100.2, adjoining Public School No. 131. It was purchased by Paul W. Connelly for $3,525. The triangular plot containing about 5,670 square feet at the 43d street and New Utrecht avenue elevated station, now in course of construction, brought $6,225. The two-story, single-family dwellings at 1181 and 1189 44th street were sold, respectively, to Pincus Shapiro for $3,450 and to Maurice Hartman for $3,350. An old farm house and ten lots along the line of the old New Utrecht road and 17th avenue, between 47th and 48th streets, were sold to I. Klapper for $3,000.

Complete details regarding the sale will be found elsewhere in the Record and Guide. The information comprises the location and description of every plot sold, the name of the purchaser and the price.

$100,785 for Balz Estate.

Heirs of the estate of Frederick Balz, the one-time operator, realized $100,785 for forty-seven parcels of Brooklyn property at auction on Thursday in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange. The sale was conducted by William P. Rae. The properties were scattered all over the borough and were of a diversified kind. A crowd of about 400 attended and participated in active bidding.

Among the buyers were Charles L. Gilbert, Arthur A. Quinn, E. L. Somerville, Herman Agar, Charles Frey, C. J. Curtin, J. Lazarowitz. The out-of-town holdings of the estate will be sold by Mr. Rae at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, on July 16, at 12 o'clock noon.

THE INHERITANCE TAX.

amendment was made to the inheritance tax law for the purpose of enabling those persons enjoying possession for their own lifetime of certain property to receive an income on the difference in tax between what they would be required to pay and their successors. However, even under these circumstances there always has been some difficulty as to what official should determine the amount of inheritance tax. The recent opinion submitted by the State Comptroller to the Advisory Council specifically states that the Surrogate is the taxing officer. That section of the opinion of the State Comptroller which treats of this matter is as follows:

"The Inheritance Tax Law of this State has always made the Surrogate the taxing officer. And when the amendments to Section 230, 240 and 241 of the Tax Law by Chapter 800 of the Laws of 1911 are read in connection with the other sections of this law, it is apparent, and this department contends that in taxing all contingent remainders where the decedent died subsequent to July 28, 1911, it is the duty of the appraiser to first determine the value of the contingent remainders and the tax at the highest possible rate, and immediately thereafter determine the value of the remainders and the tax to which they would be liable if the remainders had vested in possession and enjoyment on the date of appraisal.

"The taxing order should contain similar provisions, and then the Comptroller and the representatives of the estate can easily determine the difference to be held by the Comptroller and the income therefrom paid to the executors or trustees. Otherwise the Surrogate would determine the tax on the remainders at the highest rate and the Comptroller would have to determine the tax which would be due had the remainders vested on the day of appraisal, which would be an anomaly no one would contend was contemplated by the Legislature, because this statute has always made the Surrogate the taxing officer of all estates transferred in trust or otherwise.

"I am therefore of the opinion that the statute in its present form requires and fully justifies the appraiser in determining the value of all contingent remainders at the highest rate and also their value if they had vested on the date of appraisal; and Section 231 of the Tax Law (first paragraph) provides:

"'From such report of appraisal * * * the Surrogate shall forthwith, as of course, determine the cash value of all estates and the amount of tax to which the same are liable * * *.'"

THE CIVIC CENTRE PROJECT.

Real Estate Board Asks for an Investigation—A Less Extravagant Scale Advised.

The Real Estate Board of New York, which a year ago insisted that proper borings be made to determine the character of the land to be used and which is now alarmed at the huge proportions which the project promises to assume, has adopted the following resolutions of protest and has forwarded them to the proper city officials:

"Resolved, That in view of the financial condition of the city, and in view also of the wide divergence of opinion as to the cost of the Court House site and Civic Centre project, the Real Estate Board of New York does hereby appeal to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to investigate at once the conditions with respect to this project so as to determine, with as little delay as possible whether it cannot be modified so as to be carried out on a scale less extravagant than that now contemplated, and to bring it within the financial ability of the city to carry out, and within the original intent of the act which provided for it;

"Resolved further, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Mayor, the Comptroller and other members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and otherwise as may give proper publicity to the attitude of the Real Estate Board on this matter."

BROOKLYN DEVELOPING.

What the Panama Canal Is Doing for This Port—New Aniline Works an Instance.

The cornerstone was laid last Saturday for the office and laboratory building of the W. Twelve of these buildings are completed and the manufacturing of a full line of colors for wool, silk and cotton is already being carried on in quantity. The manufacture of colors for other lines of industry consuming aniline and alizarin colors is being taken up as fast as the remaining eleven buildings to be erected are completed and the machinery can be installed.

The formation of this and other large companies for the manufacture of coal tar and aniline colors, marks the first important step toward the establishment of an American dyestuff industry to seriously compete with foreign manufacturers. There is no reason why this country with its vast natural resources (especially coal which forms the base of all coal tar colors) at its command, should not successfully compete with foreign dyestuffs and in course of time become an important factor in this line of industry.

Rugby, the location of this industrial development, adjoins the most active section in Brooklyn. During the past year, according to the records of the Building Department, there was built more than one hundred and ninety-four tenements in that section. The streets are well laid out and improved. The expenditure of over fifty million dollars by the Pennsylvania-Long Island system has already been an important factor in the development of the Borough of Brooklyn. The completion of the Long Island connecting railway system will be a tremendous factor in industrial development.

The cheapness of new sites with plenty of room, air and light will attract enterprises where work can be done under favorable conditions. The adaptability of the land along this line and at this point for manufacturing purposes is apparent. Considerable land will be used for housing the population that must reside in the near vicinity. Other large industries will follow.

Building Code Legislation.

The reinforced concrete ordinance which is to form part of the Building Code, was introduced in the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday of this week and will be found printed in the City Record of Thursday. (Also see Record and Guide May 29.) A hearing will be held Friday, June 25, at City Hall. The ordinance in relation to excavations and foundations was reported out of the Building Committee and will come up for passage next week.

QUEENS BOROUGH SUBWAY.

A Celebration Arranged for the Opening of the New Line.

Arrangements have been completed for a big celebration at the opening of the "Queens Borough Subway," the official name which has been given by the Public Service Commission to the East River subway, formerly called the "Steinway Tunnel" and the "Belmont Tunnel."

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has notified the Public Service Commission that this tunnel connecting 42d street, Manhattan, and Long Island City, Queens Borough, will be opened to the public at 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, June 22. At 11 o'clock on the same day an official train will convey the officers and directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, members and engineers of the Public Service Commission, the Mayor and other city officials, the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, and other local civic organizations of that borough. The first official train will leave the Jackson avenue station, Long Island City, and run through the tunnel to the terminal in Manhattan.

Just prior to the operation of the first train, speeches will be made by the following:

Hon. John Purroy Mitchel, Mayor of the City of New York; Hon. Edward E. McCall, chairman of the Public Service Commission; Hon. Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; Hon. Maurice E. Connolly, President of the Borough of Queens; George J. Ryan, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens; John Adikes, chairman of the transit committee of the Queens Borough Chamber of Commerce.

During the past week the company has been operating experimental trains and drilling crews for the operation of these cars. Twelve steel cars will be placed in operation and three trains of four cars each will run on a headway of about four minutes.

While the operation of the tunnel at present is only a shuttle service between Long Island City and New York, transfers will be given at the Manhattan end to the present subway, enabling passengers to ride for five cents from Long Island City to any part of the present subway.

The greatest immediate benefit will be to the industrial section of Long Island City adjacent to the stations, as it will make available the entire labor supply of Manhattan for this growing factory section.

The entire borough, however, will be benefited in two ways: first, by the trolley lines which now run from the station in Long Island City to the various parts of the borough, and, second, through the connection which will be made with the Long Island Railroad at the Hunters Point avenue station. If the ten-cent local fare is given by the Long Island Railroad from Jamaica and Flushing to the mouth of the tunnel, service similar to that now on the Atlantic avenue division between Jamaica and Brooklyn will thus be established.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

MIDSUMMER weather was a deterrent factor in the real estate market this week, with the consequence that only a few deals of importance were closed. Builders have been more active during the last five months than for some time past, and this activity is not confined alone to new structures, but also involves the alteration of existing buildings. An increase in Manhattan of about fifty per cent. is noted in new structures since January 1, involving an added expenditure of about $13,000,000, bringing the total to $36,276,065, as against $23,246,590 for the corresponding period in 1914.

In the Bronx even a greater increase is noted, for new buildings, for the total reaches $14,678,825, as against $8,589,192, for 1914. Brooklyn shows a slight falling off in the amount involved, though the number of new structures projected this year exceeds that of 1914, the same condition existing in both Queens and Richmond.

The demand for apartments and tenements was never so great as at the present time. This demand does not only apply to the cheaper grade, but also extends to the higher priced suites. There are some vacancies in the Park avenue section which not only includes the avenue itself, but also the adjacent side streets. Considering the general business depression it speaks well for the stability of this class of investment that the percentage of vacancies is not larger.

Investment demand in the Park avenue section is again demonstrated by the purchase of the apartment house structure, now in course of construction, at the southeast corner of Park avenue and 61st street. The building is estimated to cost $525,000. The deal is reported to involve about $1,000,000. The buyer recently acquired the new apartment house on the 72d street corner, for many years the site of the old Freundschaft Club. The five-story residence, at the north corner of Fifth avenue and 89th street, is also under negotiation for purchase at private treaty.

Included in the deals is a projected theatre in West 96th street, near Broadway, two parcels having been acquired and others being under contract to purchase. The section has several theatres and moving picture structures and has come to the front during the last two years. An interesting transaction is the purchase of 137 acres near the St. Albans station of the Long Island Railroad. The property has been acquired by a golf club, which will erect a new club house on the property.

Another sale involved fifteen one-family houses in 77th street, Brooklyn, held at about $100,000. Negotiations are well advanced for the establishing of another resturant in the upper Times Square section. The southwest corner of Broadway and 48th street, adjoining the Strand Theatre, will, if negotiations are completed, be occupied by a new firm composed of men prominently identified with the restaurant business. Twenty-two flat houses, in upper Manhattan and the Bronx, have been leased to an operator for five years, at a reported aggregate rental of about $400,000. This deal disposes of some of the holdings of a Brooklyn bank.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 17, as against 22 last week and 20 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 8, as compared with 7 last week and 7 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 9, as compared with 15 last week and 13 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 112, as against 117 last week, 20 having stated considerations totaling $2,135,490. Mortgages recorded this week numbered 84, involving $3,714,272, as against 77 last week, totaling $1,257,918.

From the Bronx, 10 sales at private contract were recorded, as against 11 last week, and 13 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,406,140, compared with $1,113,315 last week, making a total for the year of $39,086,788. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $569,628, and the total from January 1, 1914, to June 20, 1914, was $20,430,525.

$1,000,000 Park Avenue Deal.

William Ziegler, Jr., has contracted to purchase from Edgar A. Levy the twelve-story apartment house now in course of construction at 525 Park avenue, on a plot 100x100, at the southeast corner of 61st street, at a price which is said to be more than $1,000,000. The building is expected to be ready for tenants in a very short time. It was designed by Schwartz & Gross, who estimated the cost at $525,000. Mr. Levy acquired the site from various owners last July, through George Ranger. In May Mr. Ziegler bought from the same builder the apartment house at the southeast corner of Park avenue and 72d street. His confidence in the investment possibilities of such properties is indicated by this additional purchase. It was reported that he gave in part payment the dwelling, 163 West 122d street, a plot, 50x100.5, in East 71st street, 175 feet east of Fifth avenue, and a camp on Loon Lake in the Adirondacks. The brokers were J. Curry Watson and Jesse C. Bennett.

Advertising Man Invests.

K. E. Bunnell, advertising director of W. H. H. Hull & Company, purchased through Pease & Ellman, from S. Morrill Banner and William L. Levy, the new nine-story apartment house at 178 East 70th street, on the crest of Lenox Hill. The building occupies a plot 52 feet wide and half the block in depth, and there are two apartments on each floor. Among the tenants are Foster Milliken, Jr., Charles R. Leonard, Charles deL. Oelrichs, Frederick O. Beach, Howland Davis and Dr. Hugh Auchincloss. In part payment, the buyer gave the five-story altered store and apartment building, on lot 21x98.9, at 60 West 39th street, and the three-story dwelling at 159 Hancock street, Brooklyn.

141 Ridgewood Lots Sold.

Big Brooklyn Deal.

William R. Goodman, for the Sperry Gyroscope Company, has purchased through David Porter, Inc., and the Burling Realty Company the entire block front on the west side of Flatbush avenue extension, from Concord to Chapel street, also 136-144 Concord street and 29-39 Chapel street. On this plot a ten-story factory structure will be erected from plans by Frank J. Helmle. About 100,000 feet of space will be occupied by the buyer, the remaining floors to be leased.

New West Side Theatre.

The Claremont Building Company has acquired title from Harry A. Bloomberg and Frank E. Gillies to 206 and 208 West 96th street, on plot 63.3x100. It is rumored that a theatre is planned for the site and it is said that additional plottage at 203-207 West 95th street abutting, on plot 82x100, may also be acquired as part of the project. No definite announcement, however, has been made, regarding the plans of the Claremont Building Company.

Residence Sale Pending.

Negotiations are reported well advanced for the sale of the five-story residence, 1080 Fifth avenue, on plot 25.2x102, at the north corner of 89th street, by Percival Farquhar to Malcolm D. Whitman, of the William Whitman Company. The property has been held at $270,000. Among neighboring owners are Archer M. Huntington, Benjamin N. Duke, Elizabeth W. Van Ingen and George J. Gould.

St. Albans Golf Club.

A newly formed organization to be known as the St. Albans Golf Club, has acquired, through purchase and lease, from Edwin H. Brown, a 137 acre tract, at the St. Albans station of the South Shore division of the Long Island Railroad. It is declared to be admirably suited for a golf course. Pending the erection of a new club house, a temporary headquarters has been taken near the property.

New Heights Operation.

David Zipkin sold to the Mose Goodman Corporation, Aaron Goodman, president, the plot 100x95, in the south side of West 188th street, 125 feet east of St. Nicholas avenue. Plans are being prepared for the erection of two six-

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

* Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

The Auction Market.

"The barometer of the real estate market is the auction room," declared a well-known auctioneer recently. If this assertion be accepted, the barometer this week registered considerable strength. When buyers representing, besides builders and operators, many newcomers in the field unhesitatingly purchase real estate, and unimproved, non-productive land at that, the chronic knockers of real estate should seek a refuge. In spite of what anyone may say, the fact remains that in a so-called "poor market" Bryan L. Kennelly sold 146 Bronx lots and the owners realized the most satisfactory returns; the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company disposed of 214 Borough Park lots in a sale which continued until 2 o'clock in the morning and the people were still bidding; and William P. Rae sold 47 other holdings in that borough representing property of practically every description.

The prices may be called low, but it was proven that real estate can be sold. As a further support to this contention, Joseph P. Day and J. Clarence Davies will offer in a few weeks 559 other Bronx lots. And yet there are some who persist in saying that there is no market for real estate. The sales this week demonstrated that there are buyers, and plenty of them, representing capital which in these times is ready to be put not only into income producing property but also in vacant land whose principal asset is a promising future.

There were other interesting transactions in the salesrooms this week, the principal one involving the two-story garage at the northeast corner of Seventh avenue and 37th street, which was sold by Charles A. Berrian to the Little Streets Company, Robert C. Turner, president, for $556,000. Frederick Fox & Company acted for the new owner. The sale was the result of a foreclosure action brought by the Equitable Life Assurance Society against W. H. Bryant and others to recover a judgment of $523,374.93 and taxes amounting to $21,-168. Joseph P. Day sold at foreclosure to Gen. Howard Carroll and others, for $100,000, Glen Island, its adjacent islands and buildings. The amount of the bid was said to have been only nominal and in behalf of the Starin Estate which had brought the foreclosure action. It is said that an effort will be made to revive the place as a summer resort.

The M. Morgenthau, Jr., Company has made arrangements with Fitz-James E. Browne, of Montreal, Canada, to offer some properties located in this section. Next Tuesday will be offered, by this auctioneer, 359 East 3d street, a vacant lot, 20x97, assessed at $9,000, with claims aggregating $5,000. Mr. Browne has held a number of sales, the most successful one being the disposition of the Protestant High School property, at Montreal, for a total of $1,385,000, all of which was disposed of in a city with a population of 600,000 people.

47 New Families A Day

Official figures state that every day in the year 47 new families locate in Brooklyn.

It is natural that these new residents demand living accommodations that shall be up-to-date and complete.

They are educated to the comforts and conveniences of modern life and they move to where they may obtain them.

Progressive Brooklyn builders and architects are aware of this fact and that's the reason why Electric Light is installed in 95 out of every 100 buildings erected; even to the low priced tenement.

DEPARTMENTAL RULINGS.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

The following appeals and decisions have been handed down by the Board of Building Examiners:

APPEAL 216 of 1915, New Building 3284 of 1915, northeast corner Hinsdale street and Riverdale avenue, Brooklyn. Louis Allen Abramson, appellant.

Plans contrary to Section 31.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

To permit the use of continuous transverse fire stops dividing the building into two areas; said fire stops being brick walls 8" thick, extending from the cellar floor to the underside of roof-boards. Said wall shall be unpierced except for openings in the cellar and the public halls, which shall be provided with self-closing fireproof doors. All columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

That the construction described above is equally good and as desirable as can be employed.

Appearance: L. A. Abramson.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 217 of 1915, New Building 748 of 1911, 6 West 37th street, Manhattan. I. Henry Glaser, appellant.

Denied—Amendment filed on April 27, 1915, to remove existing violations on windows of rear and on west wall.

There is now in rear and west wall of building fireproof kalomine wire in iron frames and sash with wire glass and fusible links. The Building Department will not accept same on the ground that windows do not bear "Underwriters' Label."

That the existing windows are fireproof and for the purpose of this six-story building which is 21' 6" by 98' 9" deep, they will meet any test required by them having wire glass and fusible links.

The Building Department requires fireproof shutters on these fireproof windows because said windows do not contain "Underwriters' Label." It is not practical to erect fireproof shutters on rear of said building. That present windows are fireproof and have wire glass and fusible links. That building is only six stories high. That from rear of said windows to building on next street, is over 20' apart.

Appearance: Jacob Glaser.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that a balcony fire-escape be erected on the rear of the building, connecting with the adjoining buildings at each floor above the first.

APPEAL 218 of 1915, New Building 2858 of 1915, east side East 37th street, 74' 8" south Avenue K, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Comply with Section 8 of Building Code as to lot area.

That the conditions as to light and ventilation in the building as proposed are better than those usually found in the typical building of this class where the letter of the Code is observed. That such a condition as the proposed one was not contemplated when the Code was formulated.

Whether or not the conditions of light and ventilation in a building running through from street to street are not better than in the typical three-family and store building on an inside plot fronting on one street and with the rear rooms opening on a yard whose depth is 10 per cent. of the depth of the lot as called for in this Code. In other words, whether or not living conditions would be improved by reducing the size of the building.

That nothing would be gained by observing the letter of the law as to percentage occupied in this case where there are two street fronts and no actual rear. That the full width of a street is better than a yard ten per cent. of the depth of the building. That the reduction of the size of the building would materially decrease its income value and would add nothing to its desirability from the point of view of occupancy.

See Appeal 219.

APPEAL 219 of 1915, New Building 2860 of 1915, east side East 37th street, 94' 6" south Avenue K, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Appearance: W. T. McCarthy.

On motion, Appeals 218 and 219

APPROVED on CONDITION that trimmed openings be provided at point marked "A" on the second and third floor plan, in lieu of doors and partition windows shown; said openings to be not less than six feet wide by eight feet high in the clear.

APPEAL 220 of 1915, New Building 320 of 1914, 560-566 Park avenue and 49-51 East 62d street, Manhattan. Delano & Aldrich, appellants.

13. Re. Viol. 3135—1915:—

This amendment is disapproved with the following objections additional, due to amendment of approved application.

Proposed sheathing of wood on walls of 5th and 7th stories, and on mansard of 6th story is unlawful.

Sec's. 350 and 420 Code of Ordinances.

(Old section numbers 105 and 90 Building Code.) See also Bulletin No. 50 of 1912, dated October 24, 1912.

The Superintendent of Buildings has refused amendment in answer to Violation No. 3135, dated May 6, 1915, in reference to work in place on the building now in course of erection.

The roof house wall and mansard roofs being built of 6" terra cotta blocks in steel frames for walls and 4" cinder concrete slabs for mansard roofs have been sheathed with wood and are proposed to be covered with slate and copper.

That the whole of the sheathing was in place, having occupied about two weeks in installation, before a notice of violation was served, and that to now remove it and replace it with other construction at this time would entail a great loss of time and money, and would work a hardship without adequate benefit.

Letter from appellant, dated 15th inst., requesting privilege of withdrawing appeal.

On motion, entered on the record as WITHDRAWN by appellant.

APPEAL 221 of 1915 (new), New Building 3121 of 1915, 30 Lincoln avenue, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

1. Comply with Section 31 of Code. Provide fore and aft brick partition walls.

2. Also 8" stairhall walls contrary to Code.

1. In view of the fact that clear spans are not over 26 ft. and floor beams will be supported on steel girders and columns, ask that this condition be accepted.

2. As only small portion of stairhall walls are used for bearing request that this condition be accepted.

1. Omit fore and aft brick partition walls and provide girders and columns in lieu of same.

2. Request that 8" stairhall walls be used as bearing walls.

As the clear span between bearing is not over 26 ft. and steel columns and girders will be provided to support floor beams and columns and girders will be fireproofed, request that this condition be accepted.

2. All columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings. Also 8" cross walls will be provided for cellar floor to underside of roof-boards with F. P. S. C. D. in cellar.

Appearance: Gilbert I. Prowler.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 222 of 1915, Alteration 976 of 1915, 54-56 Varick and 13-15 Laight streets, Manhattan. Trowbridge & Livingston, appellants.

1. As existing building is 82 feet high and is of ordinary construction, it may not be increased in area. New extension should be of fireproof construction throughout. If connections are made with old building, all openings should be provided with fireproof doors.

2. Exit facilities are inadequate.

3. File proper floor arch diagram and provide tie rods.

4. Steel weak where checked; also masonry overloaded where checked. Disapproved May 6, 1915.

The mode, manner of construction and materials to be used will be the same as in the original building and the area of the entire building including the new extension will be less than the original building.

1. As existing building is 82 feet high and is of ordinary construction, it may not be increased in area. New extension should be of fireproof construction throughout. If connections are made with old building, all openings should be provided with fireproof doors.

Owing to the widening of Varick street, the area of the building was decreased by 2,601.84 square feet. The increase by the new extension is only 1,627 square feet. The entire building including the new extension will be 974.84 square feet less in area than the building originally. A new staircase will be provided, enclosed with 6" terra cotta blocks from roof with direct exit at sidewalk level on St. John's lane.

Appearance: Frederick G. Frost.

On motion, APPROVED, as to Objection No. 1, ON CONDITION that both staircases be enclosed with brick walls and self-closing fireproof doors in all stories.

APPEAL 223 of 1915, New Building 3388 of 1915, 86-92 New Jersey avenue, Brooklyn. Edward M. Adelsohn, appellant.

Violation of section 91 of Code as to brick fore and aft partition walls.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed. And it being claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the Borough, or the Provisions of Law, or ordinances do not apply.

Whether it is necessary to have fore and aft brick walls when the distance between the main bearing walls is not over 26 ft.

The walls forming the structure conform to the Building Code in that the bearing walls are not over 26' apart. A brick wall at the stairhall separates the building into small areas, and it is proposed that the columns and girders supporting floor, roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: E. M. Adelsohn.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 224 of 1915, Alteration 893 of 1915, 128-134 West 44th street, Manhattan. George A. Freeman, appellant.

1. Unlawful per cent. of lot area covered.

Or it being claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of said Borough or the provisions of law or ordinances do not apply.

To allow new portion of building to be built as filed to match old building.

The building is a club house, new portion to be the same as old it would be a great disadvantage to the club to have new portion different than the old. The uncovered area at the 4th floor is about 12 per cent., at the 5th floor, 22½ per cent.

Appearances: John H. Tiemeyer, Jr., and J. M. Allen.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the appeal applies to a six-story building only.

APPEAL 226 of 1915, Alteration 951 of 1915, 122 Second avenue, Manhattan. Maximilian Zipkes, appellant.

1. Walls are of unlawful thickness.

The character of the building in-so-far as the new work is concerned, is not materially changed so as to require the partition to be different than the existing condition.

That the walls be permitted to be constructed as called for in the plans.

This building is used by a ladies tailor and the floors are not greatly overloaded with heavy machinery or stock. The stock is on the 1st floor, the 2d is used as a fitting room, the 3d and 4th as work rooms and the 5th as part for janitor's apartments and part for work room, consisting of fur trimming of suits; the walls of the balance of the building are unlawful as required by law for such buildings, the alteration in 1st, 2d and 3d stories are very small and the extensions on 4th and 5th is to arrange floors of uniform depth; as the top story walls are lawful and the lower stories are already built and accepted, it would seem a hardship to require the owner to line all existing walls of lower stories on account of one story, without materially improving the balance of the building.

Appearance: Maximilian Zipkes.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the present walls and foundations are found by the Bureau of Buildings to be of sufficient strength to carry the additional load to be imposed; and on the further CONDITION that the present steel girder at the third floor level be retained after removal of the existing wall. Mr. Wald recorded in the negative.

APPEAL 227 of 1915, New Building 3554 of 1915, north side Parkside avenue, 88.54' east Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

1. Comply with Section 31 of Code. Provide fore and aft brick partition walls.

1. In view of the fact that clear spans are not over 26' and floor beams will be supported on steel columns and girders, ask that this condition be accepted.

1. Omit fore and aft brick partition walls and provide girders and columns in lieu of same.

1. As clear span between bearings is not over 26' and steel columns and girders will be provided to support floor beams and girders and columns will be fireproofed request that this condition be accepted.

Appearance: Gilbert I. Prowler.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 228 of 1915, New Building 3560 of 1915, 185-187 Kosciusko street, Brooklyn. Benjamin Cohn, appellant.

1. Comply with Section 31 of Code for brick partition walls fore and aft spans exceed 26' between bearing walls.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed. And it being claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the said Borough, or the provisions of law, or ordinances do not apply.

That the distance between the main bearing walls is not over 26' and therefore no fore and aft partition walls are necessary.

Walls forming structure conforms with Section 31 of Code in that the main bearing wall is not over 26' apart and 8" brick wall separating front part of building from rear part of building is provided. All columns and girders supporting floors, walls and roofs will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: Benjamin Cohn.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 225 of 1915, New Building 3028 of 1915, 158-160 Pennsylvania avenue, Brooklyn. Sidney F. Oppenheim, appellant.

Comply with Section 31 of Code for brick partition walls fore and aft spans exceed 26' between bearing walls.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed, and it being claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the said Borough or the provisions of law or ordinances do not apply.

That the distance between the main bearing walls is not over 26' and therefore no fore and aft brick partition walls are necessary.

Walls forming structure conforms with Section 31 of the Building Code in that the main bearing walls are not over 26' apart and 8" brick fire walls separating front part of the building from rear part of the building is approved. All columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: Sidney F. Oppenheim.

On motion, APPROVED on the following CONDITIONS:

1st: That an unpierced brick wall at least eight inches thick be built at the points marked "A" on the several floor plans, to extend from the cellar floor to the underside of the roof-boards.

2d. That self-closing fireproof doors be provided at the points marked "B" on the cellar plan.

APPEAL 229 of 1915 (new), Alteration 787 of 1915, southeast corner 51st street and 12th avenue, Manhattan. George Brunnquell, appellant.

Proposed wall of unlawful thickness.

The Superintendent has disapproved the thickness of raised portion of south wall.

To allow the 8" wall laid in Portland cement as erected, to remain.

That the 8" wall as erected is used solely as bulkhead wall and is, without question, strong enough to carry the load which it has to carry. This structure is but one story high, occupied as a "plaster shop," and the 8" wall is 12 feet high and about 50 feet long. For this reason, the modification is requested, the structure being small, and the use, as stated, requiring but small number of employees, and all safety requirements having been taken into consideration.

Appearance: George Brunnquell.

On motion, DISAPPROVED.

APPEAL 230 of 1915, Alteration 929 of 1915, 232 East 10th street, Manhattan. Louis A. Sheinart, appellant.

1. As the building is over 36' 6" in height, and occupied as an asylum, it may not be increased in height unless made of fireproof construction throughout.

2. Exit facilities inadequate.

1. In that, the building is now occupied as an asylum, and that the proposed additional story is entirely fireproof.

2. The new additional story is separated from the old building by fireproof unpierced floor.

3. The present exit facilities of the building are increased by cutting door openings on each floor, with fireproof self-closing doors, leading to a new fireproof building adjoining.

4. The present rear outside stairs will have a fireproof passageway at the base leading to the street.

That the additional story on the present building be allowed to be constructed. That the present and additional exit facilities be accepted.

That the new story it is proposed to erect is entire of fireproof construction and is entirely separated from the existing building, without any openings, between the floor, and is therefore not causing any additional fire hazard, and that the building has been occupied as an asylum and is at present occupied as such.

The present exit facilities from the building is through the existing stairs, and the existing rear outside stairs leading to the yard and through a non-fireproof hallway to the street. Additional exit is provided by cutting door openings with fireproof self-closing doors on each story, leading to a fireproof building, and providing at the base of the rear stairs a fireproof hallway through the fireproof building, adjoining direct to the street.

Appearance: Louis A. Sheinart.

On motion, DISAPPROVED as to Objection No. 1 (increasing the height of non-fireproof building);

APPROVED as to Objection No. 3 (relating to exit facilities).

APPEAL 231 of 1915, New Building 110 of 1915, southwest corner 185th street and St. Nicholas avenue, Manhattan. George Fred Pelham, appellant.

1. Office building more than 25 feet in depth is unlawful. The second floor at St. Nicholas avenue front may not be occupied as a loft.

2. Rear and side courts must be not less than 14' wide, side court should extend the full depth of the lot.

3. Distance back of last row of seats in both upper and lower theatre must be not less than 16 feet.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

1. Office building more than 25 feet in depth is unlawful. The second floor may not be occupied as a loft.

2. Rear and side courts must be not less than 14 feet in width and should extend the full depth of the lot.

3. Distance back of last row of seats in both upper and lower theatre must be not less than 16 feet.

1. That portion used for store purposes, called "office building" in objection is practically isolated due to that portion used for theatrical purposes being walled off and thoroughly fireproofed, the amount in excess is 10 feet. Stores on upper floor are to be used in conjunction with lower stores.

2. The 12 foot wide court as proposed is for a seating capacity of 1,000, as only one floor is to be operated at one time only. Affidavit has been made to this effect with the Fire Department. The 6 foot width of court at rear has been granted by the Fire Department in consideration of a ready exit to streets being afforded due to being located on a corner.

3. The condition as proposed on plans would necessitate an audience distance from seats at front instead of rear, as the greater hazard would be at this point. The foregoing matters have been approved by the Fire Prevention Bureau pending the approval of the Board of Examiners and in compliance with Section 109 of the Building Code.

Appearance: Alfred A. Tearle.

On motion, APPROVED.

APPEAL 232 of 1915, New Building 3706 of 1915, 184-188 Clymer street, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shampan, appellants.

1. Provide fore and aft brick partition walls.

2. Height of building contrary to Section 31 Code.

1. In view of the fact that clear spans are not over 26 ft. and floor beams will be supported on steel girders and columns ask that this condition be accepted.

2. Request that 12" brick walls may be used in 2d story as the 12" section of wall is not over 50' 5" in height.

1. Omit fore and aft partition walls and provide girders and columns in lieu of same.

2. Request that 12" wall may be used in 2d story.

1. As the clear span between bearing is not over 26 ft. and steel columns and girders will be provided to support floor beams, request that this condition be accepted.

2. As 12" section of walls is only 50' 5" in height request that this condition be accepted in view of the fact that all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs and walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings, also as an unpierced brick wall at least 8" thick will be provided from cellar floor to top of roof boards and front and rear portions of cellar will be divided with F. P. S. C. doors.

Appearance: Gilbert I. Prowler.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that an unpierced brick wall at least eight inches thick be built at the points marked "A" on the cellar plan.

APPEAL 233 of 1915, New Building 173 of 1915, northeast corner 144th street and Riverside Drive, Manhattan. Adolph E. Nast, appellant.

9. As building exceeds 12 stories in height, the material used for floor surfaces, trim, sash, doors and outside windows must comply with Section 351, Chapter 5 of the Code of Ordinances.

The building is only 139' and 12 stories and basement in height.

To use construction such as wood floors, doors, trim, etc., as is allowed by Code for buildings of this class under 150' in height and 12 stories high.

The proposed building is only 12 stories and basement above cellar, and 139' from curb on Riverside Drive to top of roof beams. On entrance is planned, owing to grade, through basement, instead of first story, which is the only point conflicting with the Regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: Adolph E. Nast.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that no pent house be hereafter erected on the roof.

APPEAL 234 of 1915, New Buildings 2849 and 2850 of 1915, southeast corner 31st street and 4th avenue, Brooklyn. Edward Hahn, appellant.

Section 31 of Code. "Omission of fore and aft brick partition walls."

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

Is the mode of construction indicated on plans, viz., steel girders and columns in place of fore and aft partition walls equally good? It is intended also that all steel will be fireproofed as required by the Building Department. Plans indicate also that the floors are divided into areas separated by brick walls.

That in these buildings fore and aft partition walls would seriously interfere with the layout of rooms and put the owner to considerable needless expense.

Appearance: Richard Lukowsky.

On motion, entered on the record as WITHDRAWN by request of the appellant.

APPEAL 235 of 1915, New Building 3704 of 1915, southwest corner Park place and Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Comply with Section 31 of Code.

The floors are divided into areas of 2,000 square feet or less by unpierced brick fire walls not less than 8" thick, extending from the cellar floor to the underside of the roof-boards, except where F. P. S. C. doors are shown in cellar. All columns and girders, roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Whether or not the unpierced fire walls with all columns and girders fireproofed as previously stated, will be permitted, also whether or not the 8" brick walls shown on plans where the distance between the outside walls exceeds 33' 0" will be permitted.

To save space and expense as the construction proposed is equally as good as could be obtained by following the letter of the Code.

See appeal No. 238.

APPEAL 236 of 1915, New Building 3705 of 1915, south side Park place 44' 6" west Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Wording same as in Appeal 235 of 1915.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that an unpierced brick wall at least eight inches thick be built at the points marked "A" on the several floor plans, extending from the cellar floor to the under-side of the roof-boards.

APPEAL 237 of 1915, New Building 3747 of 1915, north side Crooke avenue, 128' 5" east St. Paul's place, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

See Appeal No. 238.

APPEAL 238 of 1915, New Building 3748 of 1915, north side Crooke avenue 182' 1½" east St. Paul's place, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Wording same as in Appeal 235 of 1915.

On motion, Appeals 235, 237 and 238 APPROVED.

APPEAL 239 of 1915, Alteration 1181 of 1915, 480 Lexington avenue, Manhattan. Charles E. Spratt, appellant.

2. As the approved seating capacity exceeds 600, the construction and arrangement of the building must comply with the requirements of Sections 520 to 538 inclusive, as to the number of exits, aisles, courts and occupancy of the parts of the building not devoted to theatre purposes.

4. As the building is not more than twelve stories in height and not more than 150 feet in height, no wood or other cumbersome material may be used in the construction.

It is claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the said borough or the provisions of law or ordinances do not apply.

Sections 520 to 538 of the Building Code should not apply to picture house. We desire to use building as shown on plans, without entirely reconstructing to meet the requirements of Section 520 to 538 under Superintendent's ruling.

We are not going to conduct theatrical performances, nor do we have any stage or scenery. We desire to conduct a Motion Picture Show, with seating capacity of 2,000 and as the Moving Picture Ordnance permits of only 600, we were compelled to file with Commissioner of Licenses an application for theatrical license. The Grand Central Palace is an entirely fireproof building, extending from 46th to 47th streets, Lexington avenue to Depew place, and the fact that the largest trade exhibitions in New York, such as the Automobile Show, Electrical Exhibition, etc., which attract thousands daily, are held in the building demonstrate the fact that large crowds can be handled with absolute safety.

Appearances: Charles E. Spratt and John T. Egan.

On motion, DISAPPROVED.

APPEAL 240 of 1915, New Building 3728 of 1915, 1490-1496 St. John's place, Brooklyn. S. Millman & Son, appellants.

Construction does not comply with Section 31, Building Code.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

To allow the floor beams to rest on cross girders with span not over 25' 6" and to omit the construction of brick partition walls.

1. Section 31, Code, does not prevent the use of steel girders for the support of floor beams.

2. An unpierced brick wall 8" thick to be provided of the building from cellar to roof.

3. S. C. F. P. D. provided in cellar at the same place.

4. That all girders and columns supporting floor and roof beams will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: James J. Millman.

On motion, APPROVED.

A MANAGER'S VIEWS ON LIGHTING

By A. O. WALLIS

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

DAYLIGHT gives to man nature's illuminative medium, with which he is able to do his best work with the least fatigue. The rotation of the earth affords alternate periods of light and darkness, allotting to man the alternate periods of activity and rest requisite to his constitutional temperament.

It is in the problems of illuminating places where men are concentrated into relatively small economical areas, such as we find in the modern city buildings today that building managers are vitally concerned.

To do this work properly and completely, the illuminating engineer should commence his work coincidentally with the preparation of the plans for the erection of the building, and should be made responsible both for the efficiency of natural illumination as well as that of artificial illumination. To obtain the best results the two must be considered together, not independently by different engineers.

As natural light is of primary importance, the windows of a building should always be designed so as to afford the most useful inflow of daylight. Large windows do not necessarily accomplish this. Large windows are often a source of annoyance, and make it necessary to use artificial illumination during daylight hours simply because care has not been exercised in their location and design to take proper advantage of surrounding conditions.

Windows placed low down in a room—that is to say, with the top of the sash relatively far from the ceiling and the bottom relatively close to the floor, are very inefficient even though the windows may be large. The reason for this is that much of the light falls below the working plane, while the level at which the light is admitted is more directly in line with the normal line of vision—which is generally at an angle declining below the point of sight. The effect of this is to contract the iris and lower the seeing power. This makes a double loss, maximum illumination thrown below the working plane, restricted seeing power imposed upon the eye.

North Light the Best.

It is a well known fact that windows which face the north afford the best kind of illumination. The reason for this is the absence of the distributing effects of the sun's rays. With windows facing north, awnings and shades are not necessary, therefore at all times maximum light admission is afforded.good results could be obtained by the use of properly designed prismatic windows. Prismatic glass could be designed and installed so as to turn the sun's rays from the angle of impingement up to the ceiling and the useful light would be reflected therefrom. It may be possible to accomplish good results not otherwise obtainable by facing windows, instead of parallel to the face of the wall, at a slight horizontal angle to the wall, so as to admit a minimum of the direct rays of the sun. Combinations of angularly placed windows and suitable prismatic glass may be made to secure results approaching northly exposed windows.

Artificial illumination has received closer scientific study than natural illumination. But even with respect to artificial illumination it may be safely stated that consistent effort has only been given to it during the past fifteen years. Prior to that time it was a sort of hit or miss, go-as-you-please experiment which was carried on. Even today only a few engineers, or so-called experts, appreciate the complex factors that enter into the problem.

To begin with, it must be remembered that except in special cases where mural effects or similar displays are desired, maximum light must be delivered at the working plane. This is usually thirty-two inches from the floor.

Recent engineering studies of office illumination reveal that illuminometer readings, taken at the working plane, do not give data, which if taken alone, will permit the engineer to decide as to the relative merits of illuminating systems. The physiological effect must always be taken into account, and the illuminometer readings used solely as a means for determining the relative distribution of flux between several systems, or the various efficiencies of different types of equipment of the same system.

Results Obtained.

These fundamentals become clearly evident when it is observed through actual experience that in some cases the seeing facilities afforded by one system may be greater than those afforded by a second system, although the amount of flux on the working plane may be less in the first than in the second system.

It has been found that the systems which give the eye the least fatigue are not always the best under general conditions with the various kinds of taste to be suited, for dealing with the human element forces us to cope with the acquired habits formed over a long period of time, which cannot be brushed aside in one moment and must be respected in a partial degree.

The system which may be considered the easiest on the eye is that which gives the least glare. The system which accomplishes this end the best, is known as the total indirect system, in which all of the source of light is completely concealed from the direct vision, and all of the light reflected from large matt surfaces, such as ceilings and walls. This system, however, has the disadvantage of being rather extravagant in comparison with other systems in the amount of current consumed for a sufficient quantity of flux obtained at the working plane for ordinary conditions. It further has the disadvantage of the almost total elimination of shadows, caused by its extreme distribution. In office lighting this is particularly inconvenient, as it makes it difficult to distinctly see sheets of paper lying one above the other. The edges of the sheets lack definement and are not clearly seen.

Lastly, it departs so widely from that to which we have been accustomed for years in the matter of distribution that we find it difficult to throw off the habit already mentioned and accustom ourselves to the weird effect due to the very even distribution of the total indirect system.

Direct Illumination.

The direct system of lighting, such as we have been accustomed to for years, is well known and one to which I may refer only as a step in the art of illumination. The object of direct illumination was primarily one of economy in current consumption, which economy was very essential in the early days of electric lighting, because of the high cost of the production of electricity and the large amount of current consumed by electric lamps for a required amount of light.

The natural outcome of these conditions was the development of small units and the arrangement of the small units made so as to give individual distribution. That is to say, to place a lamp under a shade at each place where a light is required. This method made it necessary to place the lamp immediately in front of, and slightly above the head of the user. The rays from these individual lamps fall directly upon the work in front of the user at an angle which reflects the light directly back from the working surface, resulting in an unnecessary eye strain. The eye being constructed in a manner to be able to protect itself against abnormal light, is provided with a device known as the iris. Under the condition named, the iris contracts so as to reduce the amount of reflected light which reaches the retina, in consequence of which the eye will not see as clearly the work it is intended to see, as it would if a lesser amount of light were used, but so placed that the angle of reflection would not reach the eye.

For the foregoing reasons it is desirable where individual lights are used, that they should be placed back of and above the left shoulder of the user, rather than in front of him. This practice, however, is not always practicable for obvious reasons.

From the principle of direct illumination we find the direct system expanded into semi-individual and from thence into general illumination, and in some instances a combination of individual and general illumination.

All of these various methods, which make use of many different types of shades or reflectors, show the struggle of the illuminating engineer in trying to create an ideal working condition. These efforts, as we now view them, have been futile and we find outselves leaning between two extremes, that is, a system which lays between the direct and the indirect system. This is known as the indirect system. The advantages of the semi-indirect system may be outlined as follows:

Principal Advantages.

First—It gives to quite an important extent the general distribution afforded by the indirect system.

Second—It gives some advantages of the direct system by reason of a certain percentage, varying with the type of reflector and permitting of moderate shadows.

Third—When the system is well designed, the direct rays are distributed in a way to afford a minimum of intrinsic brilliancy at the point of illumination, thus permitting the eye to remain in its normal seeing condition by not causing the iris to contract and reducing the seeing ability.

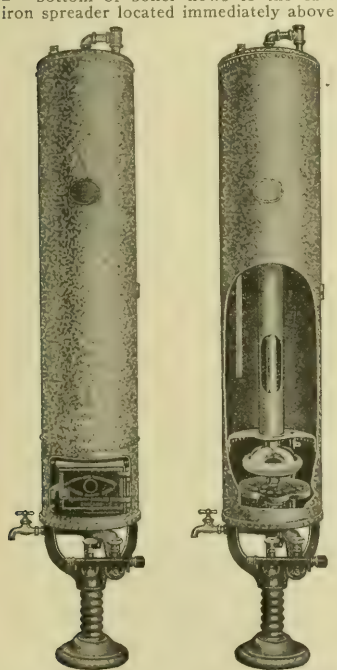
Fourth—It permits of the use of large units, which makes the installation and lamp renewal costs low.

The efficiency of a semi-indirect system is greater than the direct, where seeing qualities are to be considered. Fixture manufacturers and illuminating engineers are beginning to recognize the great advantages of semi-indirect over other systems, and the general public is taking very kindly to it. Competition is extremely keen in the design of the fixtures, each manufacturer setting forth his best efforts to design a fixture showing advantages over his competitor.

There are many excellent semi-indirect fixtures on the market to-day, but great care must be used in the selection thereof, as frequently two fixtures which may appear identical with each other have widely different efficiencies, on account of the chemical difference in the make up of the glass.—(Paper read at the March meeting of the New York Building Managers' Association.)

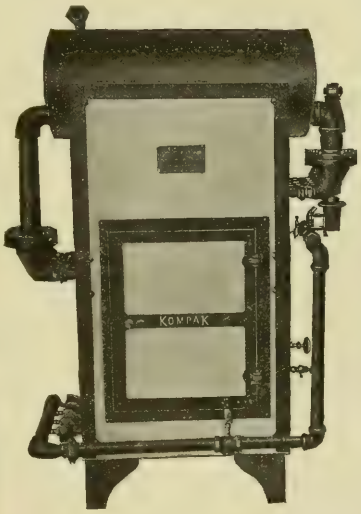
USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.



Continuous Tapering Copper Coil.

OWING to the peculiar shape of this continuous copper coil the manufacturers of this device claim for it unusual qualities. The double jacket of steel is blue porcelain enameled, inside and outside, and has an air space between, guarding against the possibility of rusting or burning out, and providing a non-conducting air chamber. Means are provided for moving the jacket or coil casing vertically above the burner to expose it for lighting and to cause any unlighted gas from the burner to pass outside of the casing and thus prevent the formation of ignitable mixture within the casing prior to lighting the burner. The burner is most powerful and is fitted with a removable or loose cone, which greatly facilitates the thorough cleansing of all parts of burner when necessary. It also has an adjustable valve which allows regulation of the burner for any pressure of gas.

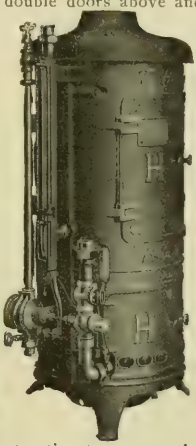


A Novel Type of Heater.

IN this heater cold water from the bottom of boiler flows to the cast iron spreader located immediately above the burner, and from there up inside the central flue to discharge into top of boiler. The patented burner is so constructed that secondary air is fed to the interior of each of the annular flames, and the burner is divided into two sections with independent valves; the smaller division used to maintain the heat after the body of water has been brought to the temperature desired. The two sections can be used either separately or together.

A Compact Water Heater.

COMBINING appearance and utility a hot water heater is being introduced that is really a combination of a powerful copper coil heater which heats the water as it runs with a storage boiler that allows water to be drawn in excess of the instantaneous capacity, so that it is not necessary to cut the water supply. It is shown herewith. The main burners are ignited from a small soapstone pilot, and as soon as the water in storage boiler is heated to 130 to 135 degrees the gas is automatically extinguished by the snap thermostat. The opening of any hot water faucet causes the incoming cold water to operate the thermostat and flash on the gas. The heater is constructed with heavy cast iron jacket, thoroughly insulated with 1¼-inch asbestos. A large door occupies nearly the entire front, giving access to every part of coil and burner and perfect safety in lighting. A special feature is the removable end panel, through which any coil can be separately removed without disturbing the jacket.



The coil construction is of patented design, in which the cold water enters at top of heater, with the hot water outlet at center of heater in the very hottest part of the fire. It is this reversed circulation, with horizontal baffles giving long fire travel, that gives the very high efficiency. The entire section is constructed of heavy, seamless drawn, copper tubes, connection made at each end with a union but outside of heater, and each coil is provided with a compression drain cock at lowest point. The storage boiler is built into the body of the heater, and its entire lower half is subjected to the heat from the burners, thus utilizing additional heat.

Zinc As a Boiler Cleaner.

A RECENT order for export of 400,000 pounds of zinc calls attention to one use to which this metal has been applied abroad, that perhaps is not widely known in the United States. The order was for pure zinc in plates 6 inches by four by a half inch thick, with a half inch hole through the center. The method of using them is as follows: A steel rod is introduced through the side of a boiler, and the plates of zinc with steel or iron washers between are strung on the rod so that there is constant contact between the zinc and iron all the way across the boiler. When the boiler is in use the metals constitute an electric couple, and a galvanic current is set up inside the boiler, which, it is claimed, effectively prevents foaming of the boiler, and also deposition of scale. In this way the use of "boiler compounds" is eliminated and the boiler kept in good condition for an indefinite period. There does not seem to be any reason why aluminum plates should not produce the same results, and possibly, owing to the difference in specific gravity between aluminum and zinc, more surface could be offered for action by using aluminum.

High Power Heaters.

HERE is a heater that has exceptional power. It is automatic and is made in three sizes, all of which have a double cast iron shell with ⅞-inch dead air space between the jackets. The double doors above and below are self-closing, and the larger sizes have doors in the rear to give access to the rear of the coils. The top casting contains a deflecting plate which prevents down draft from blowing out the pilot.

The coils are of highest grade 18 gage copper tubing, wound in a manner to produce the greatest efficiency. The lower section, which lies in the fire zone, is detachable and removable. The thermostat is different in construction to any on the market. It acts on the water valve, not on the gas valve, reversing the action of the water valve by opening a port that throws the water pressure on the opposite side of the plunger, and drives it back to place, releasing the pressure from the gas valve, which is forced shut by this reversed action.

One-Piece Water Heater.

VARIOUS types of heaters are made by the manufacturer of those shown in the accompanying illustration. There is illustrated a one-piece coil, which has large waterways with no baffles to obstruct circulation. Having no flat surfaces or dead arms makes it exceptionally desirable for hard water districts. The coil fits snugly in the jacket, and the hot gases wind about the coil, the live heat units being thereby absorbed. The coil is dipped in a special solution to prevent rust, and is tested at 200 pounds air pressure.

The same manufacturer makes a double coil heater with star tipped burners, which have been generated to a point where hot water is only a matter of seconds. This type is shown herewith.

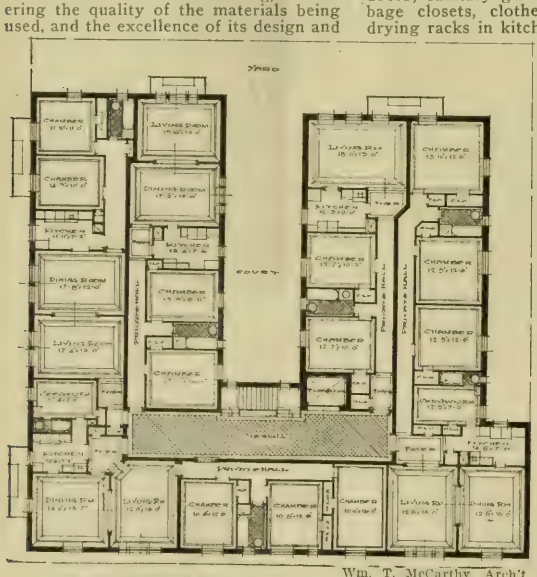
The large gravity hinged door is half the jacket and the drip pan and base are cast in one piece, adding to the general neat design and appearance. One coil is set within the other, and suitable baffle plates are furnished. The burner is star shaped, with raised drilled openings, and may be removed by releasing one set screw. The large bottom feed mixer and needle adjustment permit perfect combustion.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Modern Elevator Apartment House, in Brooklyn, Inaugurates New Era—Suites Rent as High as $18 a Room

BROOKLYN still continues in its growth as an apartment house center. This statement applies to practically all parts of the borough, but with particular emphasis to the Flatbush and Park Slope sections. It is in these parts of the borough that the improvement is most marked, and the buildings, now under construction or contemplated, are of a higher order in design and plan, than are found in many other districts.

Elevator apartments have never attained great prominence in Brooklyn. That is probably because, with very few exceptions, multi-family houses are generally not more than five or six stories in height. In the Park Slope section, however, the recent construction of six-story elevator apartments has progressed rapidly, and in these buildings high rentals are obtained. In some structures from $12 to $8 a room is asked by the owners.



An improvement in the Park Slope section, which is attracting considerable attention at this time, is the elevator apartment now being erected at 78 Prospect Park West, at the northwest corner of Fourth street. This building, considering the quality of the materials being used, and the excellence of its design and baths. The seven-room apartments include a maid's room and separate bath.

Considering the number of conveniences and comforts to be installed for the benefit of the tenants, this building will be unusual. The owner has overlooked nothing that will tend to make the structure attractive to prospective tenants, and which will minimize the cares and exertions of housekeeping. Among the special features to be included is an improved vacuum cleaning system, kitchens, with tiled walls, and sanitary floors, with curved sanitary bases, canopy gas ranges, having elevated ovens equipped with glass doors; sanitary garbage closets, clothes drying racks in kitchens and individual wall safes. In the electrical installation will be included a number of base receptacles for table lighting, as well as floor receptacles to supply current to electrical cooking equipment used in the dining room. A water filtering plant will be installed in the basement and all drinking water, circulated throughout the building, will be filtered and cooled.

In the plan of this building particular attention has been given to the general arrangement of the rooms as regards privacy and convenience, and the rooms are of good size and well proportioned. Wall space for the judicious placing of furniture has been conserved by careful planning in regard to openings for windows and doors. Each suite will include commodious built-in closets. Yard and side courts of unusual dimensions, provide adequate air and light for the rooms which face upon them.

layout, will be the equal of any multi-family house in the borough.

The "Bryn Mawr" apartments, as this new structure will be known, is being built by the Brookville Realty Company, Inc., Harry M. Lewis, president, 189 Montague street, Brooklyn, and is a six-story, semi-fireproof building, with well-designed facades of buff brick with terra cotta and Indiana limestone trimmings. The over-all dimensions of the structure are approximately 94 by 83 feet. The building, when completed, will represent an expenditure of nearly $200,000, exclusive of the cost of the land. William T. McCarthy, 16 Court street, Brooklyn, the architect of the "Cathedral Arms" in Flatbush, and other prominently located multi-family houses in the borough, prepared the plans and specifications from which this apartment is being erected, and the work is progressing rapidly under his direct supervision. Thirty families can be accommodated in this building, in suites ranging from three to seven rooms, with Tenements in Brownsville.

Louis A. Abramson, architect, 220 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, recently developed a new type of three-story tenement houses which are now being erected in the East New York section of Brooklyn, at the northeast corner of Riverdale avenue and Hinsdale street by S. & L. Halperin, owners and builders. The buildings are practical and pleasing in appearance. In their design and finish they seem to possess more of the character of private dwellings than apartment houses. These buildings accommodate six families, two on each floor, in front and rear apartments, respectively. Each building is 24 feet wide, and is set back from the building line three or four feet. They are shallows in depth thus allowing garden space for tenants in the rear. In design these houses vary slightly, although the general mass remains the same. The structure shown on the corner represents the general type of four-story buildings now being erected in the section.

CITY PLANNING CONFERENCE.

Detroit Meeting—Architectural Exhibition—Best Method of Land Subdivision.

About 250 members of the National Conference on City Planning attended the Detroit meeting. They were entertained at luncheon by the city at the Board of Commerce, and were driven around the city in automobiles. The meetings were at the Hotel Statler.

City planning, as analyzed by R. Clipston Sturgis, of Boston, president of the American Institute of Architects, in an address at the opening meeting, is a rare combination of common sense and continuity of policy.

Flavel Shurtleff, of Boston, secretary of the conference, in his annual report made a significant feature of the fact that in small towns and cities there is growing a conception of a city as a unit, a closely knit federation of neighborhoods.

In 1907 there was only one city planning commission in the United States. It was at Hartford, Conn. Now there are commissions in 91 cities. Most are in Massachusetts, where they are mandatory, and in Pennsylvania.

Secretary Shurtleff illustrated his report with slides showing improvements accomplished in Boston, where streets have been widened and new connecting thoroughfares made.

The program of the conference was printed in the Record and Guide of May 29.

OBITUARY

GABRIEL LLOYD, a building contractor at 477 West 150th st, died at his home, 400 West 151st st, Friday, June 11. He was born in Wales forty-six years ago and had been a resident of this city for twenty-seven years. He is survived by his widow and three children.

JOHN N. FALKINBURG, a prominent building contractor in Queens county, died of dropsy at his home, 1112 Dean St., Brooklyn, Wednesday, June 9. Mr. Falkinburg, as a speculative builder, had a great part in the development of Elmhurst, Ingleside and Broadway-Flushing. He was born at New Castle, Pa., fifty-seven years ago and during his business career worked in various parts of the country, finally settling in Brooklyn. He is survived by his widow, four sons and a daughter.

DOUGLAS H. THOMAS, JR., an architect and the son of Douglas H. Thomas, president of the Merchants' National Bank of Baltimore, Md., was found dead on Friday, June 11, under his automobile, on a country road. The steering gear was broken and had been driven into his body. Mr. Thomas had attended a wedding shortly before, at midnight, leaving the Maryland Club in his car alone. He was a member of the firm of Parker, Thomas & Rice, architects, of Boston and Baltimore.

CHARLES E. CHINNOCK, inventor of electrical appliances, who was formerly associated with Mr. Thomas A. Edison, died of a complication of diseases at his home, 157 Sixth av, Brooklyn, Friday, June 11. He was seventy years old. Mr. Chinnock began his career as a telegraph operator. In the early days of telephone experiments he became acquainted with Mr. Edison, who appointed him superintendent of the first central station of the New York Edison Company. Later he was appointed vice-president and general manager of the Edison United Manufacturing Company of New York, and helped to found the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn. As chief electrician of the Metropolitan Telephone Company, the predecessor of the New York Telephone Company, Mr. Chinnock suggested many improvements in the science of telephoning, made several noteworthy inventions facilitating the transmission of messages over the telephone. He patented an automatic electric transmitter for teaching telegraphy which was bought up by the United States government, and a method of suspending aerial cables which has been adopted by telephone and telegraph companies throughout the country. TRADE LITERATURE

RELIANCE FIREPROOF DOOR COMPANY, West and Milton streets, Brooklyn, has distributed an attractive catalog showing the latest designs and applications of fire resisting doors for all sorts of buildings. Notable among the illustrations is a department listing all the moulding faces which is a great help to architects. There are also shown working drawings of the standard kalamein covered doors as approved by the National Board of Underwriters.

The catalogue contains, in addition to the listing of doors, the widely used Reliance locks including the new gravity lock, in this lock the same pull releases the lock and opens the door leaving no projections beyond the edge of the door. There are a number of building of recent construction shown in the book which indicate the class of structures the Reliance doors and equipments have been installed in.

More Details About Hagar Company—
Linseed Oil Lower—Cement Stiffens

PRACTICALLY the entire building material list was shaded this week by distributors to induce heavier purchases before the close of the first half of the year by retailers. Actual quotations were kept high, however, with the exception of common brick, which eased off about twenty-five cents a thousand at the Hudson River wholesale distributing station, and linseed oil. In some cases wholesale quotations were actually higher than in the preceding week, notably in Portland cement and structural steel, showing that the condition of the supply market is rapidly reaching a stage where prices will have to be at a better level than they have been.

One important cement company advanced its price ten cents a barrel, making its quotation $1.43, along side of dock, N. Y. This lead was not followed by other big companies, but there was a marked reduction in the amount of shading being done by smaller companies.

One important railroad running out of the Lehigh district to New York reported a heavier business in cement shipments during the month of May than at any time in its history. Kiln capacity now employed is near the 87 per cent. mark with more kilns to be blown in between now and August first. The $1.43 mill price for Portland cement is now within 6 cents of that prevailing before the price war began in January and by September first there are predictions being made that the price will be nearer a dollar a barrel, mill, or about $1.65 cents, along side of dock, N. Y. This may account for the stiffness in present prices and the heavy shipments reported by railroad companies.

In the lumber department hemlock has eased off a little. On the other hand yellow pine has shown some slight tendency to improve. The range of prices for Eastern spruce are considerably higher than they were a year ago, but in all kinds of spruce the present market price is based very largely upon the amount of offerings made to the wholesale distributors here. Heavy shipments coming in from the Pacific coast of fir have sagged the price level of shingles and lath. Despite these higher quotations in the June-July lumber list the price situation in some lines is very unsatisfactory to the wholesaler, quotations having a difference of $1 to $5. This is due to the fact that buying on the part of the retailers is still confined very largely to actual requirements, indicating that construction work in the suburbs is still sluggish.

On the other hand, the reports from the fireproof terra cotta companies supplying the metropolitan district are to the effect that they are doing a bigger business in the suburbs than they are in the cities this year. Prices have stiffened, although there has been no actual change in lists except for purchases of large quantities, when advantageous concessions can be secured.

Common brick from the Hudson district can be bought at present at prices ranging from $5.75 to $6.25, New York dock. This drop was made merely to move some of the run of kiln brick that has been hanging over for a week or more owing to unsettled weather. The price is expected to rebound by the middle of next week.

Linseed oil, largely controlling the price of paints and varnishes, has receded. Quotations lack strength even at 64 and 65 cents. At the first of the month quotations were four cents higher. Black refined mineral lubricants run at about 13 and 13½ and are steady at that level.

Brass was the first to reach the thirty-cent level predicted at the time Italy entered the lists in Europe. Quotations for sheet brass this week reached thirty cents for large lots and copper went up another cent to 25½ cents, and was very firm. July spelter is held at 20¾ cents, which indicates a further stiffness in galvanized materials, such as rain gutter leaders, nails, screening and concrete reinforcement. Lead at New York was selling at 6.50 cents a pound. Store prices for structural steel is 1.85 and 1.90c and is steady. Manila rope is firmer and so is galvanized and copper wire rope.

PORTLAND CEMENT.

Personel of Hagar Company Is Announced —Prices Up 10 Cents.

EDWARD M. HAGAR, President of the Hagar Portland Cement Company, announced this week the names of the officers and their duties of the new company, the incorporation of which was officially announced exclusively in the Record and Guide last week. They follow:

Edward M. Hagar, president; Morris Metcalf, vice-president; R. H. Rader, vice-president and sales manager; Gordon Wilson, secretary and in charge of cost accounting; Leonard Wesson, assistant to the president in operation and construction; J. P. Beck, assistant to the president in extension work; C. W. Lyon, engineer of economies and J. H. Barbazette, superintendent of construction. Pending the election of a permanent treasurer, the office will be filled by Gordon Wilson. The general offices of the company are located at 208 South LaSalle street, Chicago.

The local Portland cement situation is much firmer. One company to the Record and Guide's knowledge is quoting cement for local delivery ten cents above the present rate, or $1.43 along side of dock even in large quantities. There is no company now selling Portland cement below $1.32 except on back orders.

Portland cement will be 90 cents mill before September 1. It is being sold here at 74 cents, mill, and at the ten cent advance now quoted the price is already within six cents of the mill base figure ruling prior to the recent price cutting war.

A slight slump in movement is expected between July 1 and 7, but railroad shipments out of the Lehigh district in June now promise to be the greatest of any month in a year, or about 15 per cent greater than in June of last year. One railroad is authority for the statement that cement moving over its lines during May was greatest in volume in its history.

LUMBER.

Moderate Price Changes in Only a Few Lines—Hemlock Cheaper.

MODERATE changes are reported in only a few lines of the lumber market this month, according to the official list just issued.

"The building situation continues to show some improvement," says the Lumber Trade Journal. "There is a better tone to factory supply business, which is one of the most profitable lines. Hemlock has eased off. Yellow pine is stronger. Eastern spruce is higher than a year ago, but the market sags according to demand in all spruce lines."

There is a reactionary movement in the requirements for heavy subway shoring and surface planking because some of the lines in the lower sections of the city have been completed and permanent paving has replaced the shoring which has been purchased by other contractors for use elsewhere. Surface planking, however, is in good demand.

Building grades are not being taken up liberally by dealers. Hand to mouth purchases are the rule rather than the exception, and in consequence prices have fallen away a little. This would seem to indicate a retarded building movement in speculative construction outside of the larger centers.

BUILDING METALS.

Sheet Brass First to Reach 30-Cent Level —Copper Close Second.

SHARP changes occurred in some of the building metal departments this week. Sheet brass was the first of the equipment metals to reach the thirty-cent level predicted by this department of the Record and Guide the week that Italy entered the ranks of the Allies abroad. Sheet copper is a close second, having been quoted this week at 25½ cents spot. July quotations have been reported as high as 28 cents. Spelter, governing galvanized iron lathing, reinforcement, wire, cables and lath, is also firming and lead was up as high as 6.25c. at the close of the week.

COMMON BRICK.

Good Brick Brings Steady Prices—Weather Hampers Construction.

EATHER conditions alone were responsible for the slight recession in the common brick market this week. While quotations for run-of-kiln brick dropped down to $5.75 and $6.25 there was no change in the $6.50 level reported for high grade, hard burned Hudson common brick, Raritan common brick held rigidly to its $5.25 and $6.50 level.

Varying statements come to the city from the manufacturing plants up the river regarding the quantity of 1914 brick still on hand. There are reasons to believe, however, that 89,000,000 common brick have moved out in the last five weeks from the Hudson district. If there were 215,000,000 common brick in sheds on May 15 there should be left in sheds 126,000,000 common brick on hand now. This is not an oversupply large enough to weaken the market. In fact, there have been many seasons when the surplus brick on hand at the beginning of a season was considerably in excess of that figure without disturbing New York prices. If this is the correct amount of brick available, it means that there will be made in the Hudson river district this year about 700,000,000 brick, or about 69 per cent. of a normal output.

New brick has been coming into the market and is having the preference in sales and practically all the 126,000,000 brick still in sheds is old brick. What sales are reported below $6 are last year's hold over run-of-kiln brick. The normal market at the close of the week was $6 to $6.25.

On Monday some of the Haverstraw manufacturers expect to operate their big pits, thereby increasing their capacity per machine between 2,000 and 3,000 common brick a day. There was some objection reported among the laborers, who have threatened trouble, and for this account sales received considerable impetus late in the week. Unless the strike spreads to Newburgh and Kingston there is little danger of the strike having material effect upon the supply here in the New York market. There is sufficient brick in sheds above Haverstraw to take care of this market's needs under the present demand. Should there come a stretch of good building weather there might be a tightness in the market, but the supply would be adequate.

GLASS.

Plate Discounts Higher—Window Demand Slow and Fitful.

PLATE glass manufacturers will enter July with a lower discount on their products, indicating a slight rise in price to consumers, it was said in the trade yesterday. The entrance of Italy into the war has interrupted manufacture in that country and it is now up to American producers to supply the world. The demand is very great for export, although there is a strengthening tone to American consumption. Window glass is without feature in a quiet domestic market, most of the export business going into South America.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

WHO OWNS THE SO. BROOKLYN TERMINAL SITE?

United Real Estate Owners Seeking an Injunction to Restrain the City From Purchasing Land It Already Owns

AN objection on the part of real estate interests has been filed with the Supreme Court against any awards being made in the proceedings instituted by the City of New York to acquire title to lands for a marine freight railroad terminal at South Brooklyn in connection with the proposed marginal road.

An order restraining the commissioners in the condemnation proceedings from taking any further action has been applied for on the ground that the premises are already owned by the City of New York in part and the State of New York in part—and not by the First Construction Company and others, which are spoken of as the "claimants" in the papers of the plaintiff in the action.

Allegations that the city is being deceived not only as to the present ownership of the lands but also as to the accessibility of the site are contained in the brief which has been filed with the court by J. Bleecker Miller, attorney of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, the complainant in the case. Besides these allegations there are implications of an unpleasant nature calculated to make the case a notable one in the history of the city government.

THE SOUTH BROOKLYN WATERFRONT, SHOWING THE LINE OF PROPOSED MARGINAL RAILROAD, THE SITE OF THE PROPOSED TERMINAL STATION AND THE STATE BARGE CANAL TERMINAL.

The lands to which title is sought by the city are in part under water and in part filled in, some is upland and some is covered by wharves. They are situated on Gowanus Bay and bounded by Otsego, Halleck, Sigourney, Columbia, Bay, Court, Clinton and other streets. All the land was originally covered by high water, as can be seen on the Ratzer map and other maps which have been introduced in evidence by the city.

The Chains of Title.

None of the claimants of awards have attempted to prove title out of the State of New York into their grantors, and the chains of title offered in the proceeding cover no more than a period of twenty years, according to the plaintiff's brief, which further alleges that the statutes under which the claimant company alone derive its several easements expressly limit them to building wharves, etc., and therefore they can never acquire a title in fee by adverse possession.

If it be assumed for a moment that the State and City of New York never had a claim or title to the land in question, the deeds from the Beard estate to the dummy of the First Construction Company passed no title to such dummy, as the Beard deed of the land was expressly subject to the control of its use by the State and City of New York and the United States of America.

This Beard deed, says plaintiff's counsel, "transfers the whole title in fee simple absolute to these three beneficiaries as if the deed had been made to them as grantees; consequently the dummy had nothing to convey to the First Construction Company, and the First Construction Company has nothing to convey to the City of New York.

"The Cornbury and Montgomerie charters vested the title in the City of New York to the land between high and low water mark on the Island of Nassau, now Long Island, from Wallabout Bay to the west side of the present Gowanus Canal; the acts of the Legislature under which the claimants of these awards derive whatever rights they may have, expressly recognize and except these rights and titles in the City of New York.

Access Cut Off.

"The Beard deeds into the dummy of the First Construction Company are expressly subject to all covenants of record. The description in the deed, through which the Beard estate claims its rights, refers to maps on record in the Register's office of Kings County showing the Henry street basin as extending northward to Mill Street, the northerly end of the land proposed to be taken for the freight terminal."

Long after the plan for the acquisition of the land was first proposed by Dock Commissioner Calvin Tomkins, the State by condemnation proceedings for a barge canal terminal obtained land to the south, and so situated that, according to the plaintiff it shuts out access to the land the city is seeking for its marginal railroad freight terminal, and makes it inaccessible to railroad barges from across New York Bay, and so defeats the purpose of the city in locating the railroad terminal at this expensive site on the waterfront.

Access by the public to the railroad terminal from the landside will also be cut off by the presence of the barge canal terminal immediately in its rear, as deponent is informed and believes.

Under the circumstances the payment of $2,000,000 for the marine freight railroad terminal would be illegal and grievous waste of funds, the plaintiff declares. Besides this the erection of an elevated railroad through the land to be taken for a railroad terminal renders the use of the land for a freight railroad terminal impossible without the construction of some adequate means of raising and lowering the freight cars from and to the tracks of the elevated railroad, and the means suggested in the plans are utterly inadequate; nor is there adequate allowance in the plan for high truck loads to pass under the elevated road.

No Estimate of Cost.

"Neither is there any estimate of the cost or of the means by which factories along the waterfront could transfer their freight from the surface of the streets to the height of an elevated freight railroad, especially if said elevated railroad were sufficiently high, so as not to interfere with street trucks having high loads. Neither is there any estimate of the cost of consequential damages caused by said freight railroad to residential and mercantile houses, fronting on streets through which the freight railroad passes, or adjacent to the freight railroad in such proximity, so as to be injuriously affected by the noises incidental to the operation of a freight railroad in a city. The proposed elevated freight railroad is an experiment, of the cost of which no adequate estimate has ever been made, and a new venture in railroad construction."

Finally, it is not at all certain, in the plaintiff's opinion, that any railroad company combination is ready and willing to operate the proposed marginal railroad.

SIX YEARS OF CITY PLANNING IN AMERICA

An Economic Remedy For Municipal Waste and Social Misery—Disappearance of the Esthetic Note From Public Works Programs

By FLAVEL SHURTLEFF
Secretary National Conference on City Planning

THE National Conference on City Planning held its first meeting in Washington in May, 1909. From that time to the present day city planning events have come with such rapidity that a general movement to lay out new cities or extend old ones to the best advantage of their population as regards economy, health and beauty, may be said to date from that year; and it is interesting also that in this year the British Parliament passed the Town Planning Act, which started a new era in town planning in Great Britain.

The dominant note of town planning literature for the 20-year period just before the calling of the first conference on city planning in the United States was esthetic. It reflects the particular phase of planning activity which created the great municipal park systems, beginning with Central Park in New York about 1850, followed by the metropolitan park system of Boston, and the Chicago and Kansas City park systems. Much of the inspiration for the activity of this period came from the World's Fair of 1909, and the report to Congress in 1902 of the commission of experts appointed to draw up a plan for the development of Washington. The influence of the Washington report can be traced directly in the number of city planning reports that were published in the next few years, in which the grouping of public buildings in civic centers and the establishment of park systems received most consideration.

Economic and Social Aspects.

This esthetic note is almost absent in the papers and discussions of the first conference on city planning. It is apparent from the most casual reading of the report of the proceedings that the stress is put on planning as an economic remedy for municipal waste and for social misery. A composite city planning program worked out of the papers delivered would read something like this:

1. A city plan should be preceded by a survey of the conditions in each city, and particularly the conditions of working and living.

2. A city plan should establish (a) an adequate and differentiated system of streets; (b) a properly co-ordinated transportation system; (c) zones for industries and zones for residences, with healthful and attractive conditions in each; (d) ample recreational facilities.

It is very significant that the two planning reports which came out of the same year of this conference, the Chicago and Boston reports, which have been most quoted, both here and abroad, gave a great deal of attention to the economic aspects of city planning.

The same emphasis on the economic and social side of city planning is kept in the second conference, which met in Rochester in 1910, and has been so marked in all subsequent conferences that this year the executive committee thought the criticism well founded that the esthetic side had been neglected, and arranged a session on civic design.

Legislation.

Referring again to the first conference, one is struck with the remarkable accuracy with which the future of city planning was forecasted, particularly in the direction which city planning legislation has taken. At that time emphasis was laid on the need and probable creation of an official commission with authority to employ expert advice and funds to make investigations and reports, such commission to be appointed in a way to remove it from political influence, and charged with complete control of the future development of the city. City planning legislation has borne out to the full these recommendations. In less than six years state legislation has authorized plan commissions in Connecticut, Maryland, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Nebraska and California, and under these acts or under ordinances, about 100 plan commissions have been established. Particularly there is to be noted the legislation of 1914, which fully realizes the recommendations of the Washington conference in giving the plan commission power to enforce its decisions. It is found in this language of the Cleveland ordinance:

The Cleveland Rule.

Sec. 4. Public Works: Hereafter no public building, harbor, bridge, viaduct, street fixture or other structure and appurtenance shall be located, constructed, erected, removed, relocated or altered until and unless such plan, design or location shall have been submitted to and approved by the commission; and no such work when completed shall be accepted by the city until and unless it shall have been approved by the commission as provided in Section 77 of the City Charter.

City plans establishing factory zones and residence zones had received but little general notice before 1909, and to this phase of the problem the city planning conference has given particular attention. The achievements in Los Angeles, and the legislation giving power to certain cities in Wisconsin, Minnesota and New York to set aside districts from which industrial occupation could be excluded mark the progress which has been made during this comparatively brief interval.

At the first planning conference the subject of excess condemnation was very thoroughly discussed, but its financial expediency and its doubtful constitutionality made municipalities very timid in its use. The constitutional difficulty was remedied, at least in part, by an amendment to the state constitution of Massachusetts in 1911, in Wisconsin and Ohio in 1912, and in New York in 1913.

Education.

At the first conference the suggestion was well received that a city planning exhibit would be the most effective method of stimulating public interest. There had been some municipal exhibits in which city planning had been featured, but the first exhibit of city planning which could be described as at all comprehensive was that in Philadelphia at the time of the third conference on city planning in 1911. The value of this kind of publicity was so apparent that New York City organized an exhibit in 1913, much of the material of which had been used in the excellent traveling exhibit of the American City Bureau, which has been shown in many American cities and has journeyed as far as Chile.

Harvard College in 1909 recognized that if the general public needed schooling in city planning, so did the city planners, and established the first systematic instruction in city planning in connection with its graduate school work in landscape architecture. Courses have since been established in other universities, notably in Columbia and the University of Illinois. The Chicago Plan Commission in 1912 conceived the idea of grounding boys and girls in city planning by the introduction of a textbook on the Chicago plan in the common schools.

There is left to consider the actual physical achievements which can be traced to planning principles or more directly to the recent city planning propaganda. No complete list is attempted of the fine achievements of cities which, like Cleveland, New York and San Francisco, and among the smaller cities, Des Moines, Springfield, Mass., etc,, have constructed monumental public buildings as a part of a civic group. Except as the grouping of buildings makes for convenience, these achievements can be cited chiefly as the result of the esthetic emphasis on city planning which antedates our narrative.

Results.

The radical changes in long established street systems of our largest cities, and the equally striking improvements in transit and terminal developments, have all come in the last five years, however, and serve very forcibly to answer the question raised at the Washington conference: How can the street and transportation system be made to produce a more convenient city? But they are rather the spectacular results of the city planning movement, and, apart from making their localities more convenient places to work in, their value is to show the fearful cost of replanning and the necessity of forecasting a city's future needs.

The less striking but more far-reaching result of recent planning activity, and certainly the most direct contribution of the conference on city planning, is the acceptance in cities big and small of the planning principle, the long look ahead in the layout of street systems, the location of public buildings, the establishment of parks and playgrounds, the construction of street surface, and in all the other physical elements that produce the city. This conception of the city as a unit, a strongly knit federation of neighborhoods, is one that the conference on city planning did not originate, but one that it has taken every opportunity to make a part of city administration.

Ridgewood-14th Street Route.

Public Service Commission Chairman Edward E. McCall promised a group of civic workers that the dirt would be flying within a month on the Ridgewood-14th street subway route. The route starts with a subway under 14th street, Manhattan, to the East River, where it is tunnel under the river and then subway until it reaches the vicinity of Bushwick and Johnson avenues. The river section ending at North 7th street and Bedford avenue will get first attention. This will take longer than any other section.

Forty-two months is the estimated time for this tunnel digging. The subway parts will take 22 months and the elevated about 18 months. The entire system will hardly be completed before 1919 and it will be another year before the equipment has reached a place where operation can be begun.

A Successful Career.

John R. Hegeman, on June 11, 1915, completed forty-five years of service with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, as secretary, vice-president and president. The Metropolitan is the largest lender on New York City real estate. This may explain its great success in winning the public confidence.

OPPORTUNITIES NEAR FRANZ SIGEL PARK

Large Tracts Still in Undeveloped State and Ripe for Apartment House Construction—New Subway Should Be Influencing Factor

EAST and north of Franz Sigel Park, in the Bronx, there are still large undeveloped tracts, which assume an especial interest in the light of progressive subway construction and other contemplated important improvements. The park has an area of about seventeen and a half acres, stretching between Walton and Mott avenues, and 153d and 156th streets, and is about in the center of a large territory which has witnessed practically no recent building movement. At Walton avenue and 158th street there are two five-story apartment houses, giving the one touch of modernity to the district. Here and there are to be found the old-time homesteads which have persisted throughout the years, probably because the extensive building movements have taken place in the sections nearer the transit lines.

GRAND BOULEVARD AND CONCOURSE.

Mott Avenue.

Big waves of activity which have transformed similar areas into thriving residential communities have found this part of the borough comparatively dormant and although it is only a few minutes' walk from the Mott avenue subway station, at Mott avenue and 149th street, Third avenue and 149th street, and 145th street and Lenox and Seventh avenues, building activity in those districts has not been reflected around Franz Sigel Park.

It is felt that the principal setback to growth has been the lack of adequate transit facilities, but this condition is soon to be remedied and it is now only a matter of months before the West Bronx division of the new subway lines will be actually in operation.

Under the new Dual System of Rapid Transit the Lexington avenue subway will divide into two branches, one running easterly through 138th street, to Southern Boulevard, and thence northerly to Southern Boulevard, Whitlock avenue and Westchester avenue, to Pelham Bay Park, and the other running northerly through Mott, River and Jerome avenues, to Woodlawn road. The Jerome avenue branch will be a subway from 135th street to 157th street and River avenue from which point to the terminus it will be an elevated road. The underground section of this new transit system pierces Franz Sigel Park at its southerly end. A large express station is being built at 149th street and Mott avenue where it will be possible for passengers on the present subway to transfer to the new line. Other stations will be at 161st street and 167th street.

Ninth Avenue Connection.

The Ninth avenue elevated will also be given an extension to the north, as part of the Dual System. The present road will be extended from 157th street and Eighth avenue across the Putnam Railroad bridge over the Harlem River, thence over the right-of-way of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company and private property, thence through a tunnel, emerging as an elevated structure at 162d street near Jerome avenue and then over 162d street to River avenue, where a connection will be made with the elevated structure and the Jerome avenue branch of the Lexington avenue subway above mentioned. As a result, residents of this section can reach all portions of Manhattan without being required to transfer.

Besides the interest which attaches to subway construction this particular neighborhood will soon have further claims to distinction. The United States Government has acquired under an appropriation from Congress of $235,000, the entire block bounded by Mott avenue, Spencer place, 149th and 150th streets, as a site for a new Federal post office. Congressman Henry Bruckner introduced at the last session a resolution calling for the expenditure of $1,000,000 for this building, but no final action has been taken.

Station for N. Y. C. R. R.

Farther east the New York Central Railroad contemplates a huge station, which will extend along Park avenue and Spencer place, from 149th to 146th street. It is said that this project will involve about $3,000,000.

In spite of all these developments the section has not seemed, until very recent times, to hold any attractions to builders. In April of this year, the Crest Holding Company, Abraham D. Weinstein, president, bought from the Broadway Savings Institution the vacant block front containing about twenty lots on the east side of Mott avenue, between 157th and 158th streets, opposite the park. It was then reported that apartment improvement would be undertaken. This block is just north of the sixty-five lots sold recently by Joseph P. Day and J. Clarence Davies, for the estate of Arthur R. Morris.

Apartments on Concourse.

Mott avenue, at 161st street, runs into the Grand Boulevard and Concourse. Farther north on this thoroughfare there has been an extensive apartment house building movement; the effect of this tendency, however, has not manifested itself in any actual construction in the vicinity of Franz Sigel Park, although last year the Apex Construction Company, Edward S. Napolis, president, bought a plot on nine lots at the northeast corner of the Grand Boulevard and Concourse and 160th street. It was then reported that a twelve-story apartment house would be erected on the site. Last March a syndicate, consisting of the Alliance Realty Company, William H. Chesebrough and Daniel B. Freedman, purchased from the trustees of Henry Maillard, about ninety-five lots on Grand Boulevard and Concourse, Gerard and Walton avenues, McClelland street and East 166th street. The probable release of this large tract for individual building operations is regarded as one of the most important developments in that part of the Bronx for many years.

"This section," said J. Clerence Davies, "on account of its central location and the comparatively low prices for which lots have been sold, coupled with its adaptability for residential improvement, cannot very long remain in an unimproved state. Besides the benefit of new transportation systems, now under construction, it has the 161st street crosstown service and the Jerome avenue and Sedgwick avenue north and south bound surface lines. Along the Concourse lots are worth between $4,000 and $5,000, while in the side streets they may be valued at between $2,000 and $3,000. These valuations, of course, are for lots cleared of rock and of the regulation size, 25 x100. At such prices, the section presents many opportunities for builders."

Section Still Dormant.

The Franz Sigel Park section presents an interesting study when its geographical location and its unimproved state is considered. Toward the south there has been private house and flat house construction; to the west, on Washington Heights, there has been high-class apartment house building; to the east there has been the creation of a new shopping district and business center, at 149th street and Third avenue; to the north and northeast has been the extensive Fleetwood apartment house building movement, described in detail in a previous issue of the Record and Guide. The Franz Sigel Park district, about equi-distant from these centers of activity, has as yet had practically no responsive tendency.

It is felt, however, that it is only a matter of time when the proximity of Franz Sigel Park to these districts will furnish the necessary incentive for builders who will erect structures to meet residential demands similar to those created farther north on the Concourse. The heavy building movement along this broad thoroughfare which begins at Franz Sigel Park has caused an excellent demand for good building plots and values have consequently been strengthened. The result has been that with a higher price of land a better grade of buildings is being designed commanding higher rents and attracting desirable classes of population. This tendency which will probably be stimulated by the actual operation of the new subway lines, expected in about a year, has created a strong belief in the future of properties near Franz Sigel Park.

A Phase of City's Growth.

That the section should have hitherto remained passive in the light of these facts is indicative of another phase of New York City's unusual growth. There are sections of the city twice as far from the business districts which are congested centers of population while the territory around Franz Sigel Park, just above Harlem, remains practically in its original state. On some of the land east of the park there still remain evidences of the old agricultural character of the neighborhood. There still are to be seen the furrows and hillocks tracing the old paths of the plough. And this section is between three and five minutes walk from a subway station, about a half hour's ride from City Hall.

ANOTHER TUNNEL OR A REBUILT BRIDGE?

Public Service Commissioners and Civic Bodies at Variance—Estimates of Cost Analyzed—Bridge Roadways All Needed For Trucking Traffic

THE Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests believes the plan suggested by Chairman McCall, of the Public Service Commission, of remodelling the Queensboro Bridge, instead of constructing tunnels under the East River, would in but a few years prove to be uneconomical. The plan suggested by the Public Service Commission for remodeling the bridge would provide inadequate facilities for traffic, says a statement from the Council, inasmuch as the present roadway would be subdivided by subway tracks, leaving narrow lanes three-quarters of a mile in length. With the large commercial development of Queens, there would soon occur a serious congestion upon the bridge.

The history of this bridge has been lamentable. It has to-day a live load capacity of only about one-half of that originally provided for in the contract, while the city has evidently lost in utility, as measured by the actual capacity of the bridge, something like $10,000,000 in the total investment in land, foundation and structure. Rather than duplicate the experience already acquired, by expending money for the remodelling of the bridge, when the Public Service Commission itself admits that in a few years it must be altered again, to afford sufficient traffic facilities, the Advisory Council believes that the only alternative to follow would be to construct tunnels between Second avenue and 60th street, Manhattan, and the Queensborough Plaza. In reply to the objections to tunnels by Chairman McCall, the Advisory Council states:

The Council's Views.

"On February 19, 1915, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment passed resolutions requesting the Public Service Commission for the First District to submit plans for a tunnel between Second avenue and 60th street, Manhattan, and the northerly end of the Queensborough Plaza. Under date of June 15, the Chairman of the Public Service Commission of the First District has replied to these resolutions, enclosing two letters from his Chief Engineer, dated March 4 and March 27. In the letter of the Chief Engineer, dated March 4, certain reasons are given to show that it would be better to use the Queensborough Bridge, but some of these reasons seem to be open to question.

"In paragraph 3a, it is stated that the Bridge Department 'has reiterated time and again its judgment that it was feasible to develop the full use of the bridge, for pedestrian, vehicular, surface car and rapid transit traffic.' It is only necessary to again refer to the report of the Department of Bridges to the Public Service Commission, dated March 26, 1912, to see that they limit the length, weight, spacing and number of trains and trolley cars which this bridge can safely carry, to such extent that trains now running on present rapid transit routes will be excluded, to say nothing of the increases in such trains already being made. In addition to the limitations hereby imposed, the plan proposed would seriously reduce the capacity for vehicular traffic, which is the most important function of this bridge.

"In reason 3b, it is stated that the subway and elevated capacity of the bridge will meet the requirements of the rapid transit system, but this only covers the present requirements, and it would be unwise to have such limitations.

"In paragraph 10, certain estimates of cost are given, which it is impossible to check; the cost of the tunnel is, however, stated to be six million dollars, whereas the Degnon Contracting Co. has offered to build it for four and a half millions. The cost given for the reconstruction of the bridge, as proposed by the Commission, has not included cost chargeable to elevated railway and tracks, but if the total cost of $2,500,000 for reconstructing the bridge as given by the Chief Engineer (paragraph 10a), is deducted from the proposal of the Degnon Contracting Co., of $4,500,000, the apparent difference is only $2,000,000. From this amount must be deducted the cost of putting the bridge back to its present condition, as is contemplated in a few years. The Chief Engineer gives this expense (paragraph 11d) as $700,000, so the net present difference would be $1,300,000, based on these figures. Now, as the Degnon Contracting Co. offers to deduct $500,000 from its present contract if the tunnels run through 60th street, it would reduce the actual difference to $800,000. But this expenditure is small when it is understood that the tunnels will have to be built in the near future and the bridge put back in its present condition, so that the $3,200,000 spent on the reconstruction of and the restoration of the bridge will be a total loss. Further, if the tunnel construction is left to the future, there will be considerable change required in the approaches, involving large additional expense.

Many Operating Leaks.

"It must also be borne in mind that the cost of lifting the subway trains from the subway to the bridge, as proposed in the plan for remodelling the bridge, will cause constant loss in operating and the grades will be difficult, if not dangerous, from the operating standpoint.

"The $3,000,000 additional cost for rock excavation, to a depth of 45 feet for the tunnels, to which the Chairman refers as possible, apparently will not be required, as in the letter of the Chief Engineer, dated March 27, he states that the depths assumed by the Degnon Contracting Co. are based on a statement made by Col. Black, of the War Department, to Mr. Degnon, that the War Department would be satisfied with a depth of 30 feet.

"As to delay, attention should be called to the fact that the bridge now has two elevated tracks ready for operation, and such traffic could be operated immediately on making the end connections, so that a very large travel could be accommodated at once, without waiting a long time for the reconstruction of the bridge.

Wants Bridge As It Is.

"Thus the Advisory Council is of the opinion that the great advantage of having this bridge remain as it is for the needs and the future development of the trucking traffic, which is fast building up a large area into a manufacturing district, to the benefit of the real estate owner (as well as the city, through its increased tax returns), far outweighs the disadvantages of spending a comparatively small additional amount now. The practically immediate use of the bridge for elevated trains will outweigh the delay that may be found in the completion of the tunnels, though it has not been shown that the tunnels cannot be completed as soon as the remaining portions of this route, some portions of which are apparently not yet let.

"When the actual expense entailed for the construction of these tunnels, estimated at $800,000, is compared with the almost total loss of $3,200,000 that will result from remodelling the bridge and then subsequently reconstructing it, so as to provide for tunnels, it would seem that there would be only one logical course to follow. It is understood that the elevated tracks could be put into operation within a very short time, thereby conecting the new transit lines of Queens with the city subways. These elevated lines could conveniently accommodate all traffic during the construction of the tunnels, so that in reality there would be no delay to transit facilities between the Boroughs of Manhattan and Queens."

At a joint meeting of the Board of Directors and the Transit Committee of the Chamber, resolutions were adopted urging the Board of Estimate to come to an immediate decision in favor of the construction of tunnels, and to hold a joint hearing with the Public Service Commission as soon as possible. At the meeting of the Chamber there were present representatives of the biggest industrial concerns and real estate development companies, representing many millions of dollars of investments in all parts of the borough, and they were unanimous in their determination to secure the construction of tunnels.

Chief Engineer Craven of the Public Service Commission states in his reports that the reconstruction of the bridge in place of building tunnels would save time in the operation of these trains and also would be less expensive to the city. The Queens Chamber of Commerce says it is prepared to show that not only will the construction of tunnels be less expensive to the city, but that the operation of trains can be secured just as soon, for up to the present time the contract has not been let for the construction of that section of the Broadway subway extending from 39th street to 57th street. A note from the Secretary of the Chamber says:

"It is estimated that it will take three years to complete this section, and the tunnels under the East River can be built in that time. By the construction of tunnels the full use of the present wide vehicular roadway will be preserved for the rapidly increasing traffic between Manhattan and Queens. The number of vehicles which crossed this bridge in one day increased from 1,810 in November, 1910, to 7,207 on November 5, 1915.

"Big industrial concerns are locating every week in Long Island City adjacent to the Bridge Plaza, because of the easy access for trucking their products to the markets in Manhattan across this bridge.

"Several manufacturers who contemplate locating in this section are now awaiting the decision of the city in this matter. If New York City wishes to drive manufacturers to New Jersey, no better method can be adopted than by reducing the roadway of the Queensboro Bridge. The question, moreover, is one that affects not only the Borough of Queens, but the entire City of New York and all Long Island—for this is the main gateway between Manhattan and Long Island, which is the greatest home center and playground of New York State."

—Freeport, L. I., a thriving village which believes in old-fashioned simplicity in government, taxes property at the low rate of $1.15 on the $100 of assessed valuation for a very superior line of public service. Thus a dwelling assessed at $5,000 pays an annual tax of only $67.50.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES FOR METROPOLIS

Chief City Officers Present a Bill of Rights—Arts Federation Sends a Memorial—How Much Home Rule is Needed ?

MAYOR MITCHEL, President McAneny and Comptroller Prendergast appeared before the Cities Committee of the State Constitutional Convention this week and pleaded on behalf of New York City for emancipation from the interference of the Legislature in purely local administrative affairs. Press reports state that the three representatives were not altogether agreed upon what changes should be made in the Constitution. The Mayor, on his part, urged that among other powers these be vested in New York City and other municipalities in the State by the proposed new Constitution:

Rights the Cities Should Have:

The right to make and amend their own charters.

The absolute right on the part of the fiscal officers of cities to control the financial policy of their respective municipalities, always within the existing Constitutional restriction with regard to a debt limit not to exceed 10 per cent. of the taxable real estate in each city.

The right on the part of the governing body of a municipality to control the number of employees and their salaries in all city departments, including in New York City, those under the various county administrations where at present both personnel and salaries are determined by statutory elements over which the Mayor has no veto power and the city officials have no control.

The right to acquire and operate public utilities and the right to determine what shall be construed as a public utility.

The power of eminent domain.

The right to condemn property within municipal boundaries for municipal purposes.

The power to annex territory and to separate from territory at present constituting part of a municipality.

The right to set aside property for street purposes.

Full franchise granting power and limited control of operations under such franchises.

The full exercise of the police power for the safety, health, and convenience of the people.

The grant of local jurisdiction to municipal courts.

The power to control the conduct of municipal elections.

Stop Special Legislation.

Mayor Mitchel thought that the right of the Legislature to enact special legislation affecting one city or only a group of cities should be canceled, but that the Legislature should retain its right to enact general laws affecting all municipalities, laws affecting labor, civil service and the general policy of education, even though these should affect municipalities. In regard to the acquisition by a municipality of property beyond its own boundaries for municipal purposes, as for instance, the acquisition of property by New York City for water supply purposes, the Mayor thought the power of the Legislature to enact special legislation affecting a municipality should be continued, as the only feasible method of accomplishing the purposes in question. Even in such instances, Mayor Mitchel said, he thought an additional check on the Legislature should be provided by requiring a two-thirds vote to override a Mayor's veto, as is required in the case of a veto by the Governor. Under the present Constitutional provision, a Mayor's veto is annulled by the vote of a simple majority.

Mr. McAneny thought the franchise granting power and the supervision of operations under franchises should remain with the State.

Comptroller Prendergast said that in his opinion the chief need of the city is a provision in the Constitution assuring it the right to conduct financial operations of the municipality in the way the officers in authority shall deem for the best interest of the city.

Mr. Prendergast said he was willing to forego the right of charter-making and charter-mending as long as this right could be obtained.

An Awakened Public Feeling.

Mayor Mitchel expressed the opinion that the need for imposing restrictions on cities to curb the power of corrupt local officials no longer existed.

"It is quite true," said the Mayor, "that for several administrations—and not only in New York City but in other cities throughout the State as well—there has been in evidence a new attitude on the part of public officials toward their public duties. There has been a powerful awakening of the public conscience, a most hopeful sign of democracy. This new spirit has come to stay.

"Home rule for cities and the demand for it are normal developments of genuine democracy. It is the only means toward efficient local government. It does not contemplate a wider latitude for local officials, but a broader power for the people to manage the affairs of the localities where they live. We cannot get an efficient system of local government from Albany. Albany is too far away, and the lawmaking body as a result of remoteness has little sympathy and little knowledge of local needs which for that reason frequently go unheeded."

IN AID OF CITY PLANNING.

Memorial From the Fine Arts Federation, Favoring the Zone System.

The Fine Arts Federation has sent a memorial to the Constitutional Convention in behalf of the adoption of the following amendment to the State Constitution:

"Sec. 7. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation. The Legislature may authorize the taking of more land and property than needed in the creation, laying out, widening, extension or re-location of parks, streets, highways and public places, or for the protection or development thereof, including rights in, easements over, and limitations upon the use of neighboring property; but unless the excess land or property shall be needed for a public purpose incidental to such primary purpose, the excess shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, street, highway or public place. So much of the excess as shall not be needed for the primary purpose may be sold or leased. Different localities and classes of property may be subjected to different regulations for the protection or development thereof, or for any other public purpose, including the destruction of buildings in areas that are unsanitary or vicious and the prohibition or restriction of uses or structures inappropriate or offensive to the neighborhood or detrimental to the appearance of public streets or places."

The memorial is signed by Albert S. Bard, Arnold W. Brunner, George B. Ford, Robert D. Kohn and John B. Pine, and states that the changes in the existing "excess condemnation" clause in the constitution are intended merely to clarify its provisions and to extend the power (now limited to cities) to the State itself and to such political subdivisions as the Legislature may hereafter bestow it upon. The memorial further says:

"It would put beyond question the power (now denied in some quarters) of the Legislature, and of municipal authorities exercising delegated legislative powers, to permit different regulations in different parts of the same city, depending on the character of the locality affected. It would clearly make legal the 'zoning' or 'districting' of cities, thus fostering the specialization of districts—to their general advantage as well as that of the city.

"The effort which has been made in recent years in various States, to create residential districts in cities and protect them from business and other obnoxious encroachment, is but one example of what is frequently desirable. The falling off in values in lower Fifth avenue in New York upon the invasion of that avenue by factory lofts—a most unsuitable development—indicates what happens in the absence of the power to control. Every real estate owner is aware of the constant menace to his property which exists in the present unrestricted, and unrestrictable, power of a neighbor to set up a stable or an offensive industry, not amounting to a nuisance per se, adjoining such owner's home or high class business structure. How often have neighborhoods been subjected to legalized blackmail by the unscrupulous, who even have invaded the neighborhood for this very purpose!"

The Kind of Home Rule New York Needs.

Stewart Browne, president of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, tutional Convention in which he says: has written a letter to the State Consti-

"New York City should not have 'Home Rule' for municipal construction, ownership or operation of utilities, etc., or for the purpose of spending moneys for altruistic purposes, social uplift, free dentistry, free oculary, free drugs, free medical advice and other like free services, etc., pension schemes, unemployment allowance schemes and other like fads and fancies. It should not have the power to contract for colossal public improvements and issue municipal obligations without some check outside of itself, such as by a state commission appointed by the Governor.

"New York City should have 'Home Rule' to the extent that it should be made impossible, except in the case of elective judges and their salaries, for the Legislature to pass any bill compelling the city to create any specific departments, bureaus or positions; make any specific or aggregate disbursements for any purpose; or pay any specific salaries or wages or rates thereof.

"New York City should have 'Home Rule' or full power to manage its school system, fire, police, street cleaning, health and all other necessary departments of city government and to fix and determine the compensation of all appointive employees who are paid in the first instance out of the city treasury. Except in the case of elective officers and elective judges, the city should not be required to go to the Legislature to create new city departments, bureaus, or positions or consolidate or abolish any of the same; while its school and health departments should be run under broad state regulations, the details of carrying out same should be left to the city.

Big business combinations having won an edict of emancipation from the courts, may the same good fortune come to real estate.

Twenty thousand persons are in the employ of the Board of Education of the City of New York. A smaller number with a shorter curriculum would graduate better scholars. Time and money are stupidly wasted on non-essentials. One hesitates to criticise the school system, but it is very evident that the public patience is strained nearly to the breaking point while waiting for relief from the Constitutional Convention.

The Herald calls attention to the uselessness of the Bridge Department (now that the bridges are all completed) which costs the city over a million dollars a year for salaries, nearly all of which could be saved by consolidating the duties of this department with those of the Bureau of Highways. Very little in the line of consolidating departments is likely to come voluntarily from City Hall. The Praetorian Guards seem to run the city.

Mr. McAneny, who is the head of the Board of Estimate's committee on charter revision, has given the public an idea of the kind of a charter he thinks the city needs. He says it should be first and last a charter that business men would desire, and which would facilitate a business administration. We need a charter, he also says, that will permit us to improve the social and living conditions of our people. As first and last it will be a business charter, presumably the uplift sections will fill the middle of the book. Mr. McAneney can be depended on not to forget them. No doubt they will be both numerous and curious, not to say expensive.

Making Another Start.

The Board of Estimate has discharged the staff of the Committee on Port and Terminal Facilities which, according to the published report of its secretary, had accomplished little or nothing, and the Comptroller, as the chairman of the committee, has at last set himself to the task of forwarding the West Side improvements. "The trouble is," he says, "a thousand kickers develop whatever the plan considered."

The prevailing public opinion is that the administration has not had the assistance of men clever enough to contend with the astute procrastinators of the New York Central Railroad Company. They have not understood their case. The Comptroller should call to his aid men known to be thoroughly informed concerning the city's legal rights and the engineering problems involved and therefore able to detect and check every ruse of a corporation whose aim is either to gain a great advantage over the city or else put off the day of settlement.

It ought to be familiar history to any port and terminal committee that wherever railroads and water lines come together the railroads seek to control all the available waterfront. An innumerable number of cities and towns have found themselves cut off from their natural water routes by railroad lines along the littoral when their eagerness for railroad transportation facilities had caused them to forget momentarily the importance of retaining access.

Where the railroads have all the advantages for shipping merchandise and the water lines few or none, the railroads will get the freight business and the water lines will be starved out. Inland water lines are very necessary to New York City as carriers of domestic supplies. They should have all the facilities needed to make them useful. Landings should be reserved for them at rentals within their means, and railroad yards kept away from the bulkhead line except at ferry intersections. These principles applied would have prevented the Board of Estimate's previous terminal committee from ever consenting to a great railroad classification yard running parallel to the shore line (twenty-six tracks wide) at Manhattanville. That such ancient railroad strategy should arouse a thousand kickers ought not to be surprising. What was surprising to the business public was that Chairman Mitchel should have approved a plan which violated one of the rudimentary principles of efficient municipal administration.

The Short Ballot and What It Means.

A feeling is abroad in the land that the system of representative government still in use in most States and cities has failed to respond to the needs of the period. In no less than twenty States a non-partisan warfare is going on to obtain a form of government that will ensure a unified and obedient administration. In a number of States the fight has progressed to the point where efficiency committees are at work on plans of reorganization of State offices. Investigations have invariably discovered an over-manned public service, a great waste of public funds and a distressed body of taxpayers.

Mayor Mitchel attempted to describe this new public feeling to the Cities Committee of the Constitutional Convention when he said that there is evidence of a new attitude on the part of public officers toward their official duties and that there has been a powerful awakening of the public conscience. To the mind of most observers whatever change of mental attitude there has been on the part of public officers has been caused by an aroused public feeling against inefficiency; and so far as New York City's administration is concerned the changed attitude has not extended so far that the Mayor would consent to legislation to reduce the oppression and annoyance resulting to the tax and rent paying public from an unbusinesslike and over-manned municipal organization.

Over taxation and the higher cost of living and doing business, complicated by a general stagnation in business, have served to draw public attention as never before to questions of State and local government. The commission form is solving the problem for cities which have been permitted to make their own charters, but as much of the foolishness in local affairs is owing to the interference of the State, the greater force of the movement for better government is directed at the machinery of the State. The short ballot is being recommended from many directions as an indispensable first step, because it means a consolidation of offices and a simplified and responsive organization.

In a few words, putting the short ballot into the hands of the electors of the State of New York will mean the adoption of the system employed in the national government, where the people elect their President and he appoints the members of his cabinet, while they in turn administer the co-ordinated branches of the government. Instead of voting for six or seven independent executives, the electors will vote for a Governor and a Lieut.-Governor only. All the other executive officers will be appointed by the Governor.

Other steps that have been recommended as essential to really efficient administration are, a scientific budget, classified uniformly for the main functions of administration; a smaller army of public servants and a refined Legislature. There is very general dissatisfaction with the excessive quantity and inferior quality of legislation. Make a seat in the Legislature the place of real dignity it ought to be by reducing the number of legislators and restricting by constitutional amendment their duties to affairs of real importance affecting the whole commonwealth. What cities want is municipal democracy rather than "home rule" in the sense commonly meant. They need the protecting arm of the State in various walks of life, but New York City, being virtually a State in itself, should be relieved absolutely from the possibility of impertinent, annoying and costly interference of the State in purely local affairs, as when it arbitrarily raised the wages of thousands of women school teachers, and when it undertakes to supervise the erection and maintenance of private buildings.

The Auction Market of To-day.

Opportunities for investment buying in the auction market are always present, but to-day there exist more chances for making money in this field than for many years past. The auction buyer has become very conservative, however, and it is well that he has learned his lesson. In order to make friends for real estate, the purchaser must be permitted to acquire his property at a price which will ensure a profit without a long and tedious wait. Theoretically the buyer at auction expects to pay less than the same property would bring at private treaty, but the making of the price rests with himself. Often when prohibitive prices have been paid at the auction block, dissatisfied owners have complained that real estate is at fault when in reality they were alone to blame.

During the current month there have been several lot sales and in many instances buyers have obtained bargains. Frequently the prices were considerably less than the assessed valuations and the chances of a turn were accordingly enhanced. Primarily, there are three reasons for buying at auction. First, for the purpose of improving the site with a home; second, for a quick turn, and third, for a long pull. The first reason is, of course, the best one, for this brings the transaction into the investment class. The latter two reasons are speculative ones, and mean that the buyer takes a chance. Thorough knowledge of values is necessary in any event, and the one who goes in with his eyes shut is pretty sure to come out of the deal with a loss.

In the case of the sale of 172 lots in the West Bronx the sellers of the property obtained enough money to satisfy all existing claims and had about 25 lots left free and clear at the end of the sale. Had this property been sold as one parcel it is doubtful if a buyer could have been found who would have been willing to pay as much money in the aggregate. The buyers, on the other hand, are the owners of parcels at prices which if properly managed should yield them a profit. The sale indicates a healthy market.

Last week in Brooklyn the night auction sale was also successful, the bidders remaining in the auction room until 2 o'clock in the morning, when the sale of the 35 remaining lots was adjourned until the following Tuesday. This sale was conducted under most inauspicious conditions, as the weather was stormy and in all probability kept many away. The prices obtained were on the whole satisfactory to both buyers and sellers when all the conditions are considered. The section in which the property is situated has seen a wonderful building era during the last few years, and it almost seemed as though the market for lots in this section had been thoroughly drained. But this was not the case. Probably no better evidence of the public's faith in the section could have been given than the spirited bidding.

The third notable sale was the first instalment of the holdings of the late Frederick Balz, an operator, and comprised a budget of 47 parcels scattered all over the Borough of Brooklyn. The prices, while considered reasonable, indicated the underlying strength of the auction market. The out-of-town holdings of the same estate will be offered next month, and unless conditions change materially, similar results will prevail.

It is difficult for the man with a limited capital to find an investment for his money. The auction market is a logical place. But, as in other forms of investment, care must be exercised not to overextend and take on more than can be easily carried. A friend made in the auction market is a lasting friend for real estate, but it takes a long time to atone for a wrong.

Municipal Democracy Frustrated by the Legislature's Interference.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Every political party represented in the Constitutional Convention is definitely pledged to the principle of municipal home rule. Such pledges will not be followed unless the constitutional revision that is finally approved substantially increases the city's freedom in dealing with its local affairs. Anything short of this will occasion the sharpest disappointment.

From the urban viewpoint home rule is perhaps the most important issue before the convention. However, it has even been suggested that the Constitution should merely empower the Legislature to grant to cities such measure of home rule as it sees fit, leaving to succeeding legislatures the power to curtail, or violate, or abolish grants made by their predecessors. Any attempt to thus slight the subject will be strenuously resisted. Of course, it will require deliberation to sift various proposals, and to prepare a provision granting to cities freedom in the management of their purely local affairs while preserving to the legislature its control over matters of State concern. But the drafters of our constitution have never shunned such tasks because they were difficult.

There is clearly a lack of responsibility in city management. It is the right of citizens to hold municipal officers to a strict accountability for the expenditure of the large sums of money involved in city administration and for the efficient management of the city.

The reply of municipal officers to attempt to fasten responsibility upon them is that they are to a great degree simply passive tools of the legislature, which decrees the expenditure of city money, and interferes by mandatory requirements and inhibitions in clearly local administration.

Representative government is the only kind possible in this State. To be efficient it requires that power shall be coordinated with responsibility. No officer can be held responsible for the discharge of the duty which he has not the power to discharge.

It is not essential to the home rule program that the Legislature be deprived of its power to legislate in matters of State concern, or to exercise a proper control over the property, government and affairs of cities.

It is not desired to erect cities into governments divorced from the State. As in the case of private corporations, municipal corporations should adopt their charters under the provisions of general laws. Such charter as in the case of private corporations should not be subject to any special law.

There is nothing inconsistent between a prohibition against charter tinkering and the preservation of the Legislature's control over the property, government and affairs of cities through the enactment of general legislation applicable alike to all similar communities. It is such a prohibition against charter tinkering which is the essence of municipal home rule.

Municipal home rule, like any other kind of freedom has two aspects, one positive, the other negative. It involves on the one hand (a) power to do whatever is necessary in the management of local affairs without securing a special legislative consent; and, on the other hand, (b) protection from interference in local affairs by mandatory special legislation.

A fundamental feature of home rule is the prohibition of special legislation, which is the predominating evil in the present situation. It requires cities and villages to go to Albany in regard to matters of purely local concern, and at the same time imposes on the legislature, as has been shown, a choice of "log-rolling," ignorance or useless labor.

In preparing a constitutional amendment the following principles should be recognized:

(a) Municipal corporations should have the power to prepare their charters (not by town meeting, but by duly elected delegates) subject to the provisions of broad general powers to be expressed in statutes.

(b) The Legislature should by the constitution be debarred from passing special laws involving such powers as the following: Fixing or changing the salaries of local officers; creating offices, the salaries of which are to be paid from the city treasury; interfering with the actual administration of purely municipal departments. This does not mean that the Legislature should be prohibited from passing general health laws, general education laws, general police laws, or the like to which a municipal officer's oath of office would bind him to conform.

The Citizens' Union urges no new panacea. Municipal home rule was guaranteed by Magna Charta, and has always been part of the fundamental law of this State. During the past century it has by general degrees been limited and cut down to an extent which has wrought untold ill to the cities of this state. The plea for its restoration should be earnestly and sympathetically weighed by every member of the convention.

W. E. YOUKER,
Secretary Citizens' Union.

New Tenement House Measures.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The following measures were passed by the Legislature of 1915 amending the Tenement House Law:

Amendments to Sections 15 and 16, exempting two-story tenement houses from requirement to provide fire-escapes.

Amendments to Sections 18, 22a, 23 and 66a, allowing hollow cement blocks as an alternative for brick or terra cotta blocks.

Amendment to Section 150 in relation to prostitution.

The Tenement House Department approved the enactment of the two former amendments, that exempting two-story tenement houses from the requirement to provide fire-escapes, and the amendment which allows hollow cement blocks to be used as an alternative for brick or terra cotta blocks, in certain parts of tenement houses required to be of fireproof construction.

Section 150 of the Tenement House Law in relation to prostitution was amended by permitting magistrates to suspend sentence on first offenders convicted for violation of that section.

An amendment to the Penal Code was passed which permits the acceptance of a certificate of the Tenement House Department, by a Judge, as presumptive evidence in all cases that a building is a tenement house.

The department also approved a bill which provided for the creation of a departmental court in which cases brought by departments for the enforcement of the statutes and ordinances can be tried. This bill became a law.

JOHN J. MURPHY,
Commissioner.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

There is a queer phase of the renting business that I have never understood, and possibly there is no explanation. To put it plainly: Why is it that many renting agents will do more repairing for a new tenant, than for an old one? In two separate instances I have had occasion to ask the agent, at the termination of my lease, to do some decorating, and most of it has been refused, though this identical work would have to be done in the event of another tenant signing a lease.

The most peculiar instance was the second time, when I rented another apartment, from the same brokerage house, and they did more work for me than the old tenant required. I may say that the tenant whom I replaced was reliable and secured an apartment from another concern of equal standing.

I do not pretend to know the real estate business, but common sense leads me to believe that a good tenant in a house is worth several "prospects." There may be an answer and possibly some agent will enlighten me.

The Bond Issues.

With the enormous surplus above legal requirements now held by the National and State banks, the country can easily absorb all the bond isues coming this way. The new loan of the British government, which offers 4½ per cent. on large and small sums to the amount of $2,000,000,000, is causing, however, not a little selling of American securities. No portion of the French loan has been offered to the American public, or to any banks outside of the syndicate which arranged for making the loan with the French bankers. New York City's offer of $71,000,000 4½ per cent. bonds will take only a cupful out of the American ocean of money. While the banks have plenty of money to loan, they are looking ahead to the time when money will be worth more than it is now. With government and city bonds paying 4½ per cent., railroad and industrial securities must expect to do better for investors in due time, and they unquestionably will. A credit of such vast proportions as the banks now have, amounting to over $700,000,000 above legal requirement for the National banks alone, and a 4 per cent. money market, provide a foundation for great business activity

—Mrs. Maria Duane Bleecker Cox, who hoisted the new flag over City Hall on Thursday, is the direct descendant of James Duane, who was Mayor of New York from the date of the Evacuation of the city by the British, in 1783, during the whole period of the confederacy up to the adoption of the national constitution, when General Washington in a letter still preserved in the family appointed him the first U. S. District Judge. Mrs. Cox was one of the organizers and the first treasurer of the national society of Colonial Dames. Her brother, J. Bleecker Miller, executive secretary of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, was the first secretary of the national society of the Sons of the Revolution. Mr. Miller assisted his sister in raising the flag. James Duane, their ancestor, was the first judge to declare null and void a statute contrary to the U. S. Constitution.

NO WILLIAM ST. KIOSKS.

P. S. Board Agrees That They Should Not Be Built There.

THERE was no room left for argument at the hearing on the question of the nature and position of the entrances and exits of the William street subway when the full board of Public Service Commissioners announced through their chairman, Judge McCall, that they agreed absolutely with all that had been said against putting kiosks on the narrow sidewalks. Access to the subway should be through the adjacent buildings, they said, and this was in accord with the policy the board was pursuing in all the narrow downtown streets in relation to other lines. But in the case of William street the board had been unable to obtain any easement and had no money to pay for any.

"We want to be frank with you, gentlemen, and you are entitled to a direct and manly answer to your question, and I repeat that we are in full accord with you as to the undesirability of placing kiosks on the narrow sidewalks. But I for one—and I am only one of five, to be sure—am utterly opposed to diminishing by so much as one dollar the total sum available for subway construction. I declare right here and now that I will not vote to exceed that sum knowingly by so much as one dollar, and we may have difficulty in keeping within the appropriation on the contracts yet to be awarded."

The hearing was at noon on Wednesday and was attended by representatives of the Real Estate Board, the Advisory Council, the Merchants' Association and the owners of property in William street. President McGuire presented a petition, numerously signed, from the property owners and lessees along William street urging the Public Service to consider any plan suggested by the above-named boards for removing the menace to property and business interests that kiosks on the sidewalk would be. Mr. McGuire followed this with remarks that drew from Commissioner Cram, who presided and Judge McCall, who came in after the hearing had opened, declarations that they agreed fully with what he said, but that the board had no money to spend for easements, and the only question left for consideration was how could they get the money.

Borough President Marks was called on to answer this question, and he expressed the opinion that co-operation between all concerned would accomplish a great deal.

Chairman McCall asked to be plainly understood that he and his colleagues were as one in their willingness to co-operate in any reasonable plan for relief, but in the light that the city is in no position financially to do anything toward acquiring easements. He further said he believed that property owners abutting the stations ought to be willing to grant easements without cost to the city, in view of numerous precedents of increased values they effect, and said he would willingly delegate a representative of the Commission to confer with such owners.

Secretary Helms, of the Advisory Council, said William street conditions were unique, and that a station easement might, instead of being a benefit, work harm to property.

In this connection Mr. Helms brought up the legal question of liability on the part of owners for damages from accidents occurring in the passageways through their buildings. This point had not been touched on before and impressed Judge McCall forcibly, as it enables him to see more clearly the different circumstances confronting the William street owner, whose property would be open to traffic via the subway entrance all night, while in the case of some uptown buildings the subway entrances are closed at night.

Judge McCall thought that such liability could be placed upon the operating company. He also said that the form of easement now presented to owners permitted them to abrogate at will.

Daniel E. Moran, consulting engineer, represented the owners of a number of buildings. It was tacitly agreed that the commission would change the position of an entrance from one building to another if an entrance could be obtained through one building and not through another, and Chairman McCall suggested the appointment of a committee to interview all the owners and see what could be done.

This committee consists of Edward Riegelman, assistant counsel to the Public Service Commission; Laurence M. D. McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board; Birch Helms, secretary of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, and E. P. Goodrich, consulting engineer of the Borough of Manhattan, representing President Marks.

New Subway Lines in Operation.

Brooklyn celebrated the opening of the Fourth avenue subway with appropriate exercises last Saturday afternoon. While the subway was not opened for traffic until June 22, the company ran a special train carrying public officials and other interested citizens on Saturday afternoon. The train started from the Chambers street station in the new Municipal Building, Manhattan, at 1.30 o'clock and made the run through the Fourth avenue subway to 65th street, and thence over the tracks of the Brooklyn company's Sea Beach railroad to Coney Island. For the present the line will be operated over this route, but eventually it will be connected with elevated railroads running to Coney Island through New Utrecht avenue and Gravesend avenue and also with the Brighton Beach division of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system. The New York Consolidated Railroad Company will operate the new line in accordance with the Dual System lease, which provides for sharing profits with the City, and will use large all-steel cars, especially ordered for the new system.

Tuesday, June 22, the Public Service Commission placed in operation the Queens subway line between Manhattan and Queens. This line runs from 42d street, between Lexington and Third avenues, Manhattan, under the East River to Jackson and Van Alst avenues, Long Island City. Under the Dual System contracts the title to the tunnel was transferred to the city, and it will be operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company with free transfers to and from the existing subway. The opening ceremonies were held at 11 o'clock, and the permanent operation for the general traffic began at noon.

Brooklyn Brokers' Ball Game.

The Brooklyn Real Estate Brokers Baseball Club will play the team of the Lawyers Title & Trust Company this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at R. E. B. Field, Ocean Parkway and Avenue S. The battery for the brokers will be Edward Limberg and Frank S. Murty. Other members of the team are William Halpin, Joseph Catherine and William Magee, outfielders, and George H. Gray, George Smith, Charles E. Warren and Jeremiah Dee, infielders. Mr. Gray, who is chairman of the Athletic Committee of the Board, is manager of the team, which has games scheduled for every Saturday until the middle of September.

Subway Lots At Auction.

Interesting among the coming auction sales is the offering of 121 lots along the dual subway system. The sale will be held on Wednesday, June 30th, at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 189 Montague street, by the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company. The property has frontages on Cortlyou Road (Avenue D), Gravesend avenue, 2d, 3d, 4th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th streets; also on Avenue M, Avenue S, Avenue Q and West street.

Included in the terms of sale is the stipulation that on all purchases involving $1,000 or over, 60 per cent. may remain on mortgage. The lots will be sold singly or in pairs, with the privilege of contiguous lots of the same character.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

Washington Heights District.

The local board has adopted a resolution favorable to the following named improvements:

Regulating and paving with a permanent sheet asphalt pavement on concrete foundation, curbing and recurbing 212th street from the Harlem River to the easterly side of 10th avenue. Estimated cost $11,283. Assessed valuation of property, $126,600. The subsurface structures have all been provided with the exception of a portion of the gas main. The petitioner for this improvement is the Estate of William Nelson, which recently leased certain property on the north side of 212th street to the White Coal Company. The petitioner claims that the street in its present condition is unfit for cartage or heavy traffic of any kind.

New Paving in Manhattan.

The following pavements have been ordered:

Sheet Asphalt.—38th street, from west side of Park avenue to east side of Madison avenue; West End avenue, from south side of 91st street to south side of 96th street; 95th street from west side of Broadway to West End avenue; 62d street, from west side of Columbus avenue to east side of Amsterdam avenue.

Granite Block.—Amsterdam avenue, from north side of 63d street to south side of 68th street; 36th street, from west side of Tenth avenue to east side of Eleventh avenue.

AN INDUSTRIAL SURVEY.

The Bronx Board of Trade Is Making One—Advantages of the Port Morris Section.

While in past years the development of the Borough of the Bronx has been mainly of a residential nature, the borough has been the recipient of many large industrial plants that were forced out of Manhattan, owing to the overcrowded conditions existing in that borough. While the Bronx is not generally considered as an industrial borough, it has nearly 2,000 factories and shops employing almost 40,000 workers.

During the past year the borough has witnessed a complete change in its attitude towards this very necessary phase of its development, due mainly to the successful educational campaign which has been conducted by the Bronx Board of Trade, during this period for a systematic crusade for new industries. This propaganda has borne fruit in the formation of a complete industrial bureau in the Board of Trade, under an experienced manager, whose sole effort will be in securing new industrial plants for the Bronx.

In order that this may be accomplished, the bureau is now conducting an industrial survey of the many virgin industrial sections in the borough. According to the present survey records in the hands of the Bronx Board of Trade, all facts seem to show that of all the territory in the Greater New York area, that section known as Port Morris in the Borough of the Bronx, possesses unusual advantages, and a peculiar adaptability to industrial development.

This section is already a veritable beehive of industrial activity, but much unoccupied land, with rail and water facilities, is now available at surprisingly low cost, when consideration is given to the advantages here set forth, and it does not seem possible that any land will long remain idle in this rapidly growing manufacturing zone.

One of the factors in the development of this section will be the second Barge Canal terminal at the foot of East 138th street. One of the advantages of the section lies in the fact that while the land values are reasonable, the water and rail facilities are exceptionally good, that the adjacent, and in fact surrounding territories where now live thousands of workers who go to Manhattan to earn their living are available to the manufacturer who locates within this zone.

John F. Steeves, President of Church E. Gates & Company, whose large lumber yards are situated on the East River, at 150th street, said: "That part of the Bronx from Bronx Kills to Hunts Point is better adapted to commercial enterprises than any other part of New York City. The terminals of all the railroads are convenient here. A marginal railway will soon be built. The value of real estate is low as compared with equal advantages in any part of the city. The depth of water on the waterfront is sufficient to accommodate the largest ships that cross the ocean, and it is a connecting link of the inland waterways systems."

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE real estate market took on a brighter aspect this week, and continued the improvement which started some weeks ago. The budget of sales included a number of large deals, which, in themselves, are important, not only from the standpoint of the sale, but also because the parcels will be improved with modern structures, catering to the wants of the tenants and the large investor.

Mortgage money is easier than for a long time, but institutions still demand to "be shown." They are not in a position to take on "wild-cat" propositions, having learned their lesson by heart, through their experiences before and after the commencement of the war. However, where there seems to be a legitimate demand for structures of given character, loans are obtainable, at rates which should afford a profit to the constructors.

The Park avenue section was again well in evidence, continuing in the same prominence as during the past few weeks. The most important deal of the week was the leasing, by a newly formed company, headed by a well-known operator, of the block front on the west side of Park avenue, between 55th and 56th streets, 200x66.8. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years, with renewal privileges, the aggregate rental for the first period being approximately $1,000,000. As near as can be estimated, the rental for the entire term will be about $4,000,000. On the site will be erected a seventeen-story apartment house, equalling in height the tallest structure of this character in the city. Work will be commenced about August 1, and it is hoped to have the building ready for occupancy by December 1, 1916.

The erection of a building of this size is only possible on account of the insistant demand for expensive suites, and following the recently announced operation, at Fifth avenue and 72d street, brings added significance to the undertaking. It was held some time ago that Park avenue was in an overbuilt condition, and at one time there was a large number of vacancies along that thoroughfare. But that was before the possibilities of the section were fully realized by the residential community, and today there are only a small percentage of vacancies in the section. Rentals have been maintained, though only in structures which have been kept up-to-date and are conservatively managed.

Tenants in this section occupy their apartments only about seven months in the year, and spend the remainder of the time out of town. Having an apartment does away with much of the inconvenience of a private dwelling, though all the advantages of keeping house are to be had.

Another firm of operators closed a deal involving three lots on Park avenue, with an "L" in 63d street, which will be improved with a thirteen-story apartment house, estimated to cost about $400,000. The property adjoins the new Colony Club building. Several rumors of other deals on the avenue were current during the week, though it is understood that the final details have not been completed.

In East 81st street, near Park avenue, an investor purchased three dwellings, adjoining his own residence, and the announcement is made that the entire plot, 80x102.2, will be improved with a nine-story apartment house. The property is directly in the rear of the plot recently acquired by an operator, who will similarly improve his holding.

Columbus avenue, which has been inactive for some time, came into prominence again through the sale of the "Del Monte" apartment house, 127.8x100, at the southwest corner of 75th street. Tenth street property was given in part payment. The Dyckman, Greenwich village and Tremont sections also came in for their share of the activity.

In the lower Madison avenue district a building concern acquired an old dwelling, completing the assembling of a plot 75x100, which will be improved with a tall mercantile structure. It is understood that the operation, including the cost of the land, will aggregate about $900,000.

Announcement was made of the leasing of the old Gilsey House property, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 29th street, to a concern which will occupy the entire premises, with the exception of the store at the immediate corner, now tenanted by a railroad company. The property is improved with an eight-story structure, 64.7x148.7, and is now occupied by a firm which will move next spring. The rental in the present deal is said to approximate about $1,000,000.

In addition to the foregoing transactions, there were a number of others which are important, as well as those of minor interest. There seems to be a scarcity of small buyers, but this is partly accountable by the success of several of the recently held auction sales.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 21, as against 17 last week and 27 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 10, as compared with 8 last week and 12 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 11, as compared with 9 last week and 15 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 128, as against 112 last week, 15 having stated considerations totaling $334,150. Mortgages recorded this week numbered 66, involving $1,444,210, as against 84 last week, totaling $3,714,272.

From the Bronx, 11 sales at private contract were recorded, as against 10 last week, and 14 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $505,875, compared with $1,496,140 last week, making a total for the year of $39,594,663. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $1,602,050, and the total from January 1, 1914, to June 27, 1914, was $22,032,575.

Large Baldwin Harbor Sale.

Boston capitalists have bought from the Baldwin Harbor Realty Company a tract of 475 lots at Baldwin Harbor, in southern Nassau county. The property purchased commands an unobstructed view of Hempstead Bay, of which Baldwin Harbor is an adjunct, and it is provided with all municipal improvements.

Plans are being prepared by Arthur C. Jackson for the construction of numerous bungalows on plots of from two to seven lots each. The primary type of bungalow forming this extensive improvement is the kind prevalent in California except that the ones at Baldwin Harbor will be built to meet the difference in climatic conditions between Long Island and the Pacific slope. In order to meet the building situation at Baldwin Harbor the Baldwin Water Company is laying seven thousand feet additional of water mains, while the Nassau and Suffolk Lighting Company is installing more than two miles additional of gas mains. During the last two years 150 houses have been built and occupied at Baldwin Harbor by newcomers and their families.

Apartment Near Colony Club.

Bing & Bing have purchased from the estate of Richard T. Wilson, the three old five-story buildings at 568, 572 and 574 Park avenue with an L to 54 East 63d street. The plot measures 75 feet on Park avenue, 49.6 in 63d street, with a depth of 100 feet, and does not include the immediate southwest corner, 25.5x56.6. The buyers contemplate the erection of a thirteen-story apartment house from plans by Emory Roth, at an estimated cost of $400,000. It will adjoin the new home of the Colony Club at the northwest corner of Park avenue and 62d street. The brokers were Pease & Elliman.

Rumored Park Avenue Deal.

The incorporation of the Park Avenue Improvement Company this week by Harry Fischel, David Kraus and Herbert S. Goldstein led to a report that a new project was under way, involving another addition to the Park avenue apartment house colony. Nothing could be learned regarding the contemplated site. Inquiry at Mr. Fischel's office elicited the reply that no information could at present be given out. According to rumor, however, the plot involved belongs to the New York Central Railroad Company, and takes in the block front on the west side of Park avenue, from 50th to 51st streets, with frontages in both streets.

Tremont-Greenwich Village Exchange.

The John W. Cornish Company sold to Joseph Laemmle the two five-story apartment houses at 801 to 805 Tremont avenue at the northwest corner of Mapes avenue, on a plot 92.6x100 feet, which has been held at $60,000. For this property, the buyer gave in addition to cash, the southwest corner of Bleecker and Hancock streets, two and three-story buildings on a lot 25x98. Alfred D. Sanna was the broker and Adolph and Henry Bloch represented the seller as attorneys. The Tremont avenue houses are two of a group of eight recently built by the selling company at this point, six of which have already been sold. The Cornish Company resold the Bleecker street property later in the week to Rinelli & Guardini.

Round Out Building Site.

The George Backer Realty Company and Arnstein & Levy purchased from the Mona Specialty Company, the old dwelling at 99 Madison avenue, on plot 37.6x78, at the northeast corner of 29th street. The same buyers acquired some time ago from the Drexel estate, adjoining property at 103 Madison avenue and 25 East 29th street and now control a site 75x100, which is to be improved with a tall commercial building. The entire investment will represent an outlay of close to $900,000.

Apartment in $550,000 Exchange.

S. Morrill Banner has sold to Henry Dazian, the theatrical costumer, the "Del Monte," a six-story apartment house, at the southwest corner of Columbus avenue and 75th street, on plot 127.8x100, which has been in the ownership of the seller for about twenty-five years, and is said to have been held at about $400,000. In part payment the buyer gave the vacant plot 59-67 West 10th street, 95x94.10. The deal involved about $550,000 and was negotiated by the Hall-Berwin Corporation.

New East Side Apartment.

Bernhard Feifer, a cigar manufacturer, has acquired through O'Reilly & Dahn, from the Gerson Hyman estate, Theresa M. Lippman and Frederick W. Longfellow, the three dwellings, 111, 113 and 115 East 81st street, which, with Mr. Feifer's residence at 109, forms a plot 80x102.2. A nine-story apartment house is to be erected, construction to commence in November. Several weeks ago, Samuel A. Herzog acquired a site, 71.6x102.2 feet, at 110-114 East 82d street, directly in the rear of the houses just sold, for a similar improvement.

Vacant Dyckman Plot Sold.

Nathan Wilson has purchased from the City Investing Company, a plot of about seven lots, fronting 85 feet in the north side of West 212th street, 100 feet east of Tenth avenue, and extending through the block 200 feet to 213th street, where there is a frontage of 85 feet. Two five-story apartment houses will be erected in each street. The broker was John N. Golding.

LEASES.

$4,000,000 Park Avenue Lease.

The newly formed 420 Park Avenue Company, headed by S. Fullerton Weaver, has leased from the New York Central Railroad Company, the block front on the west side of Park avenue, between 55th and 56th streets, fronting 200 feet on the avenue and 66.8 feet in each street. The rental for the first period of 21 years will exceed $1,000,000 and with the renewal privileges, the total rental will aggregate nearly $4,000,000. Warren & Wetmore are preparing plans for a seventeen-story apartment house to be erected on the site at an estimated cost of $1,600,000. Stoddard & Marks, attorneys, represented Mr. Weaver in the transaction. It is reported that New York Central interests will finance the operation with a building loan. The character of this improvement, involving such a large outlay of capital and such a high-class property, gives it a leading rank among the projects of the year, and makes it one of the most important transactions ever closed on Park avenue. The present site is covered with a row of eleven old structures which are to be demolishhed in August and it is expected to have the building ready for occupancy by December, 1916. Douglas L. Elliman & Company will act as agents and it is said that renting plans will be available in several weeks. S. Fullerton Weaver has been prominently identified with large operations in that neighborhood and in others of a similar character for many years. He is just completing a costly apartment house at the northwest corner of Park avenue and 54th street, which also was leased for a long term from the New York Central Railroad.

Another 5-and-10-Cent Store.

The F. W. Woolworth Company, operating a chain of five-and-ten-cent stores throughout the United States, leased through Wm. A. White & Sons, the two stores occupying the entire ground floor of the Hays Building at 21-23 Maiden Lane, and, after extensive alterations, will open a store at that address. Wm. A. White & Sons state that an accurate count was made of the number of people passing this store on a given day, and it was found that approximately 20,000 people actually passed the doors between the hours of 8 in the morning and 6 at night, with almost as many people on the south side of the street, and considering the fact that these stores are close to the corner of Nassau street and opposite Liberty place and in plain view of all pedestrians on Liberty street passing this point, it is estimated that not less than 100,000 people actually pass within sight of the new store. These premises were formerly occupied for many years by the Gorham Company, and later have been rented to lines of busines allied with the jewelry trade.

New Gilsey House Deal.

Samstag & Hilder Brothers, importers now on Broadway near Prince street, have leased from R. R. Fogel, the one-time Gilsey House property, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 29th street, an eight-story structure, on plot 64.7x148.7. The lessees will occupy the entire structure with the exception of the small corner store, tenanted by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company. The building is now tenanted by the Krower & Tynberg Company, which will move out next spring. The old Gilsey House fell before the advance of business in 1912, when the present occupants took possession. Previously, it had been for many years a famous hostelry, having been built in 1870. The land was bought by Mr. Fogel in 1909 at a reported price of $1,500,000. The rental in the present deal approximates $1,000,000. The broker was Harry Goodstein.

Spalding Firm to Move.

A. G. Spalding & Company have leased, through Clark T. Chambers, from Esther Reinheimer, represented by William R. Rose as attorney, the six-story building, 523 Fifth avenue, on plot 31.10 x105, which, with the Temple Emanu-El and the Harriman National Bank, occupies the entire block front between 43d and 44th streets. The aggregate rental amounts to about $600,000. Extensive alterations, including a new front, are contemplated, and the lessees will take possession next February.

Queens Industrial Addition.

Kozak & McLoughlin, manufacturers of women's shoes, have leased from Frederick Ayer, through the Cross & Brown Company and Daniel Birdsall & Company, a four-story factory building to be erected on a 10,000 square foot plot at the northwest corner of Governor place and 14th street, Long Island City. APPEAL 247 of 1915, Alteration 205 of 1915, 867-869 Longwood avenue, The Bronx. J. M. Felson, appellant.

1. Courts as altered do not comply with requirements of Article 25 of Building Code (former Section 109).

2. Space in rear of seats does not comply with requirements of Article 25.

1. The rear court is unnecessary in this building as there is no stage and building is provided with sufficient exits on both sides. The seating capacity is only increased 166 seats, making a total of 766 seats, all being on the one floor.

2. There will be a clear space of 10' at rear of seats and no stairs leading to a balcony which would decrease the width at the rear of seats and that the present exits at rear will be increased.

1. Is the rear court necessary in a theatre with all seats on one floor and not having a stage?

2. Is it necessary to have more than 10' at rear of seats when there are no stairs or other obstruction leading to other parts of the building, and where there will be no standing room?

That the theatre at present seating 600 cannot be a profitable investment as the building and land is too costly for the location and unless the seating capacity is increased, which can only be done by taking away the unnecessary rear court, this building will continue to be a loss as it has been for the past two years.

Appearance: J. M. Felson.

On motion, following request by appellant, entered on the record as WITHDRAWN.

APPEAL 248 of 1915, New Building 3832 of 1915, 36 Bartlett street, Brooklyn. Shampan & Shapan, appellants.

1. Provide fore and aft brick partition walls.

1. In view of the fact that clear spans are not over 26 ft. and floor beams will be supported on steel girders and columns, ask that this condition be accepted.

1. Omit fore and aft brick partition walls and provide girders and columns in lieu of same.

1. As the clear spans between bearing is not over 26 ft., and steel columns and girders will be provided to support floor beams, request that this condition be accepted.

2. In view of the fact that all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs and walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Bureau of Buildings, also as an unpierced brick wall at least 8" thick will be provided from cellar floor to top of roofboards and front and rear portions of cellar will be divided with F. P. S. C. doors.

Appearance: Gilbert I. Prowler.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the enclosures of the vestibules in the several floors be built of six-inch terra cotta blocks supported by steel framing fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

APPEAL 249 of 1915, New Building 3786 of 1915, 170 East 55th street, Brooklyn. S. Millman & Son, appellants.

Construction does not comply with Section 31 of Building Code.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

To allow the floor beams to rest on cross girders span not over 25' 6" and to omit the construction of brick partition walls.

1. Section 31 of Code does not prevent the use of steel girders for the support of floor beams.

2. An unpierced brick wall 8" thick to be provided of the building from cellar to roof.

3. S. C. F. P. D. provided in the cellar at the same place.

4. That all girders and columns supporting floors and roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: James J. Millman.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the eight-inch cross-wall shown on plans shall extend from the cellar floor to the underside of the roof-boards.

APPEAL 250 of 1915, Alteration 1253 of 1915, 480 Lexington avenue, Manhattan. Charles E. Spratt, appellant.

3. Motion picture theatre with seating accommodations in excess of 600 must conform to the following sections in Art. 25 of the Code: Sections 522, 527 (Par. 1 and 5), 528, 531, 532, 534 (Par. 1 and 2), 535, 536.

It is claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the said Borough or the provisions of law or ordinances do not apply.

Sections 520 to 538 of the Building Code should not apply to a picture house. We desire to use building as shown on plan, without entirely reconstructing to meet the requirements of Sections 520 to 538 under Superintendent's ruling.

We are not going to conduct any theatrical performances, nor have any stage or scenery. We desire to conduct a motion picture show, with seating capacity of 2,000, and as Moving Picture Ordinance permits of seating capacity of only 600, we were compelled to file with Commissioner of Licenses an application for theatrical license. Grand Central Palace is an absolutely fireproof building extending from 46th to 47th streets, Lexington avenue to Depew place, and the fact that the largest trade exhibitions in New York, such as the Automobile Show, Electrical Exhibition, etc., which attract thousands daily, are held in this building, demonstrate the fact that large crowds can be handled with absolute safety.

State, County and City of New York } ss:

Charles E. Spratt being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the vice-president and general manager of the Merchants and Manufacturers Exchange of New York, a corporation controlling under lease property known as the Grand Central Palace, Lexington avenue to Depew place, 46th to 47th streets.

That the duties and powers conferred upon him enable him to control the operation of exhibitions held on the premises.

That the application for alteration made this date applies only to the seating arrangements, construction of booths, screens and other equipment necessary, for the showing of moving picture on the first or main floor of the building.

That whereas the ordinance requires that application be made for theatrical license, it is not intended to conduct anything in the nature of theatrical or vaudeville performances, or entertainments of any character or nature excepting the showing of moving pictures upon the three separate screens.

That the application for license to be made to the proper departments after the approval of these alterations is obtained under the restriction and condition that it is to be used for the conducting of a moving picture show only, without any stage or scenery.

That all the seating facilities shall be upon the ground floor, the galleries not being used, excepting for the location of one booth for projecting machine.

That each of the three booths used shall be of standard approved fireproof construction, steel and asbestos.

Sworn to before me this 28th day of May, 1915.

Notary Public, Kings County.

APPEAL 250. Appearance: Charles E. Spratt.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that (1) all seats within the area marked "A" on the auditorium floor plan be securely fastened to the floor; (2) that no seats or tables be permitted elsewhere on the auditorium floor or gallery, excepting within the area marked "B"; (3) that the openings between upper part of the auditorium and the floor above be closed with panels of two thicknesses of asbestos board, each not less than one-quarter inch (¼") thick, or with wireglass in metal frames; (4) that the coverings of the ramps leading to Depew place be removed while the auditorium is occupied; (5) that the attendance be limited to eighteen hundred (1,800); and (6) that there be permitted nothing in the nature of theatrical or vaudeville performances, or entertainments of any character or nature, excepting the showing of moving pictures upon the three seperate screens.

APPEAL 251 of 1915, New Buildings 2849 and 2850 of 1915, 31st street and Fourth avenue, Brooklyn. Edward Hahn, appellant.

Section 31 of Code—Omission of fore and aft partition walls and equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed.

Is the mode of construction indicated on plans, viz., steel girders and columns in place of fore and aft partition walls equally as good? It is intended also that all steel will be fireproofed as required by the Building Department. Plans indicate also that the floors are divided into two areas separated by brick walls which extend from cellar bottom to underside of roof-beams, and are unpierced except in cellar of inside house where a self-closing fireproof door will connect front and rear cellar. Plans have been amended in the Bureau of Buildings showing brick division walls in all stories.

That in these buildings fore and aft partition walls would seriously interfere with the layout of rooms and put the owner to considerable needless expense.

Appearance: Edward Hahn.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the brick cross-walls shown shall extend to the underside of the roof-boards, and that all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

APPEAL 252 of 1915, New Building 3847 of 1915, 390-394 Christopher avenue, Brooklyn. Edward M. Adelsohn, appellant.

Violation of Section 31 of Code as to brick fore and aft partition walls.

An equally good and more desirable form of construction can be employed. And it being claimed that the rules and regulations of the President of the Borough, or the provisions of law, or ordinances do not apply.

Whether it is necessary to have fore and aft brick walls when the distance between the main bearing walls is not over 26'.

The walls forming the structure conforms to the Building Code in that the bearing walls are not over 26 feet apart. Also a brick wall at the stair hall separates the building into small areas, and it is proposed that all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Appearance: Edward M. Adelsohn.

On motion, APPROVED on the following CONDITIONS:

1st: That self-closing fireproof doors be provided in cellar at points marked "A."

2d: That an unpierced brick wall at least eight inches thick be built at point marked "B" on the first floor plan, to extend from the cellar floor to the underside of the ceiling of the first floor.

3d: That the floor over the spaces marked "C" on the first floor plan be made fireproof.

APPEAL 253 of 1915, New Building 3911 of 1915, 20-22 Maujer street, Brooklyn. Farber & Markwitz, appellants.

Omission of fore and aft brick partition walls as per Section 31.

Rules and regulations of the President of Borough of Brooklyn and Section 31 of the Building Code do not apply.

Necessity of providing fore and aft brick partition walls.

In no case does the span between bearings exceed 26'. Note 8" brick transverse wall dividing building into areas. Note all columns and girders supporting floors, roofs and walls to be fireproofed in accordance with the requirements of the Building Bureau.

Appearance: A. Markwitz.

On motion, APPROVED on CONDITION that the cross-walls shown on plans shall extend to the underside of the roof-boards.

APPEAL 254 of 1915, New Building 3924 of 1915, 37-43 Clarkson street, Brooklyn. W. T. McCarthy, appellant.

Comply with Section 31 of Code.

The floors are divided into areas of 2,000 square feet or less by unpierced brick fire walls not less than 8" thick, extending from the cellar to the underside of the roof-boards, except where F. P. S. C. doors are shown in the cellar. All columns and girders supporting floors, roofs or walls will be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Bureau of Buildings.

Whether or not the unpierced fire walls with all columns and girders fireproofed as previously stated will be permitted, also whether or not the 8" brick walls shown on plans where the distance between the outside walls exceeds 33' will be permitted.

To save space and expense as the construction proposed is equally as good as could be obtained by following the letter of the Code.

On motion, APPROVED.

REPORT OF FIRE COMMISSIONER ADAMSON

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

FIRE prevention plays an important part in Fire Commissioner Adamson's annual report this year. The annual fire waste of the United States is graphically illustrated by a photograph of a model which the Fire Department built and which is now being shown at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. This model is nine feet long by four feet high and represents a double line of buildings stretching from New York to Chicago across the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. All these buildings are shown (by means of illuminated tinsel) to be on fire, and the conflagration is described as follows:

"The buildings consumed, if placed on lots of 65-foot frontage, would line both sides of a street extending from New York to Chicago. A person journeying along this street of desolation would pass in every thousand feet a ruin from which an injured person was taken. At every three-quarters of a mile in this journey he would encounter the charred remains of a human being who had been burned to death."

Examining Deadly Bombs.

It will be news to many New Yorkers that the Fire Prevention Bureau has the unpleasant privilege of examining all the deadly bombs found in New York. Last year the Bureau of Fire Prevention, through its Division of Combustibles inspected and analyzed 141 Black Hand bombs.

Commissioner Adamson's report says in this connection: "Bombs have been placed about the city indiscriminately—in churches, stores, tenement houses, banks, private residences, and even in the Tombs Police Court. The most serious explosion during 1914 was that of the morning of July 4, at 103rd Street and Lexington avenue, Manhattan. Four persons lost their lives. The explosion took place in a tenement house in the apartment of Arthur Caron, one of the victims. This explosion resulted in the total wrecking of the building. The disaster occurred about 11 o'clock in the morning. Had it happened at night, when the place was fully occupied, the loss of life might have been enormous."

Use of Explosives.

Another little known but important activity of the Fire Prevention Bureau is the problem of safeguarding the use of explosives throughout the city. Increased quantities of dynamite are now being used in various construction works, subways, etc. Great difficulties have beset the Fire Commissioner in this matter and increased responsibility attached to the Department in seeing to it that the explosives are not only handled properly but that they are stored in safe places. The Fire Department report says in reference to this subject:

"In the Aqueduct Tunnel the various operating shafts were located with seemingly no consideration to the question of just how the large quantity of dynamite necessary to be used daily at each shaft could be best protected from accidental explosion, or to the equally important question of designating so far as engineering conditions would permit, the location of the shafts themselves where such accidental explosion would work the least havoc to human life.

"The Fire Commissioner was not consulted regarding the location of shafts on the subway work. It is perhaps not stating it too strongly to say that in locating the working shafts of the subway, the number and location of magazines, and the delivery and care of necessary explosives should not only have been coincidentally considered, but considered in conference with the officer charged by law with the responsibility of seeing that such explosives are used with the least possible hazard; to wit, the Fire Commissioner. But this was not done. As a result, the problem of safeguarding the storage and handling of dynamite on the subway work is rendered more difficult."

Chief Hammitt describes in detail the operation of the Fire Prevention Bureau. He shows that the Fire Prevention Bureau has jurisdiction in 275,533 buildings. More than 49,000 of these buildings in Greater New York are hotels, theatres, factories, schools, warehouses, lofts, etc., while 225,918 are one and two-family houses.

Increase in Orders Issued.

Chief Hammitt points out the progress in Fire Prevention Bureau work over the previous year, stating that there was an increase of more than 29 per cent. of orders issued, and an increase of more than 58 per cent. of orders complied with during the year. The number of orders issued by the Fire Prevention Bureau last year was 25,653; the number of orders complied with 18,010.

A section of Chief Hammitt's report is devoted to tenement house fires and lodging house conditions. He shows that most of the loss of life in tenement house fires occurs in "Old Law" tenements. He regards "Old Law" tenements as a serious hazard and states that there are 78,371 of them in Greater New York. These "Old Law" tenements represent more than 20 per cent. of the total buildings in the city. There were 12,011 fires in buildings in Greater New York during 1914, and out of this number 6,781 occurred in tenements, mostly of the "Old Law" type.

Chief Hammitt shows that every lodging house has been inspected and orders have been issued and mostly complied with, remedying serious fire hazards in these places.

The 1151 theatres and moving picture houses and the 891 dance halls have also received careful attention from the Fire Prevention Bureau.

Warnings Sent Out.

Attention is drawn in the report to the large amount of literature in the form of "Don'ts and Warnings for Fire Prevention" distributed during last year. Upwards of 100,000 copies of the "Don'ts" were circulated through various associations, public schools and civic societies.

The educational campaign last year consisted of teaching of fire prevention lessons in the schools, observance of Fire Prevention Day by a Departmental Parade of apparatus and the distribution of signs throughout the city reading: "This is Fire Prevention Day. Clean up Rubbish. Robert Adamson," the giving of lectures, exhibitions of motion picture films, and the enlistment of the co-operation of various merchants, department stores, railway companies, and exhibitions of fire prevention work.

"Boosting New York."

There is in process of formation a new association having as its avowed purpose the "Boosting of New York." The association as yet has neither name nor headquarters, but the following circular gives its objects:

"The purpose of this association is to promote value, help to retain population, and to recruit this with a class who may be favorable as citizens, to use effort through the Board of Estimate, aldermen or others having jurisdiction to arrange, revise, reform, modify and perfect such rules, regulations and conditions under the respective control of such body, or our courts, or legislature, if not at present 'all to the good,' of Manhattan Borough and Bronx county (these constituting old New York) which we allege has been impoverished of its natural inherent rights, and still is being so treated by the other boroughs of Greater New York (one might even include New Jersey and outer Long Island), large in money outlay toward the development of the other boroughs, while the deprivation, instead of gain, is really felt in old New York.

"New York City should do a little 'self-boosting' on its own account, and the intent of the undersigned is to help to that end, to what extent each signer may do. There are no dues, and the formation of any regular association with officers may or may not follow. No politics is carried with this idea, further than with the right selection of any man or men, irrespective of the parties (with which emblem they run) who will prove unprejudicial to the interests above solicited, such person shall be entitled to our vote. To sum up, this society is to be 'New York for New Yorkers.' 'Home rule' is sought at this date from Albany. We purpose to seek for it, closer by, as well."

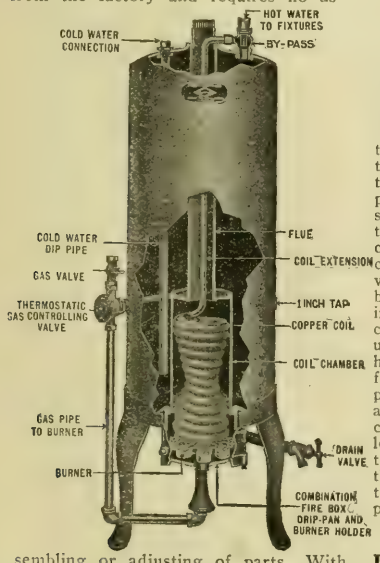
USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.

The Three-Coil Heater.



THREE copper coils, brazed to heavy brass manifolds, tapped for 1-inch pipe connections, feature this heater. The coils are held rigidly and securely in position by lock nuts and an extra high power star burner gives it unusual heating capacity. This heater is built for service where a large quantity of water is required and is adapted for large dwellings, apartments, etc. It has a hinged door, half of jacket, which permits easy cleaning. The drip pan is cast with base in one piece and is ordinarily connected to a 50 or 60-gallon range boiler.

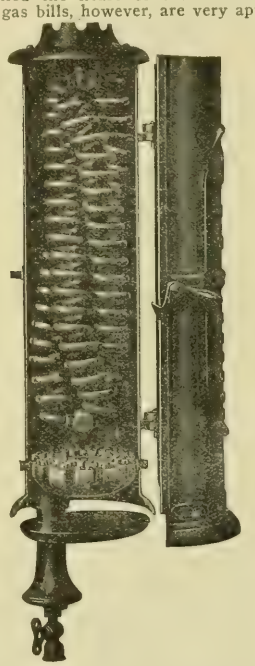
Combination Range and Gas Heater.

COMBINING the range boiler and gas heater in one complete construction is the keynote of the heater shown herewith. It is a plumbing fixture thoroughly mechanical in design and reliable in construction. It is complete, ready for installation when shipped from the factory and requires no assembling or adjusting of parts. With connection being made to gas and water lines the heater is ready for immediate use.



A copper tube coil of considerable length forms the direct heating surface and heats by circulation, having connection at top and bottom of boiler. The copper tube permits instant absorption of the heat by the water and in its passage through the coils and upward in the riser, which is a continuation of the tube, all the while being surrounded by the hot gases, it enters the top of boiler highly heated. The coil chamber and flue afford considerable additional heating surface, and impart to the water a large percentage of the heat. In the independent heater all this heat is lost by radiation and direct escape from flue.

The thermo-valve automatically regulates the gas. It may be set for any predetermined temperature within the scope of domestic hot water requirements and it prevents overheating, and insures constant hot water by allowing a full flow of gas as long as the temperature of the boiler is below the point desired.

This heater is made in sizes, from 12 to 40-gallon capacity and meets all demands of domestic hot water requirements.

"The Heart of the Household."

ASSUMING that the hot water heater is the source of much comfort and convenience in a home, it might readily be called the heart of the household. High gas bills, however, are very apt to take the heart out of the household, so the manufacturers of this device have taken particular pains to give the highest possible efficiency for the lowest possible gas consumption. The heater contains four heavy copper coils and is so constructed that the hot gases strike the coils many times before going out the vent pipe. It is almost instantaneous, but is much more economical than the instantaneous type. The coils can be cleaned easily by opening the door and using a stiff brush. The shell is of heavy iron, and made in four parts—top, front, door, back half and burner. These parts are easily and quickly assembled and are interchangeable. This heater contains four copper coils each 8 feet long, making 32 feet in all. One-quarter turn of the coils baffles the flame, and thus utilizes a maximum percentage of the heat. This turn of the coils also prevents backdrafts.

High Efficiency Water Heaters.

HIGH efficiency in water heating is the aim of the manufacturers of this device and at the same time the gas consumption and initial cost is reduced to the lowest possible level commensurate with high grade workmanship. The cut shown indicates the general plan of this heater, which is made by a local manufacturer. The heaters are encased in cast-iron or cast-brass with double copper coil heaters and a small coil and tank. The company also makes a small coil-and-tank type for places requiring from five to ten gallons of hot water.

All connections are vertical, thus minimizing installation costs, assisting circulation and reducing strain on the connections. The coil is of the finest quality, ¾-inch seamless copper, warranted to give long and efficient service. The interior construction makes every part readily accessible. Lift-out burner; neatly finished cast iron jacket; lower portion insulated around burner are a few of its features. Practical tests have demonstrated that when used with carefully constructed appliances, gas is the cheapest of all domestic fuels. It follows that the more efficient the appliance the less the gas consumption, and therefore the greater the saving. Its construction is unquestionably very practical.

New Features in this Heater.

CONSIDERABLE stress is laid by the manufacturers of this heater upon ten distinctive features all of which are covered by patents. The water valve is so constructed that it cannot bind or stick and will operate perfectly on a much lower water pressure than any other.

The hydro-carbon burners are non-corrosive, and will not burn out, and give an efficiency of 85 per cent in the heater. They have adjustable air shutters in the bottom of the jacket for regulating the mixture of air and gas to secure perfect combustion.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

New Mercantile Structures Projected for Murray Street and Midtown Broadway—Dwelling for Charles M. Clark

FOUNDATIONS are now being installed for a modern reinforced concrete store and loft building which, though not of great size, is interesting on account of the strict regard to detail and equipment to be shown in its construction.

This new structure is located at 69 Murray street, replacing a building recently completely destroyed by fire. It is in a neighborhood where structures of reinforced concrete are still a rarity, the majority of buildings being of the type erected many years ago. The owner of this property is the French church, du Saint Esprit, 45 East 27th street, and, when completed, the building will be occupied by the Griffen Manufacturing Company, which was the lessee of the destroyed building.

C. B. Brun, Archt.
NO. 69 MURRAY STREET.

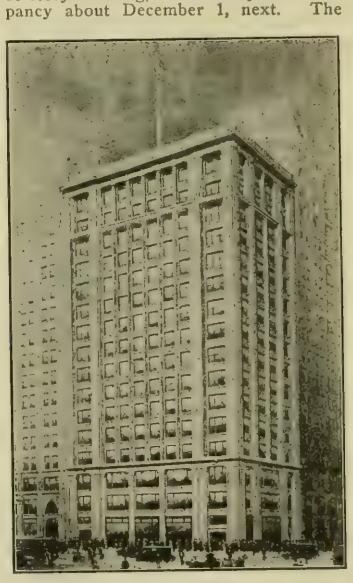
Clement B. Brun, architect, 405 Lexington avenue, prepared the plans and specifications from which this building is being erected. The work is being done under a general contract awarded to G. C. Flygare, 405 Lexington avenue. Mr. Flygare has had a wide experience in work of this character.



Practically covering a lot 25x100 feet, this building will rise to a height of eight stories. Its height from curb to cornice will be 100 feet. The first or store floor will have a ceiling height of 16 feet, and heights in the floors above will be 12 feet. Construction throughout will be absolutely fireproof. No wood or other inflammable material will be employed.

Fire prevention and safety devices of the latest approved designs will be included as part of the equipment of this structure. The building plans provide for a smoke-proof fire tower, and the main stairway is completely enclosed and protected by self-closing doors. A sprinkler system of 100 per cent. efficiency will be installed in addition to a standpipe system, and an electric fire alarm signal system will have outlets on all floors to warn employees of possible danger. The sprinkler and standpipe systems are included in the contract which has been awarded to Lasette & Murphy, for the plumbing and heating installations.

One combination electric freight and passenger elevator, which will also be equipped with the latest safety devices and fool-proof operating mechanism, will be installed. The building will cost about $60,000, exclusive of the value of the land.

Lofts for Broadway.

FOLLOWING the recently announced sale of the old Hoffman House property at the northwest corner of Broadway and 24th street, which site will be improved with a modern mercantile structure, the erection of a similar building, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 26th street, is of added interest. Maynicke & Franke, architects, 25 Madison Square North, were recently commissioned by Frederick Ayer, of Boston, Mass., to prepare designs for a 16-story building, to be ready for occupancy about December 1, next. The building, which will have as its renting agent, Frank Lord, of Daniel Birdsall & Co., is not built for speculation, but will be held as a permanent investment. The property has a frontage on Broadway of 105 feet, the other lines being of varying lengths.

Many interesting features will be installed in this latest link to the chain of modern loft buildings in the section, not the least of which is that the window jambs have been made on the bevel, so as to obstruct little or no light. One-half of the roof is devoted to a large room for the free use of the employees of the various tenants. This room is connected with the roof by doors, so that the entire roof space will be a convenient recreation retreat for those employed in the structure. This is one of the first buildings of its type to have such an arrangement since Borough President Marks commenced to advocate recreation spaces for workers.

An ingenious arrangement of duplicate stairs, scissor fashion, has been planned so that two staircases are in one shaft, with two separate entrances to each loft, thereby saving floor space. The cost of the improvement has been placed at $800,000. Pattison Brothers, 1182 Broadway, are the steam and electrical engineers.

The following firms have been awarded the sub-contracts to date: Hartman Wrecking Company, 198 Broadway, razing; Hay Foundry & Iron Works, 15 Madison Square North, structural steel; Charles A. Cowen & Co., 1133 Broadway, mason work; Peter Neary & Son Company, 335 East 46th street, granite; A. B. See Elevator Company, 220 Broadway, elevators; Rapp Construction Company, 30 East 42nd street, fireproof arches; H. W. Miller, Inc., 501 East 22nd street, plastering; Wells & Newton Company, Avenue B and 17th street, plumbing and sprinkler system; Lord Electric Company, 105 West 40th street, electric work; Standard Iron Works, 540 West 58th street, ornamental iron, and the Peelle Company, 1321 Park Row, elevator doors.

Charles M. Clark's New Home.

FOREMOST among the improvements under construction in the Park avenue section may be numbered the residence recently started at 713 Park avenue, for Charles M. Clark, treasurer of the Bradstreet Company, 346 Broadway. Plans and specifications for this dwelling were prepared by McKenzie, Voorhees & Gmelin, architects, 1123 Broadway, and the consulting engineers are Clark, McMullen & Riley, 101 Park avenue. The structure is being erected under a general contract by the E. E. Paul Company, 101 Park avenue. The

GEN. GEORGE MOORE SMITH.

Brig.-Gen. George Moore Smith, president of the Candee, Smith & Howland Company, building materials, died on Monday morning at 8:30, at his summer home in the Balmville section of Newburgh, whence his body was borne after a burial service Thursday noon to Kensico Cemetery.

Gen. Smith leaves a widow and a son, Elliot Smith, of New Rochelle. He was 79 years old and had been seriously ill for only five days, but had been failing for some months. His city home was at 1132 Madison avenue.

The death of Gen. Smith has been noted in extended remarks by the press throughout the country and in appropriate resolutions by many organizations, military, commercial, historical and social. He was a national figure, a citizen of the finest type, and his life an example to us all.

Gen. Smith's boyhood and youth were spent at Ellsworth, Me., his young manhood at Boston, his long middle life here in New York City and his closing years on his estate at Newburgh. His life was full of interest. As a young man in Boston he was a member of the famous Union Boat Club, which rowed races against Harvard and Brown University and the crack crews from the Hudson River. Once Gen. Smith rowed in a race against Dr. Charles W. Elliot, of Harvard, and Prof. Louis Agassiz.

Gen. Smith was a remarkable marksman, and even two years ago, after being retired, made a series of bullseyes at the long distance target on the Coldenham range that surprised even those well acquainted with his expertness with the rifle.

At Newburgh he took great interest in the transactions of the Historical Society of Newburgh Bay and the Highlands, and loved to visit the places hallowed by Washington and his generals.

A few years before the Civil War he came to New York and became associated with Howland & Aspinwall, ship brokers. In the year 1870 he became a member of the firm of Candee & Smith, now Candee, Smith & Howland Company, dealers in building materials, with main office and yards at the foot of East 26th street, and other large yards at the foot of East 53d street, and on the Harlem River at 139th street, Bronx. He held membership in the Building Exchange, the General Society of Mechanics and Traders, and the Building Trades Employers' Association.

Gen. Smith was honorary president of the New York Athletic Club and also held membership in the Powelton Club at Balmville, the Automobile Club of America, and Alexander Hamilton Post, G. A. R.

The story of the General's military life and service is a long and most interesting one. For many years he led the National Guard troops of this city. He enlisted in Company B of the 7th Regiment on April 2, 1861. Within four months he had become first sergeant, and in the campaign at Fort Federal Hill, Baltimore, he was made second lieutenant. In 1864 he became first lieutenant, and a few months later he was elected captain. The officers of the regiment chose him as their major in 1870, and eleven years later he was made lieutenant colonel. Gen. Smith served in the 7th for 34 years. He was also secretary of the building committee of the new armory from 1876 to 1880. He was chosen to lead the 69th Regiment in 1895, and became a brigadier-general in 1898.

Always an excellent marksman himself, General Smith sought to improve the quality of marksmanship in the National Guard. He developed organization in the system of practice and was one of the charter members of the National Rifle Association, which established the famous Creedmoor range. He also promoted the international rifle contests held there.

After Col. Frederick Dent Grant had resigned as Police Commissioner of New York, Gen. Smith was appointed by Mayor Strong to the place.

At the burial service there were representatives from the Building Trades Employers' Association, the Association of Dealers in Building Materials, the Board of Officers of the First Brigade, Seventh Regiment, Sixty-ninth Regiment and a delegation from the Presbyterian Church of the Pilgrims, all from New York City. Rev. Dr. Clark, of the Church of the Pilgrims, read the burial service. There was no eulogy. The funeral cortege came in automobiles to Tarrytown and thence to the cemetery at Kensico.

Old Style Fire-Escapes.

Fifty years ago men gave a great deal of thought to inventing means of escape from burning buildings, and experimenting with fire-extinguishers and other life-saving devices to be used at fires. In the first annual report of the Building Department of the City of New York, made in the year 1862, attention is called by Supt. James M. MacGregor to a fire-escape invented by J. W. Mackenzie, which the Superintendent considered to have "many excellent features." He described it as being simply a small iron tube or hollow bead fastened to the building under the cornice and extending entirely across the front.

"The lower part of the tube or bead is open," says the report, "and inside is an iron ball, which revolves upon inner wheels. An iron strap or hook is attached to the ball and from this descends a tackle to which a car or basket and the hose and pipe can be attached in a moment, or raised or lowered at will. Thus the tackle and car can be shifted from window to window to rescue imperiled persons," or at least that was the idea. Imagine every building in the city decorated with a block-and-fall.

Another device recommended by Supt. MacGregor in the same report was an invention of a Mr. Shute. "It consists of a strong iron chain ladder," wrote the Superintendent, "coiled upon an iron windlass under cover upon the roof of the building, and so arranged by an iron rod running from the windlass to the sidewalk as to enable the ladder to be instantly lowered and fastened to the curb, affording a certain means of reaching any part of the highest building in the city."

Buildings were not very high in 1882, but it would be quite a feat for women and children to make the descent of the iron chain ladder in an emergency.

The Superintendent comments in the report upon the large number of houses situated on the rear of lots behind other houses, to which entrance was obtainable only through the hallways of the front houses. He refers also to the five and even six story buildings which had no fire-escapes of any kind—only flights of wooden stairs for exits. The passenger elevator, the smokeproof tower and the unburnable building were then, of course, unknown. The firemen's ladders, when the stairways would be cut off by flames, were the main reliance of the community. And yet no more lives were lost at fires then than now.

Plans for Twenty-third Street Lofts.

Plans have been prepared by William H. Birkmire, architect, 1133 Broadway, and filed in the Building Department, for the sixteen-story store and loft building to be erected at 53-57 West 23d street, running through to 24th street, upon the site of the Eden Musee. The structure is to be built by the Nameloc Company, Michael Coleman, president. The property has a frontage in both streets of 75 feet and is 197.6 feet deep. The building is estimated by the architect to cost $400,000.

Another Brooklyn Factory.

Francisco & Jacobus, architects, 200 Fifth avenue, are preparing plans for a $500,000 five-story reinforced concrete building to be erected by the American Tobacco Company on the plot, 200 x 300 feet, at the corner of Park and Nostrand avenues, Brooklyn, which site formerly was occupied by a Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company car barn. The property was acquired, however, in 1912, by the American Real Estate Company, through L. T. Phillips & Co. The building will be ready for occupancy early in 1916. About 2,000 persons will be employed by the tobacco company.

Park Avenue Apartment Project.

Warren & Wetmore, architects, 16 East 47th street, have been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for a seventeen-story apartment house to be erected by the Fullerton-Weaver Co. on the block front on Park avenue, from 55th to 56th streets. The property, with a frontage of 200.10 feet on Park avenue and 86.8 feet in each street, has been leased for a long term of years from the New York Central Railway Company. The structure will be of the highest type of construction throughout and is expected to cost about $1,600,000. Additional details will be found in another column in this issue.

Another Park Avenue Apartment.

Emory Roth, architect, 405 Lexington avenue, has been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the modern thirteen-story apartment house to be erected by Bing & Bing, 119 West 40th street, on the property recently purchased by them at 568-572 Park avenue. This property adjoins the new Colony Club building and is abutted by the nine-story apartment now being erected in East 62d street by A. L. Mordecai & Son. The property has a frontage on the avenue of 75 feet and is 100 feet deep. It has an outlet in 63d street with a frontage in that thoroughfare of 49.6 feet. The projected building will be of the latest type of construction, built with two suites to each floor, containing eight and nine room exclusive of baths.

Building Code Legislation.

The ordinance relating to excavations and foundations, introduced by the Building Committee, was passed in the Board of Aldermen this week and now goes to the Mayor.

A hearing was held yesterday afternoon by the Building Committee on the ordinance relating to fireproof construction and reinforced concrete. See Record and Guide May 29th.

"Never Anything Else"

Mr. George Kenney of the New York Evening Post answers decidedly in these words when asked if this building has ever used other electrical supply than Edison Service

The Central Station, in fact, has filled all light and power requirements since the property opened in 1907

The publishing of a daily paper of the Evening Post's description calls naturally for service of the highest reliability—the 24-hour kind

Such supply, at a cost actually well under that of private-plant operation, is the privilege only of Edison Service users

Protect Your Building Investment

before the foundation is laid

When you are planning your investment safeguard it at the outset by using only that class of construction which is permanent.

The years as they pass leave unscathed the structure properly built of concrete.

The best concrete requires the best materials.

ADOLPH MERTIN, architect, 34 West 28th st, was recently awarded a verdict in his case against the Board of Education of the borough of Edgewater, N. J. Mr. Mertin prepared plans in 1912 for a new school. The plans were rejected and Mr. Mertin's services discontinued.

EUGENE CICCARELLI, a well known architect of Jersey City, was recently awarded a verdict of $6,500 in his suit against the Hoboken Board of Education. He brought suit for $12,000 as payment for plans for a new school in Hoboken. These plans were not used when the building was erected under the jurisdiction of a new Board of Education.

PYRENE MANUFACTURING COMPANY, manufacturer of the Pyrene Fire Extinguisher, has removed its general offices to 52 Vanderbilt av. A large, steady increase in the volume of business of this company has necessitated more commodious quarters. The new offices have been laid out carefully to secure maximum efficiency in the department, and ample provision has been made for handling the business in a systematic manner.

BY ARRANGING for the co-operation of the property owners along East 41st st, between Lexington and Madison avs, and along Madison av, by presenting a petition to the Public Service Commission, signed by these owners, and containing suggestions for remedy, Maurice Deutsch, consulting engineer, recently succeeded in obtaining a revision of the contract drawings by the Public Service Commission which avoided the placing of 20-inch overhead bypass mains on trestles in front of property along these, and instead, burying these mains permanently through East 40th st, which work is now in progress.

ROBERT F. SMALLWOOD and WILLIAM H. DEACY, architects of New York City, designed the memorial to James Rumsey, who, it is claimed, invented the steamboat. This monument is being erected on a high cliff above the upper Potomac River, near Shepherdstown, West Virginia. The monument consists of a large platform, approached by steps monumental in their proportions. In the center of the platform a massive pedestal is placed, with suitable tablets and ornaments in applied bronze. Above the pedestal rises a graceful Ionic column, eighty feet above the mean grade level. Surmounting the column is a granite ball representing the world and a symbol of the world-wide results of the invention of the steamboat. The design throughout represents an aquatic event—the Ionic column of the Greeks, the tridents and dolphins, and the globe. The memorial is being built of Mount Airy, N. C., granite.

LINWAX MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Indianapolis, Ind., has an entirely new method of treating wood for stable floors or driveways, or for warehouses where heavy trucking grinds cement floors to dust. All the sap is first removed from the best grade yellow pine blocks and a non-volatile wax is then forced into the pores of the wood. The wax is as permanent as the wood itself, keeping out moisture and being thoroughly antiseptic, preventing disintegration through bacterial action and the ordinary process of decay. A severe test is reported. Some of the blocks were ground into sawdust and placed in a solution impregnated with hog cholera germs. An examination a few hours afterward showed that the germs had been entirely destroyed and as a result Linwax flooring is used in one of the largest factories making hog cholera serum. The firm is represented in New York City by Erskine R. Fisher, 103 Park ave.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

MORE WAR MUNITION BUILDINGS CALL FOR MILL MATERIALS IN NEW JERSEY SUBURBS AND CITY

Money Situation Hangs Upon Tone of Germany's Reply

WHOLESALE building material dealers in this city reported a sharp improvement in the volume of business placed for New Jersey building construction this week. Lumber was particularly active in this regard. The report that the American Locomotive Co. and Westinghouse Electric Company were about to erect extensive plants at Elizabeth, the latter for the manufacture of cartridges, was responsible for a sharp upturn in inquiries from that quarter for basic factory material, including Portland cement, brick, roofing, partition and siding material and pine flooring. From New England came inquiries for larger supplies from dealers looking forward to heavy mill construction in their territories and from Athenia, N. J., came inquiries for material to supply the plant of the Richardson Scale Company.

There was a better tone to speculative building material, indicating that investors have been able to find money to prosecute their plans at rates of interest more attractive. Structural steel is still reported at practically the same level as heretofore on current business, but on deliveries running over the third quarter there is a tendency to stiffen quotations, not because of any marked improvement in tonnage being specified, but because other demands upon the capacity of the steel mills is such as to make it necessary to get a higher price for structural material to make it profitable to give even 10 per cent. of capacity to rolled building steel. War orders and railroad equipment demands are now taking up about 90 per cent. of the capacity of the United States Steel Corporation.

Current steel prices are now around 1.85c and 1.90c store, Waverly, N. J., for metropolitan district delivery, which price ruled when the output of the steel plants was nearer 65 per cent. of capacity. The new price for third quarter business is reported to be near 1.95c and 2.00c.

In spite of a strike of the laborers at the Haverstraw common brick works up the Hudson, the price of Hudson River brick steadied this week on run-of-kiln 1914 brick. Good, well burned 1915 common brick brought $6 and $6.25 as against $5.75 and $6 for last year's product of uneven color and burn. There was a moderate buying movement by dealers to take up this material where they had jobs capable of absorbing this sort of brick, but the better grades of brick were held for higher class jobs. Raritan common brick was firm at $6 and $6.25 a thousand.

Linseed oil continues to recede, the current price being 62 and 63 cents, New York and 63 and 64 cents for out of town. There is a chance of this commodity moving down still further, but it will not affect the paint and varnish market because of the high cost of gums and colors owing to the difficulty of getting them into this country.

There is reported to be a sharpening of demand for metal lath, the increasing use of this material for reinforcing tile floors, to prevent cracking, having developed to such an extent that certain companies have been prompted to make special grades to meet this requirement.

Copper and brass salesmen said this week that they looked for another increase in the price of these two commodities before the first of the month. Also in lead and spelter, which would immediately send the price of galvanized ware higher. Sheet copper now brings 25½ cents and sheet brass 30. The expected levels are 26½ for copper and 31 for brass. Manufacturers of decorative brass goods, like andirons and fireplace fixtures, have had to increase their wholesale quotations another 10 per cent. This is the second increase reported since the first of the year and represents a total of 20 per cent.

The war is making the glass market firm. Quotations are on 90 and 20 per cent. discounts now, whereas May 1, 1914, lists showed a discount of 90 and 30. That is why builders are having to meet higher retail prices except in cases where dealers are using old stocks and are willing to shade quotations of competitors not quite so fortunate.

The easing of the money market in New York is expected to have a reflected effect upon suburban building projects if the reply of Germany to the American note is satisfactory to Wall street, thereby causing no reaction in finances. Conditions are ripe for a very active building movement in this vicinity after the turn of the half year and the present easing of money is attributed to the belief generally felt that the German note will be pacific.

Plan filings in the five boroughs for the week just closed follow: In the corresponding week last year 268 new building plans were filed with an estimated value of $2,587,075.

LINSEED OIL.

Price Retraction Continues But Paints Not Affected.

ALTHOUGH the price of linseed oil has receded in this market there is little prospect of there being a corresponding change in the price of paints and varnishes.

"This war is making it increasingly difficult for us to obtain pigments and gums for varnish making," said the head of a big paint concern in Newark this week, "and no matter what happens to the price of linseed oil we would still have to charge as much, if not more, than present quotations for our products. Lead is way out of proportion to its usual market and all sorts of mineral colors are high. Tin and steel for barreling and packaging paints and varnishes are higher than ever and so no one looks for any change from the present situation because of any downward action in linseed oil."

BUILDING METALS.

Third Quarter Steel Prices Up Five Cents —Current Business Quiet.

WHILE no official statement was made by the steel interests of this city regarding a price advance in structural material, it was intimated that a change upward of five cents might be expected within a short time on structural orders for New York delivery running into the third quarter. The cause of this change in the present comparatively stagnant condition of the structural steel market was ascribed to pressure upon steel mill capacity by war orders. An official of a large steel company said:

"We are now operating our plants at about 90 per cent. of capacity. Most of this is for other lines than building requirements. The prospects are that before long we will have to increase even this capacity. Prices obtained in the present sharp market for ship plates, machinery parts, war material and shrapnel goods are much more favorable than those which are ruling for structural material, and in order to be able to afford to set aside capacity for building equipment we are simply forced to consider the matter of getting a more favorable price for rolled steel."

Structural steel has shown no change in price, but there is a much more active demand from building interests in the upper mark of the Bronx and also in the large suburban towns, notably Newark. Pig iron had a more active call from equipment companies. The radiator situation is still disturbed by price cutting, but there are signs of an early adjustment of the present difficulties.

PORTLAND CEMENT.

June Shipments Expected to Exceed Those of Recent Months.

ADVICES from the Lehigh district covering Portland cement shipments for the month of June indicate that when the compilations are completed there will be shown to have been a shipment from three to seven per cent. at the lowest in excess of those for May and about five per cent. in excess of shipments covering any month in at least a year from July 1.

There is now nearly 90 per cent. of the Lehigh valley kiln capacity in service, excluding the idle plant of the Edison Portland Cement Company at New Village, which probably will not be operated again until the price of this commodity passes 90 cents, mill.

Further action in jacking up the market price of cement in this city was postponed this week, partly because recent intermittent rainy and clear weather checked consumption to an extent sufficient to retard movements to job. But it is freely predicted by those whose opinion in the cement market is worth having that $1.43 Portland cement will be the rule instead of the exception before many weeks elapse, good building weather permitting.

Representatives of the Hagar Portland Cement Company were in the Lehigh district late last week and visited several plants on cost ascertaining errands. They had previously been in the Hudson district on the same errand. Official announcement regarding the names of the two companies in this vicinity that will figure in the Hagar chain was withheld for the present.

METAL LATH.

Manufacturers Expect Big Things of Tile Reinforcement.

METAL lath manufacturers face one of the biggest and most prosperous eras in their history, according to information obtained from manufacturing centers this week. The difficulty of obtaining wood lath in quantity from Canada has been very much exaggerated, however, as shown by the fact that prices in this market have steadily receded during the last few months.

"But the great demand for quickly constructed factory buildings," said a metal lath man, is improving our market. That accounts for the rush. There is, however, a hope for permanent business through the nation-wide tendency to lay tile floors on a reinforcement base to prevent cracking. Until done, there is no reason why a tile floor should crack if there is proper metal reinforcement under it. The theory is that if the mortar bed is laid upon the flooring to be covered with tile, and the reinforcement is pushed down into the mastic when soft, and the tile set upon the clinching keys as they are forced through the mesh, a permanent level floor is obtained and no cracks can occur through the warping of the building for any cause because the reinforcement forms an individual floor arch over each indention in the flooring, keeping the tile surface absolutely even and rigid.

"This method is being gradually developed by the use of ordinary or core grade metal lath. In consequence our sales have felt a sharp improvement and "Hardware" thus explains the cause to us."

COMMON BRICK.

Haverstraw Strike Fails to Keep New York Market Firm.

HAVERSTRAW'S brick yard laborers' strike has not seriously affected the New York brick market. In fact prices sagged perceptibly in a dull market. There is an abundant supply here for all immediate needs. Raritan brick also felt the effect of the recent wet weather and stimulated buying in Manhattan, but brick movements from both grades move fairly steadily to Bronx, Brooklyn and Newark.
